Newfoundland Wins Fishing Claims Dispute

A special message received from Washington announces that an International Tribunal has decided in favour of Newfoundland in the case arising out of claims made by the United States for the return of customs duties, light and harbour dues, and other charges collected from American vessels on certain parts of the Newfoundland coast, on the grounds that they were engaged in fishing.

The Newfoundland Government contended that they were engaged in trading and were therefore liable for the amounts.

The dispute which is brought to an end by this decision goes back over a long period. Originally there were twenty-seven claims, but four were dropped. Four others were admitted in full by Newfoundland and the remaining nineteen were adjudicated upon. Each of these claims was in respect of several voyages, each making several voyages, sometimes to the Grand Bank, codfishing, the vessels having visited Newfoundland for bait or repairs, and sometimes to Newfoundland ports for herring cargoes.

Prior to the Hague Award in 1910 the Colony collected light dues from all American vessels obtaining herring cargoes by purchase from Newfoundland fishermen, upon the grounds that such vessels were trading, and the majority of the claims for a return of light dues, and all the claims for a return of Customs duties concern vessels so engaged.

According to the statements made out for arbitration, the total claims submitted by the United States were summarized as follows:

Customs duties	$24,689.37
Light dues	7,602.15
Other charges	937.77
Fines	201.00

The amounts for which liability was disputed were as follows:

Duty collected from trading vessels	$19,584.02
Duty not collected	4,945.50
Light dues collected from trading vessels	5,099.29
Light dues not collected from trading vessels	721.59
Harbour dues collected from trading vessels	3.00
Other charges not collected	940.77
Fines liability to return disputed	201.00

$31,440.13

Amount of liability admitted, 1,991.16

Between 1874 and 1892, American vessels, including both fishing vessels and trading vessels, entering any port in Newfoundland between Cape Ray eastwardly and northerly to Cape John paid 24 cents per ton annually as light dues. From 1892 until the Hague Award in 1910 they paid the same rate for the same upon entering any port in Newfoundland. During the whole period from 1874, Newfoundland fishing vessels paid at the rate of 12 cents per ton, but they were wholly exempted from light dues by a Statute passed in 1899.

As the Hague Award decided that light dues not imposed on Newfoundland fishing vessels could not legally be imposed on American fishing vessels, the Colony admitted liability to repay one half of the light dues collected prior to 1899, and all the light dues collected since that date from American fishing vessels.

The Government, however, contended that American vessels obtaining cargoes of herring at Bay of Islands or Bonne Bay were not engaged in fishing, but in trading, and therefore disputed any liability to repay the amounts collected from such vessels for light dues. As a result of the Foreign Fishing Vessels Act passed in 1905 American fishing vessels took on board outside the territorial waters of the Colony, certain Newfoundlanders with whom arrangements had previously been made to catch herring for them. These, they claimed, were part of their crews, and they asserted that in taking on board cargoes of herring caught by these men they were exercising the rights to take fish conferred upon American fishermen by the Treaty of 1818. In connection with the repayment demanded of Customs duties amounting to $24,689.37, it was held by the Newfoundland Government that about $200.00 of this amount should have been stated as light dues, and that the remainder was paid in respect of imports on trading vessels, for trading purposes. In some cases, the goods were landed for the use of captains or owners of vessels, either for consumption or for sale.

In the case which has been brought to such a successful conclusion at Washington the Colony's representatives were the Hon. A. B. Morine, K.C., and Mr. C. E. Hunt, and to them great credit is due for the able manner in which they have handled it and the great victory which they have won. While the figures quoted show the actual amount of the claims made, it will readily be understood that a judgment against the Colony would have made it responsible for an amount greatly in excess of the claim set down, in interest charges and expenses. Further particulars received since the arrival of the first message show that the decision of the Tribunal was unanimous on all 19 claims in Group 1, and against us in three special cases in which no principle was involved.

The decision is that American vessels on the treaty coast getting herring and selling articles are trading, and must pay light dues and Customs duties. This results in the Americans dropping all claims for collections since 1897, and secures for the Colony control in this respect over her trade forever.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR COLIC

American Fishing Claims Case Decided in Favour of Newfoundland

Cologne to be Evacuated by December 31st.—Conspiracy in Italy Aimed at the Overthrow of the Monarchy.

DECISION OF INTERNATIONAL TRIBUNAL IN FAVOUR OF N.F.L.D.

Special to Evening Telegram.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 6.

An International Tribunal consisting of the Honourable Senator Vercluki of Belgium, President, Right Hon. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, and Hon. Judge Pound of Howard after hearing three American counsel and two Newfoundland counsel in arguments extending over two weeks, handed down a decision in Newfoundland's favour, that American vessels obtaining herring on the treaty coast were trading and not fishing. The decision means that large American claims for rebate duties during the past twenty-five years are not allowed, and also protects the colony against future claims. The decision represents a splendid victory for the colony.

CONSPIRACY TO ESTABLISH ITALIAN REPUBLIC.

ROME, Nov. 7.

Already aroused by the thwarted plans to assassinate their Premier, the people of Rome were further stirred to-day when it became known that the assassination was only a detail of a general conspiracy calling not only for Mussolini's death and the overthrow of the Fascist Government, but the fall of the House of Savoy, and the setting up of an Italian Republic.

COLOGNE TO BE EVACUATED BY DEC. 31ST.

PARIS, Nov. 7.

The evacuation of Cologne may be accomplished by December 31st, a broad hint to this effect is conveyed to the German Government in a note drawn up by the Allied Council of Ambassadors to-day. The only conditions to that the German Government clear up certain points in their latest communication on the progress of disarmament in Germany which the Ambassadors found vague.

Magistrate's Court

A drunk and disorderly was fined $2.00.

A young man convicted of a breach of Section 25 of the Alcoholic Liquors Act, was fined $10.00 or in default 30 days' imprisonment.

A man named Herbert Saunders, arrested under warrant last night, charged with breaking and entering the house of Mrs. J. D. Ryan, Queen's Road, and stealing therefrom the sum of $480 in notes and gold. Owing to the prosecution not being ready to proceed, the hearing was postponed till next week. In the meantime the prisoner is held on remand.

A case against a business man of Bay Bulls, charged with driving a motor car while under the influence of liquor, was postponed until Monday next.

Prompt Response Relieves Distress

Several days ago the destitute circumstances of a mother and her six children were reported in the Telegram. As soon as the facts became known kind-hearted citizens responded and helped the police to at least provide temporary relief. These generous people, two of them ladies of the West End of the city, who provided mattresses and clothing and several gentlemen who gave sums of money, will be pleased to know that a cloud of despair has been lifted from a mother. The police are thankful for the assistance rendered, all the more so because it was given promptly.

A Daring Burglary

A daring burglary took place between seven and eight o'clock last night when the residence of the late Hon. J. D. Ryan was entered and a sum of $480 in notes and gold was stolen. Entrance was gained by smashing the lock on the front door. Three hours after the deed was committed Head Constable Byrne placed under arrest a young man named Herbert Saunders and charged him with the robbery. The accused appeared before Judge Morris this morning and was remanded for eight days. Mrs. Ryan was attending prayers at the Cathedral when the burglary took place.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Nov. 6th.—Up betimes, the weather grows fine, being warm enough for my light top coat, and am in hopes of some fair weather yet. This cheerfulness is for those that have fish to handle, and all the waterfront seems mighty busy, which is indeed a good thing, albeit St. John's will never be the busy town it once was since so much fish of late years is shipped from outports.

Mr. Dunfield writes to the news sheets concerning the preservation of our historical relics, wherein I do agree with him, since the exploitation of these should be an added attraction for tourists, and 'tis to be hoped that something will be done in the matter.

Comes news over the telegraph wires concerning the United States fishery claims against this country, and Newfoundland has won its case, to my great content. The claims were for a sum aggregating high 37 thousand dollars, being chiefly composed of duties paid by American vessels in Fortune Bay, and Bay of Islands. The International Court, however, having decided that these vessels were trading, Newfoundland gains the verdict.

In "The Gentleman's Book of Manners" published many years ago, do find the following which nothing applies to many in this city. "Except in a case of necessity, you should not stop a business man on the street during business hours. He may have appointments, and, in any event, his time is precious. If you must speak with him, walk on in his direction, or if you detain him state your errand briefly, and politely apologize for the detention."

Methods like this are so full of good advice of this nature that I shall publish some of it in my journal from day to day.

Additional Passengers by Portia

The following additional passengers sailed by the Portia this morning for the westward:—Const. Squibb, O. Rose, A. Sellers, O. Winter, Mrs. Penny, Mr. W. Forsey, Mr. Strickland, Rev. I. F. Curtis, P. L. Carr, Mr. Connelley, Geo. Lilly, Mr. Gray, Mr. McDougall, Mr. Payne, W. Soder, T. Rose, S. Elliott, Capt. Hollett, Mrs. Pike, G. Burrett, Mr. Grace, G. Tesser, Mr. Daley, Mr. Evans, Mrs. Grandy, Mrs. McDougall, Mr. Costello, P. J. Tremblait besides 17 in steerage.

Unveiling War Memorial Tablet

We understand that His Excellency the Governor has kindly consented to unveil a memorial tablet at the General Post Office on Wednesday next, Armistice Day, in memory of the members of the Postal Telegraphs who laid down their lives in the Great War. The unveiling ceremony will be attended by the entire staff.

Rumour Incorrect

Through an error in a cable message it was reported to-day that Miss Helen Channing, daughter of the late Councilor Channing, had passed away at New York. Her many friends will be pleased to learn that she is still actively engaged in her study for the nursing profession.

Bourlamaque Gold Mine

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I understand that Mr. Francis Hunter is leaving for Canada to-morrow. His arrival here was eagerly awaited by those who had been persuaded by him to invest in Bourlamaque. I wonder what their feelings are now that he is going without replies to the questions of "stockholder" and myself. It is hardly to be disputed that the information we asked for was due the shareholders, and also the general public from whom I understand Mr. Hunter has been soliciting further subscriptions.

In Mr. Hunter's letter published on Wednesday he states that Meloney, Allerton & Co., have agreed to exist and that their place as underwriters has been taken by Francis J. Hunter & Co., Ltd. One rather wonders what this time so that there is all the winter in which to work for it. It is very much the same, made up of a choice of eight different classes:

Mr. Hunter tells us that the President of his Company, Mr. Samuel Reichbach, is a man of considerable means, who has had a highly successful financial career. Mr. Hunter describes him as his only partner. One would like to know if Mr. Hunter, before associating with Comrade Reichbach, examined himself through the usual commercial channels that his position is all that he states, and as to whether the whole of his previous financial transactions were above criticism. I do not say they were not, but I do say it was due to the shareholders here that Mr. Hunter should, through some reliable mercantile agency, have made these enquiries.

Mr. Reichbach was reported in the Canadian Press early last winter as stating that his Company had made arrangements to spend "hundreds of thousands of dollars" on the Bourlamaque property during the present year. Yet Mr. Hunter now admits that very little money has been expended and that practically no ore has been mined. And this in regard to a mine which, according to Mr. Hunter's letter to Mr. Urquhart in December last, was equal in every way to any in Canada or the United States.

In one of his many circulars to the shareholders, Mr. Reichbach ventures the opinion that "a property that costs 50 cents and is worth $2.50 is a property worth having," or words to that effect—I have not the circular by me or I would quote his exact words. It is an excellent axiom that he lays down, one that might be in every schoolboy's copy book.

Mr. Reichbach is careful not to state that Bourlamaque, or even Union, is such a property. An advertisement in the press appeared recently in Mr. Hunter's name to the effect that the shares in Bourlamaque and Union, now offering at 80 cents, would be increased in price to $1.00 or $1.25 shortly after his return to Montreal. What I fancy the shareholders would appreciate far more is information as to where a market can be found for their present holdings, even at 50 cents per share.

Yours truly,
