

"I don't think that a white male

MARY ROGAL-BLACK

THE BRUNSWICKAN

CHSR's Program Manager has filed a grievance with the Board of Directors in response to the hiring of the new Station Manager.

The grievance, submitted by Tristis Bhaird in the first week of September, states that in "passing over a qualified woman as the new Station Manager," the Board violated the station's Employment Equity Policy.

According to the policy, women, aboriginal people, people with disabilities and visible minorities are to be given preference when more than one candidate meets the specific qualifications for a position statement reads. "In choosing to that he was going to bring to it," accept the Hiring Committee's recommendation the Board has had to set aside the Employment Equity Policy."

In the grievance, Bhaird further states that the reasons for the decision of the hiring committee to select Tony Sekulich for the position of Station Manager were never made clear to her, and that her efforts to understand the situation drew an "angry" response from a member of the hiring committee.

"I request that the Board of Directors reconsider their decision candidates. However, she said she in the light of the Employment doesn't think the committee took Equity Policy, and take a balanced and objective look at my into consideration when making

Conservation and Management

KATE ROGERS

Dean of Forestry.

qualifications as they compare to their choice. Mr. Sekulich's," Bhaird writes.

Committee Chair Colleen should be hired over a white female. I think that there should be Comeau defends the decision." Sekulich was the all-around employment equity," said number one choice," said Comeau. Hellmeister. "I don't believe that "Except for one person who had when we were doing the hiring we him second."

were looking at 'this is a person of Comeau said the committee's color' or 'this is a woman' or 'this is decision was based, in part, on the a straight or a gay individual.' We desire to improve the atmosphere were looking for someone who at the station. "We felt first and would do a really good job." foremost he would improve morale "We saw an individual come in and take it in a positive direction." who had a positive outlook and a UNB SU President Joie good attitude and he seemed to be prepared," she said. Hellmeister was also on the hiring committee and stands by the The complaint is one more of a series of issues that have arisen at the campus decision. "Tony gave an awesome interview," she said. radio station in recent months. Indeed, "He had some experience in Sekulich's hiring came after the campus radio and he also had a lot dismissal of Jeff Whipple, who had been "The Board has chosen not to of great ideas that he was going to Station Manager at CHSR for eight years. hire me for the position," Baird's implement and a positive attitude Following the dismissal, CHSR paid a $12,000 settlement to Whipple. According to the terms of the said Hellmeister. Bhaird's qualifications were not settlement, the employer admits no lacking, according to Hellmeister. wrong doing and the employee agrees "There were a lot of qualified to pursue the matter no further. people. Everybody who came to Monique Scholten, UNB SU VP interview had experience in Finance, said in council on Tuesday campus radio. She is qualified."

hiring committee discussed the gender, race or sexual orientation

THE BRUNSWICKAN

-

that the total bill for the settlement The SU President said she does not and associated legal fees came to disagree with the Employment $19,000.These expenses will come Equity policy on which Bhaird's out of CHSR's operating budget, grievance is based. Hellmeister, who and Scholten agreed that this listened to tape recordings of the forced the station to tighen its belt interviews, admits that she wasn't in a revised budget. able to attend meetings in which the

"They had to cut out a lot of wrong. Whitney agreed that both sides things that weren't absolutely necessary," she said.

TRISTIS BHAIRD, PROGRAM MANAGER AT CHSR-FM. PAT FITZPATRICK PHO

In addition to financial concerns,

some members are worried about the atmosphere at the station

following the tension of the station member and newly-appointed Board Member. "Both sides are waiting for someone to do

Fredericton campus; down 86 from part-time students show a decrease

"I am not alarmed by these

to the fact that part-time enrollment

In the meantime, Graduate student enrollment on the Fredericton campus has remained stable this year compared with last.

Graduate enrollment is up five students to stand at 673, as of

of 66 on the Saint John campus.

tends to fluctuat somewhat.

summer months.

have legitimate concerns, but said this is a fair assessment of the situation that while she wanted to welcome "If you went to the membership and the new Station Manager with an asked them for names of the people she's seen so far.

"He's basically fallen into the "It's been really stressful and same problems with a clique antagonistic," said M.K. Whitney, a operation," said Whitney. "With everything that's happened, the membership is very happened, everyone would give you different names."

As well, when asked about concerns among some station the hiring committee, Sekulich said they don't know the whole story.

Sekulich, however, doesn't believ

Continued on Page 3 Full-time enrollment on the rise at UNB and STU

registered for fall classes on the

GORDON LOANE THE BRUNSWICKAN

a year ago. Enrollment numbers for Despite an 8.8 percent increase in tuition this fall, full-time undergraduate enrollment on the UNB Fredericton campus continues decreases," said Dennison, referring to increase.

Figures supplied by UNB Registrar Deanne Dennison show that fulltime undergraduate enrollment as of October 10 stood at 7,088, up 159 over this time last year. Enrollment on the UNB Saint John campus decreased by 32 students to stand at 1,804. On the Fredericton campus more October 10. UNB's Registrar also reports than half of the 159 increase in stable enrollment in all faculties.

region," Dennison emphasized. Overall, Dennison attributes the healthy enrollment picture at UNB a year ago. this fall to several factors.

University officials have been undergraduates, according to Batt. promoting UNB as a good place to study.

programs are of a very high quality," she said.

"There is a lot of concern at UNB for the students, and we try to encourage that and hopefully have different programs and activities in enrollment comes from New place that make a true statement Brunswick while 20% comes from when the student actually arrives," PEI,

Brunswick and the Atlantic decreased slightly. There were 326 part-time undergraduates registered as of October 1, compared with 354

Saint Thomas has a 70/30 female She points to the fact that to male ratio among STU also has several extension programs off-campus. There are 82 "We emphasize the fact that our full and part-time students taking coures on the Miramichi and 34 Native students studying full time in first year courese at Saint Mary's and Burnt Church.

Seventy-six percent of STU's Nova Scotia and open mind, she is troubled by what responsible for the things that members that he knew people on wary," she added. "I think he needs to be neutral right now."

the international competition and reputation of the forest industry and its stewardship of forested land," said Methven, who believes that the main focus for the faculty is global networking.

"We expect that the research undertaken by the Centre will enhance

Forestry gets big bucks

A $1 million grant to UNB's Faculty of Forestry and Environmental Management is just the latest in a series of successes for the department.

The grant, from Avenor Inc. and Noranda Forest Inc., will fund the establishment of the Avenor-Noranda Forest Centre for Watershed

"The primary purpose of the Centre is to partner with the forest ent and management at the watershed level," said Ian Methvan.

industry and other institutions such as the Universite de Moncton and the University of Maine to implement adaptive environmental

One of the spinoffs of new studies such as the Watershed project is the potential for jobs associated with research and development, but employment of its graduates has not been a problem for the faculty of Forestry up until now. The faculty monitors the progress of its graduates after their departure from UNB, and the department has boasted a 100% employment rate among graduating students for the past three years.

Dave Daugherty, Assistant Dean of Forestry, asserts that the continued success of students is the department's main goal." If our students don't succeed, then we don't succeed."

Daugherty credits the faculty's excellent employment record to the efforts of students themselves. Forestry students manage a national job bank. "We gave them an office and we gave them space, but it is the students who monitor their own job bank," he enthused.

As well, Forestry entrance numbers have doubled since 1991. It's not surprising that the Globe and Mail recently ranked the UNB Forestry program number one in Canada and among the top three overall programs in the country.

enrollment can be attributed to new students. First year enrollment is up 94 students this fall to stand at 1.539. The numbers just about match what UNB Administration officials had projected, according to Registrar Dennison.

We had projected that enrollment would be up marginally in Fredericton and down margina in Saint John." Dennison said.

"I still think this is basically where we are going to be when we officially report our enrollment numbers on December 1," she said. Part-time undergraduate enrollment is down marginally at both

Fredericton and Saint John this fall. To date, some 1,243 students have with Arts reporting a slight increase. Enrollment numbers in the a lot of work on retention activities Education faculty are also quite healthy, according to Dennison "Overall, we are quite happy with years the outcome," she emphasized. One area for analysis, however, we use, introduced a CD-ROM, so I Association of Universities. There will be a decrease in new student enrollment at UNB Saint John. Numbers show enrollment is down 23 students to stand at 647. "We would not be happy with that," said Dennison. "We will be doing a lot of analysis in these numbers to see where we went down." "We do check to see that we are maintaining what we would expect to have from New Dennison said. UNB has been doing Newfoundland and she also points to the use of new promotional material in recent remains virtually unchanged from think it is a result of a lot of hard were 48,345 full-time underwork," said Dennison.

Meanwhile, full-time undergraduate enrollment at Saint Thomas University is also up this fall.

Saint Thomas has 1,936 full-time students registered as of October 1. up 23 from this time a year ago. according to STU Registrar Larry Batt. First year enrollment is up by 13.5% to 681 students from 600 last year.

Overall, full time undegraduate enrollment at Maritime Universities last year, according to Anne Marie "We changed a lot of the materials MacKinnon of the Atlantic graduates in the Maritimes as of October 1, down 61 from a last year

> 3.704 were registered as of October 1, representing a 4.1% increase compared to a year ago

> Total overall full-time Maritime enrollment in Universities (graduate and undergraduate) stands at 52,049,

Turning to graduate enrollment,

11

12

13