nationanx received an intimation that very important changes were to be made ; that persons who were receiving money from the State, when they had other means of subsistence, would be struck off the list; and that real and productive labour would be substituted for the play and idleness which have hitherto been practiced. At the same time, some changes were made in the sub-directors and foremen. The turbulent portion of the workmen began to display very unequivocal signs of resistance On the removal cf M. Emile Thomas, the young man who had been placed at the head of the ateliers nationaux by Ledru Rollin, the workmen declared their intention to go down in a body to rights should be respected. REACTIONARY PLOTS.

The legitimists, or the old Bourbon party, are busily at work in the present disordered state of things, to restore the old days of royalty. It is said that a secret understanding between the legitimists and the Orleans party has been brought

When the vote was taken in the Assembly upon the question of the banishment of the Orleans family, 130 members, mostly belonging to the party of the gauche in the late Chamber of Deputies, abstained from voting ; but among those who composed the majority which carried the bill exiling the late royal family, were several who had been Ministers of Louis Philippe. Among the members who abstained from voting, was M. Odillon Barrot; and among the first who voted for the banishment was M. Duver-

FRENCH FINANCES.

The financial condition of France appears to occupy the French and English papers of the week to a very great extent. The receipts on imports which were 12,725,150f. in April 1846, and 10,750,672f. in April 1847, fell to 3,764,-590f. in April 1848. In the same month the amount paid on cotton wool imported fell from 1,197,193f. in 1846 to 578,533f. in 1847, and 202,405f. in 1848. Cast iron from 433,597f. in 1847 to 92,125f. in 1848. The fall off in the other branches of the revenue derived from direct taxation, in the month of April 1848, represented as amounting to twenty-three millions of francs.

It is ascertained that the actual cost of the day is four thousand five hundred dollars.

> The effects of the singular and unexpect ed flight of the Emperor can hardly be foretold. The conservative classes of Vienna, alarmed at the success of the students and the populace, loudly called on the Emperor to return. A deputation was sent to urge it ; but it seems that the call was not successful. His Majesty assigns, as the reason of his deparfure, the disorderly turn till he has had proof that the city has renobles are reported to be following the Emperor to Innspruck, which is becoming unwontedly gay According to information contained in the Cologne corps to repair to Innspruck, and has decreed the abolition of the University of Vienna. No sooner had the Emperor effected his retreat to Innspruck, than he issued a decree for the dissolution of the Vienna Ministry. Upon the Ministers attempting compliance, the students resisted, and were mmediately joined by the National Guard and the populace generally. The military retreated, one or two lives were sacrificed, barricades were thrown up at intervals of a few paces in every part of the city, the Exchange was closed, the mails were stopped, and every determination manifested to maintain a deadly struggle. Appalled, as usual, by the attitude of the people, the Ministry, after many hours of uncertainty, yielded to their demands. The order for the dissolution of the University was annulled, the troops were compelled to leave the city, and the victory, in short, on the part of the people, was complete.

interesting and valuable as "indicating the tendencies of the times at the Pontifical City ...

"If you had, dearest friend, to come now to Rome, you would be moved to tears by the mere aspect of that city, but lately so Catholic, and at present so changed, in the short period of eighteen months, when I saw it last, that I hardly could recognize it again. The clergy are abused, the poor Jesuits driven away; instead of sermons you hear a kind of political speeches uttered from the pulpit. Honest men sink their heads, and expect in a sort of stupor nothing but mischief to faith and religion. The head of the State is surrounded by new advisers, some of whom are even in many respects hostile to Catholicism. exhibiting in the management of public affairs unequivocal signs of inability and discourage ment, which affords to the progressive party the most sanguine trust of being soon able to break every curb and go beyond all bounds. Such are the prospects I have had before me since I came Yesterday there was a rumor of an intended slaughter of all the Jews by the mob. To-day it is a Jesuit who, on being recognised in the Corso, has been most wantonly outraged by members of the National Guard. Two days ago a Dominican Friar received a blow in the face with a stick, and the suppression of that Order is already talked about. Is all this not greatness and calmness which seemed to raise it grain junkmen out of employ. far above all these paltry concerns of modern political sophistry ? Rome, which appeared to be moved only by the imposing recollections of the past, the sublime instructions of Catholicism and the splenders of art; that very Rome is now turned into a place of disturbance and riots; of journalism and declaration, matching in that respect the foremost of modern cities, and beating complying, the consul finally laid an embargo them all in absurdity and bad taste. Even the air you inhale seems to be impregnated with the North, with a view of forcing the authorities revolutionary ferment, striving to overthrow everything. Seeing how they are going here adrift, I am really afraid they will soon run against the paganism of '93, if you except the had been ordered to be in readiness to assist, guillotine and the noyades, which the Italians and the embargo then continued in force. do not precisely require, perhaps, happily, for want of sufficient energy to go to that length."

The latest accounts from Rome state that a collision is imminent. The retrograde party, including a certain number of the cardinals, are attempting to raise the Transfeverini, and to sow dissensions among the National Guard. For some time past they have been plotting to carry off the Pope to Subiaco, with a view of exciting the sympathy of Europe in favour of His Holi ness, and against the people. "God grant," cries the Constitutional, "that blood may not already have flowed in the treets of the Pontifical city."

It is, we believe, tolerably well known that these gentleman were empowered to negociate with the Canadian Government on the part of Nova Scotia on certain subjects of mutal interest to the several North American Provinces; and the Mercury has been correctly informed that two of of those subjects are the Halifax railway and reciprocal free trade between the Province: the other is the Post Office question. WITHOUT DAYS. Dr. Baird, in a recent lecture at Hartford, Conn., gave some interesting facts. There is nothing that strikes a stranger more forcibly, if he visits Sweden at the season of the year when the days are longer than the absence of night. The sun in June goes down at Stockholm a little before ten o'clock. There is a great illumination all night as the sun passes round the earth towards the North Pole, and the refraction of its rays is such that you can see to read at midnight. Dr. Baird read a letter in the forest near Stockholm at midnight, without artificial light. There is a mountain at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia, where, on the 21st of June, the sun does not go down at all. Travellers go up there to see it. A steamboat goes up from Stockholm for the purpose of carrying those who are curious to witness the phenomenon. It only occurs one night. The sun goes down to the horizon, you can see the whole face of it, and in five minutes it begins to rise.

At the North Cape, lat, 72 degrees, the sun does not go down for several weeks. In June it believed in the sear of re-believed in the sear of re-give effect by proclamation to the reciprocity clause or the Customs Act.—But they are wil-then descends, and finally it does not set at all. ling to admit the native products of Nova Scotia | but makes almost a circle around the heavens.
