
The Garden Frame

Two-branched Aucuba cutting, inserted in bed of soil in the Frame

There are innumerable varieties, in many shades of colour, and providing they are kept cool and moist during the summer months, they are easy to grow. Chinese Primulas are hardier than is commonly supposed; seed sown in a frame in April and May will produce autumn and early winter flowers, and the plants are usually quite safe in an unheated frame until Christmas. Primula malacoides, a dainty little pink-flowered plant, will blossom in autumn from seed sown in a