

THE HURON SIGNAL

FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1881.

STRUCK BY THE N. P. BOOM.

The proceedings of the Chancery Court held here last week were enlivened by an incident which occurred in the examination of Mr. J. D. Ronald, defendant in the case of Brussels vs. Ronald. Ronald is an enthusiast on the Nation Policy and Rag Baby questions, and is always ready for a wordy fight as to their merits. Old acquaintances of the defendant asserted at the beginning of his examination that he would allude to the N. P. in glowing terms before he got out of the witness box. And they were not disappointed.

Mr. Chas. Moss, counsel for Ronald, in seeking to prove the value of defendant's plant, asked him if his machinery was destroyed and he had to replace it in just the same condition as it is now in, what would it cost him?

Ronald's N. P. proclivities immediately asserted themselves. He drew himself straight, ran his hands through his hair, and boastfully answered:

'That's hard to say, sir. It is hard to get hold of bankrupt stock now, or get machinery cheap at auction sales, for we have the National Policy, and things are booming!'

The shout of laughter which greeted this statement silenced further remarks from the N. P. enthusiast. His lawyer sank back into his chair, and with his Lordship the Chancellor, joined in the general grin.

'It wasn't a 'boom' in his case,' remarked a former Brusselotte to Mr. McLennan, who was in Court.

'No,' replied the witty Q.C., 'it was a boom-erang.'

The point of the above will be best understood, when the reader knows that Mr. Ronald about two years ago received $20,000 of a bonus from the village of Brussels to remove his business to that place from Chatham, and that he is now possessor of not one cent of the bonus money, and is badly in debt.

The Star dubs the member for North Huron, the 'Hon.' Mr. Farrow. Isn't it a little hard on the Cabinet?

To counterbalance the defeat of the Scott-Act in Hamilton, last week, two counties have since pronounced in its favor, Halton by 87 of a majority, and Annapolis, U.S., by 1 over 1,200.

BEACONSFIELD'S desire as to his funeral obsequies were in keeping with his character for surprises. It was expected that his love of pomp and show would even crop out in his directions for burial, and that an impressive funeral ceremony at Westminster Abbey would be his desire; but the wish turned out to be for a quiet resting place beside his wife at Haghtenden.

OUR usually well informed contemporary, the Toronto World, is estray as to the editorial experience and capabilities of Carl Schurz, Secretary of the Interior in Hayes' Cabinet. Mr. Schurz is an old and experienced journalist, who for many years edited a leading Missouri newspaper. In fact, he had the reputation of being the ablest writer on the German-American press.

It is to be hoped that the Conservative organs are now satisfied that the Globe endorses Hon. Edward Blake. The leading article in Friday's issue of the Canadian Thunderer should silence every innendo as to the loyalty of that journal to the Liberal chief. A more united party than the Reformers of Canada, as at present constituted, never existed before in Canada. And in their heart of hearts, the Conservative scribes know it, too.

A deputation of millers recently called upon Sir Leonard Tilley and Hon. Mr. Bowell, and asked that the word 'product' in the bonding system be changed to 'equivalent.' Under the present regulations for every four and a half bushels of American wheat imported the millers agree to export a barrel of flour, and what they want is to be allowed to mix this wheat in equal proportions with Canadian product, for home consumption or export, as the case may be. They claim that the Ontario wheat is too soft to produce strong bakers' flour, but mixed with the hard Minnesota wheat they would be enabled to better compete with American flour. The Minister promised to give the matter a careful consideration.

The Blake banquet was an unqualified success. This was sure to be the case when it became known that there were six hundred applications for three hundred seats. As we have said before, Sir John Macdonald has culminated, and Mr. Blake is the rising sun. As he is a man of great ability and undoubted moral conscientiousness, the future can be looked forward to with complacency. Everything portends that he will, before long, be tried, not simply as leader of an Opposition, but as leader of the Government, for under the bill of the rule seems to be to give governments but a single term.—(Toronto Telegram.)

Our contemporary, we trust, has not forgotten that the Liberal Administration formed in Ontario by Mr. Blake has stood the test of two elections, and is now stronger in the House than it has been during the ten years of its existence.

ST. GEORGE'S.

Successful Opening of the New Church.

The Old and the New—Description of the Edifice—Impressive Services of Sunday Last—Eloquent Discourses by Rev. Canon Carmichael, of Hamilton, and Rev. E. McCoach, of Bayfield.

On Sunday last a most interesting and impressive ceremony occurred in Goderich, on the occasion of the opening of the new St. George's Church, situated on North street. Three services were held during the day—morning afternoon and evening—and the attendance at each was exceedingly large, particularly in the morning and evening. For the benefit of our readers who may not have a previous knowledge of the facts connected with the erection of the new edifice we give the following:

THE OLD CHURCH structure, on St. George's Crescent, which had for some forty years been the place of worship for the Episcopalian denomination, was burned down on the 23rd of November, 1879. On the previous Sunday it had been consecrated to God, the old-time debt having been wiped away, and everything looked as if prosperity was in store for the congregation when the direful event upset all their pleasant hopes. An unusually large vestry meeting was immediately held, and it was unanimously resolved to build a new church. A subscription list of $6,000 was made up in six weeks, plans and specifications were called for and accepted, and the contract was awarded. The sod on the new site was broken on the 9th of June, 1880, and the corner stone was laid with Masonic ceremony by Deputy Grand Master Kerr, of Toronto, on the 25th of the same month. The work has since been pushed on as rapidly as possible, and the hope of the promoters of the scheme was realized at the opening of the sacred edifice on Sunday morning last. Much praise is given to the Venerable Archdeacon Elwood, for his efforts in facilitating the operations, and the energy exhibited by Rev. B. Hicks, Curate of St. George's, is also favorably commented upon. During the interval between the destruction of the old church and the opening of the new, the worship was conducted in the Court House, which was kindly placed at the disposal of the congregation by the County Council of Huron. The following is a

DESCRIPTION OF THE NEW CHURCH.

The building is of Kincardine brick, with Ohio freestone trimmings and dressings. The architecture throughout is Gothic, the building being cruciform in shape, with chancel extending 34 feet back, and transepts 16 feet on either side. The dimensions are: From the front entrance to the rear of chancel, 104 feet, the chancel being 26 feet long and 24 feet wide; the transepts are 72 feet in extreme length, with a width of 28 feet; the nave is 40 feet wide. The tower is situated at the southeast corner, and through this will be the main entrance. When completed the spire will be 145 feet high, finished with ornamental slate. The coping and trimmings on the roof, with the crosses, are all of galvanized iron. Inside, the ceiling is of stainer wood, supported by handsome arches. The archway over the chancel bears the text in blue and gold, 'The Lord is in His Holy Temple.' At the angle of the north transept and the chancel, is situated the organ, the front facing into the chancel. Two rows of seats on each side will be occupied by the choir. The reading desk and the pulpit are reached by the platform extending from the chancel into the transepts. The window in the rear of the chancel, is the one presented to the church while occupying their old edifice, by Mrs. Widder. It has been enlarged and remodelled, and is an exceedingly handsome piece of work. The windows are all of stained glass, and the effect upon entering the church is strikingly beautiful. This work was done by McCausland & Co., of the Canada Stained-glass Works, of Toronto, and is quite satisfactory. The cost will be about $700. The building will be lighted with the gas apparatus of Mr. James Adamson, of London. The gas is supplied from a large tank of gasolene, sunk in the ground entirely outside of the church, from whence it is forced by an air pump through the pipes, as those in the front. The pews are finished in the natural wood, being of pine, with cherry capping, and are exceedingly comfortable. They were made by Buchanan, Lawson & Co. The organ was found to be so damaged after the fire in the former building that it had to be sent to the maker, Mr. G. House, of Buffalo. It has been thoroughly overhauled and refitted, at a cost of $500, and is guaranteed by Mr. House to be as good as new and in all respects a first-class instrument. The painting and ornamentation of the pipes is the handiwork of our townsman, Mr. H. Cleucus. The painting and gilding on the scroll work and capitals which surmount the chancel arch also testify to the skill and taste of the above named artist. The communion table, which is of very handsome in design, is of cherry, panelled and inlaid with crimson. The chancel is carpeted with a rich pattern of crimson and black, and testifies to the energy and good taste of the ladies of the congregation, who undertook the task of providing the carpet. The Building Committee who have had charge of the work, and to whom its successful completion is due, are Messrs. C. R. Dunsford, James Sheppard, J. Williams, T. B. VanEvery, G. H. Parsons, F. W. Johnston, and James Watson. The superintendence of the building operations was placed in charge of Mr. R. McBrien in November last, and he has sustained his reputation for prompt and careful work, notwithstanding that the severity of the weather during the winter has greatly retarded him. The total cost is about as follows: Building, $12,000; organ, $500; gas, $600; windows, $700.

THE MORNING SERVICE.

was conducted by Rev. R. Hicks and Rev. R. McCoach, and the same Communion by Archdeacon Elwood and Rev. Canon Carmichael. An excellent service of song was rendered by the efficient choir of the church, led by Mr. B. Armstrong, the solos by Miss Trainer and Mr. Rothwell being much admired. Miss Bertha Trainer, the organist, presided at the instrument with the ability for which she is noted, and contributed in no small degree to the success of the musical service. The font, which was placed in the front centre of the chancel, contained a beautiful Calla Lily, and there was also a handsome bouquet on the communion table.

THE MORNING SERMON.

The Rev. Canon Carmichael took his text from the 20th Psalm, 5th v.: 'In the name of the Lord we will set up our banners, the Lord fulfill all thy petitions.' This Psalm was a war chant, sung alike by king and soldier, who could be imagined also saying, 'Gur hearts are ready and our souls are brave, and if Thou wilt be with us, all will be well.' The text showed us that David looked for success to the Lord, and was not ashamed to acknowledge his dependence upon God. If any man ever had cause to feel confident in his own powers, in his military prowess, indomitable courage, and resolution to overcome obstacles, David was that man. Yet, notwithstanding this fact, his entire dependence upon God was visible in his every act. Years before a cairn of stones has been raised by the children of Israel, in acknowledgement of their trust in God, and in like manner was David actuated to rally his people around him and say, 'In the name of the Lord we will set up our banners.' It was in the same spirit of dependence upon God that the speaker to-day raised his voice for the first time in this new house of worship. He had faith enough and heart enough to believe that God was good, and that God was great, and had yet much good in store for this congregation. They took down to-day the banner of God, covered with the dust of years, and transplanted it from the old resting place to the more beautiful shrine which had been erected to the glory of the Lord. But it was possible to beautify the temple, and decorate it with gold and with silver, and yet need the blessing of the Lord, and God's grace, to sanctify it to His use. What was the temple, but the home of the ark of the covenant? They brought here to-day, however, the same old Gospel of the Saviour's love, which it had been their privilege to enjoy in the old edifice. It was true there had been many regrets and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in this new and beautiful structure, and look for His grace and blessing to follow us from the old to the new. That not a few may regret leaving the old sanctuary is not to be wondered at, for sacred are the memories connected with the tender chime of the organ, and many expressions of sorrow in their hearts at the surrendering of old associations connected with the former house of prayer, but 'In the name of God we will set up our banner,' in