

AUTHOR'S PREFACE.

This memoir is to be regarded simply as a compilation, and not as representing, in any way, the result of field investigations by the author. The essential data and facts were gathered from the studies of Mr. E. R. Faribault: who not only assisted in the work of compilation by the impartation of valuable information and by lucid explanation, but, after reading the original manuscript, tendered many useful hints and helpful suggestions. The preparation of the maps and mine plans was, to a large extent, also, under his careful supervision.
