

AN EUGENIC WILL.

A railroad accident took place in this time near London, by which a Mr. Relling was killed, who was it seems an eccentric character of the queerest kind. He was a man of wealth, and his heirs paid him the accustomed funeral honors, expecting to enjoy liberal bequests; but when his will was opened it read as follows:

"I give and bequeath all my goods, property, and movables immovable, in England, or on the continent, to that railroad company on whose road I may find the happiness to meet with death, that blessed deliverance from my spiritual poison, may avail."

Further on, the testator gives his reasons for his bequest: "The testator had taken firm possession of his mind that he was destined to die a violent death, and the most desirable one, in his view, was that caused by the explosion of a locomotive." He travelled, therefore, constantly, on the railroads in England, Ireland, and France. There was not a station where he did not know. All the circumstances were familiar, with his peculiar costume. He had narrowly escaped death several times. Once he was shut up in a car under water, another time he was in the next car to the one that was shattered and he described with the greatest enthusiasm those terrible accidents, when he saw death so near without being able to obtain it. Disappointed in Europe, he went to the United States. He made frequent excursions on the Ohio, the Mississippi, the Ontario, and the Niagara, but notwithstanding frequent explosions, he returned with a whole skin. He was destined to be crushed under a car of the mother country.

GOOD HIRING WAYS.

Making Diamonds.—One of the most curious sights at Paris, or indeed in the whole world, is afforded by a visit to the vast studio of M. Bourguignon, situated at Barrière de Tronc, where the whole process of transforming a few grains of dirty, heavy looking sand into a diamond of the purest water, is daily going on, with the avowed purpose of deceiving every body but the buyer. The sand employed, and upon which everything depends, is found in the Forest of Fontainebleau, and enjoys so great a reputation in the trade, that large quantities are exported. The coloring matter for imitating emeralds, rubies, and sapphires, is entirely mineral, and has been brought to high perfection by M. Bourguignon. He maintains in constant employment about a hundred workmen, besides a number of women and young girls, whose business it is to polish the colored stones, and line the false pearls with fish scales and wax.

Gloos-Cheese.—Take some common lime and mix it with a quantity of tar—just enough to make a dough. Use it quick, because it becomes hard in a few moments, and will never soak or crumble. This is a first-rate cement for the purpose of making swine-troughs, feeding troughs, ovens' troughs, and many other things water-tight.

Neurology, or SCIALIC RHEUMA.

TIME CURED.

This may easily, but for short four years, I was seriously afflicted with a disease in the hip, which Physician called Neurology, or Scialic Rheumatism, and resorted to various remedies without any permanent relief; have been under the care of a regular Physician for six months at a time. Last spring, had a very violent attack, which laid me up, when I made use of the Cramp and Pain Killer, prepared by Messrs. Curtis & Perkins of Bangor. It gave me immediate relief, and I do not hesitate to say, that it is the best article I ever used. I cheerfully recommend it to all who may be afflicted with similar complaints.

HUNTER'S PULMONARY BALM.

Hour what the Daily Mercury of Bangor says of Doc. Penney.

Hunter's Balsm. It is not often that we can say anything favorable of patent medicines, on the testimony of those with whom we are acquainted, who have used and tested them, and in regard to Hunter's Balsm, yet so far as our fellow Jovinian Curtis, Esq. has given us the testimony of many of our own citizens and those of neighbouring towns, unanimous in its praise. The testimony of one individual with whom the public are acquainted, carries with it more weight than whole columns of certificates from strangers, whose names we never saw, and whose certificates, for ought we know, may have been procured by fraud. See Dr. Benjamin L. Penney's testimony, in agent's hands, or Heal the People's Press, Skowhegan, Me.

Hunter's Pulmonary Balsm.—To those afflicted with Cough, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, and all afflictions of the Lungs, we recommend Hunter's Pulmonary Balsm. It is believed to be the best article ever yet invented for these complaints.

A man lately died in England, whose estates are valued at seven million pounds.

A Man in Michigan. not long since committed suicide by drowning. As the body could not be found, the coroner held an inquest on his hat and jacket, found on the bank of the lake. Verdict "Found empty."

If only were pain, there would be groaning every hour.

The morning-hour has gold in its mouth.

An inquest on the poor, ne'er-do-well, was despatched by all his hearers save Plato, to whom he said: "I shall proceed, nevertheless—into himself an audience!"

A retired schoolmaster excuses his passion for angling, by saying that, from constant practice, he must always take himself, unless he's handing the rod.

An animal which was going to court, said he was going to prove no evidence.

Mrs. Grumby, in looking over the advertisements the other day saw one, "Medical Cures," Well said she, "I'm glad if they don't get a way to cure them, medical, for they've been turning the world upside down ever since T. was born."

Some advocates of felonies have, hasty remissly, that those who go to law for damages are sure to get them paid off.

MRS. WINSTOW.

An experienced Female Physician, presents to the attention of Merchants, the following:

SOOTHING SYRUP.For Children's Teething.

For the Nervous Diseases, Convulsions, Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, &c. that attend this period of childhood, she recommends it to produce the desired effect, giving Rest to the Mother, and Relief to the Infants.

A child in Congress-street was cured of the Soothing Syrup of Infantile Distress by Dr. Winstow, who was giving it to the attending Physician.

Mr. Chapman of Edgerton, Pa., has raised a raised figure of the Syrup in children which is in the view. It is sold.

The parent-informing medical child was referred to as a strong infant, with Flatulence and Wind Colic. Lastly they have and the Soothing Syrup and it always yields a speedy cure.

Hundreds of fine instances might be enumerated.

PROOF POSITIVE.

Messrs. CURTIS & PERKINS.—Please send us a further supply of Soothing Syrup. We are sending large quantities of it, and we have learned, it is used with uniform success, both by children and adults, in all cases of Distemper or Diarrhea.

You're responsible.
