NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY

Colborne Street Methodist Church Celebrates its 24th Birthday.

The 24th anniversary of Colborne Street Methodist Church was celebrated yesterday. Services were held both morning and evening by Rev. R. D. Hamilton, of Listowel, formerly pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church.

Special collections were taken to be applied to the mortgage debt, $2,037 being realized. The full amount of the debt has been subscribed, and yesterday the first payment was taken. The mortgage will likely be lifted by the spring.

Rev. Mr. Hamilton preached a sermon to the young people in the evening, when the choir was augmented by 40 juvenile voices.

Tonight the choir, assisted by that of the First Methodist Church, will give a special song service.

Some ancient ships that rival even the celebrated American schooner Polly must be placed to the credit of Great Britain. First in order of age is the Jenny of Carnarvon, 123 years old. The next is the May of Whitehaven, sometimes called the Molly Ashcraft to distinguish her from other Mays. The May was built at Cowes in 1795, so that she is 115 years old, six years older than the Polly.

and the case will come up at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, early next week, possibly on Monday. Dr. Ross attended the patients for 23 weeks and put in a bill for $100 a week.

Imposter.
Rev. M. A. Lindsay, of Newbury, Ont., writes The Advertiser in regard to a certain individual, who is writing the ministers of this district, "plausibly" convincing recent strong religious conviction, etc., and incidentally appealing for alms and clothing. "During the past week," says Mr. Lindsay, "the Methodist minister in Newbury has received communications from ministers in London, Belmont and Florence, inquiring about the character of the man, and we would be grateful if you would be so good as to announce the imposture."

Case Settled.
At a meeting of the council of the town of Listowel was decided to settle with George T. Thomas, the Essex electrical engineer, who installed a power plant there, and who was unable to collect his account. The councillors were under the impression that about $500 worth of wire charged had not been used, but upon investigation found that everything was all right on that score. There was a difference over the time Mr. Thomas was engaged in the work, but a settlement was arrived at, the plaintiff being given $1,500. "This case was to have been heard at the non-jury sitting commencing Monday."

Choral Society.
Good progress is being made in the organization of the London Choral Society. Inaugurated some weeks ago in London, East, Mr. J. Cornelius states that the membership is over fifty and is increasing rapidly. It has been decided to limit it to one hundred members for this season. The use of the basement of Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church has been on so-called "try-out" for rehearsals. Mr. Cornelius has had considerable experience in choral work and expects to be ready to perform by February. It is his intention to use London talent only.

An Egg Record.
That the keeping of hens is a profitable hobby is the experience of Mr. Gillard, a Mill street resident. In November, 1899, he purchased three pullets of ordinary breed. On the first of March they started to lay and continued laying till Sept. 1. Then one of the hens molted. The three hens in the six months deposited four hundred and forty-two eggs. The other two kept on laying during September and October, giving ninety-nine eggs, making a total of five hundred and thirty-one eggs. The cost of grain was 25 cents per month. The value of the eggs ranged from 35 cents per dozen to 24 cents.

BISHOP FALLON ON EUCHARIST

"Read the Sixth Chapter of St. John," He Told His Congregation.

THE FIRST OF A SERIES

His Lordship Referred to the Great Congress in Montreal, and Gave the Reason for the Gathering.

"Go home and read the sixth chapter of St. John. Put yourself in the synagogue at Capernaum, and ask yourself where you are at—what you intend to do. Will you believe the words of Christ, or will you go with the Jews and apostate disciples? Will you leave him as they did, in the awful words of condemnation of the Bible: 'From that time many of his disciples went back and walked no more with him.'"

Thus spoke Bishop Fallon to his congregation in St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday morning, as he concluded his first sermon in that church, which was also the first of a series to be preached on the Eucharist. The cathedral was filled, there being many Protestants in the edifice, who had evidently been drawn by the bishop's lordship's fame as a preacher.

The bishop went straight to the doctrine of the real presence in the Eucharist.

Appeal to Reason.
"I want to reason with you today," said his lordship. "I want to put the question to you and square. At Montreal, two months ago, there was the most notable gathering which ever assembled on the soil of North America. There were there, from all parts of the civilized world, and the uncivilized world. Men do not cross the ocean and undergo the fatigues and trials and dangers of a journey to a far-away foreign land, especially when these men, or at least very many of them, have passed the allotted span of life, unless there is some reason for it. Why, I ask you, did they come? You will find the answer in the sixth chapter of St. John. 'I am the living bread which came down from heaven; if any man eateth of this bread, he shall live; and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I give for the life of the world.'"

The Reason.
"This is why the vast multitude assembled at Montreal—why the vast concourse of clergy were there, and why the vast concourse of laymen were there. Because Christ had spoken in the Eucharist the promise of the Eucharist centuries before, and the Eucharist Congress had assembled to bear witness to the fact, and the belief in the doctrine of the real presence—their belief that the words of the priest 'This mass really and truly turn into the flesh and blood of Christ the bread and wine of the altar.'"

"But there were those who dissented in the synagogue of Capernaum, and there are those who in the Catholic Church dissented in the doctrine of the real presence is hard to believe, I will agree with you, but I did not Jesus say to the dissenters? I am giving you the words of the Bible. 'The Jews therefore strove amongst themselves, saying: How can this man give us his flesh to eat?' 'Then Jesus said to them, verily, I say unto you, except you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood you have no faith in me.' 'Whoso eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood hath eternal life; and I will raise him up on the last day.' For my flesh is meat indeed and my blood is drink indeed. Whoso eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood dwelleth in me and I in him.'"

"An Hard Saying."
"This is an hard saying," quoted the bishop, using the words of the Jews in the temple at Capernaum. "Today you hear Catholics say the same thing. 'These are what I call jelly-fish Catholics—without a spirit in them.' You must either accept the words of Christ or reject them. Christ meant what he said, and said what he meant. You must either go with him or with the Jews? Which will you do? If you are afraid of this doctrine of the real presence you are an injury to your church, to Catholicism, and to the souls of men. The teachings of Jesus Christ, the entire Bible, from Genesis to the Apocalypse, you will find no greater words of condemnation than these: 'They that are engaged in the work of Him no more.' Will you walk with Him no more?"

The Words of Jesus.
"Human nature might have dictated that Jesus should not say the words he spoke in the synagogue of Capernaum. God knows he created men to trouble. Blatant unbelief and doubt."

STOOPED SHORT.
Taking Tonics, and Built Up on Right Food.

The mistake is frequently made of trying to build up a worn-out nervous system on stimulants—drugs. New material from which to rebuild wasted nerve cells is what should be supplied, and this can be obtained only from proper food.

Two years ago I found myself on the verge of a complete nervous collapse, due to overwork and study, and to illness in the family," writes a Wisconsin woman.

"My friends became alarmed because I grew pale and thin and could not sleep nights. I took various tonics prescribed by physicians, but their effects were of short duration. I stopped taking them. My food did not seem to nourish me, and I gained no flesh nor blood.

"Reading of Grape-Nuts, I determined to stop the tonics and see what a change of diet would do. I ate Grape-Nuts four times a day, with cream and drank milk also, went to bed early after eating a dish of Grape-Nuts.

"In about two weeks I was sleeping soundly. In a short time I gained 20 pounds in weight and felt like a different woman. My little daughter whom I was obliged to keep in school last spring on account of chronic catarrh has changed from a thin, pale, nervous child, to a rosy, healthy girl and has gone back to school this fall.

"Grape-Nuts and fresh air were the only agents used to accomplish the happy results."

wild-eyed infidelity followed his words. And yet, what right or reason had the Jews to reject his words? Did he not the day previously feed the multitude from the few fishes and the few loaves of bread? Had they not the simple proof of his powers, of his divinity? And yet we find the Jews, as we find many people today saying: "This is an hard saying; who can hear it?"

"I am a statesman; I am a literary; I am a scientist," say men; "I cannot accept that doctrine." But who created science and literature, and the state? Was it not the same God who created the Eucharist? Some Catholics even whitewash this doctrine down until there is nothing left, but their Protestantism, only regard them as weak and their respect for them. You have the words of Christ to go by. In the name of God, I ask you to read the sixth chapter of the gospel of St. John. There you will find the words upon which the Catholic belief of the real presence rests."

DUNDAS AND RICHMOND MAY BE REPAVED

Would Be Cheaper Than Resurfacing Opinion Around City Hall.

That Dundas and Richmond streets will have to be repaved, rather than resurfaced, is said to be the opinion of the city engineers, and it is expected that the board of works will be instructed to that effect.

A contract for resurfacing the streets has been awarded to the Barber Asphalt Company, but as the underground work has changed matters considerably, it is now thought that new tenders will have to be called.

The streets have been undermined in many places, and one city hall official. "It was impossible to do the work unless the streets were cut into, and as a result they are not in good shape. The frost this winter is certain to 'heave' the pavement, and when the springs opens, these streets will be in bad shape. The London street railway will not undertake any more operations until the underground work settles."

"The better plan would be to repave. If the resurfacing as at present is carried out, the roads will be a mass of patchwork, and as the amount of cement to be used will be very large, repaving would not be much more expensive."

CALLED HIM A MASON FREE FIGHT FOLLOWED

Lively Rumpus in a Catholic Edifice in Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Remarks by A. J. Lemieux, regarding the recent local fight in St. Jean Baptiste Church last night, Lemieux started to explain some matters, and in the course of his address Mr. Lemieux accused Gustave Franco of being a member of the local lodge of the St. Jean Baptiste Church. Lemieux jumped up and demanded that he adduce proofs. Franco got his answer when a number of Lemieux's supporters piled on him and started to punch and kick him, a regular melee ensuing. Franco's supporters were not slow to answer, and for five or ten minutes the church hall was a scene of confusion.

Cure Aulic tried to secure order, but failed, and the fisty contest went merrily on. Calls were sent to the police, but they failed to respond, and the fighters got tired the cure dismissed the meeting.

Little damage was done save a few black eyes and bruises, while the women, who were in the majority, were not engaged in the fight.

When the cure dismissed the meeting Franco called a counter demonstration in the street, which, however, was orderly, the frosty air cooling off the ardor of the pugilists.

FAREWELL SERMON OF CHRIST CHURCH RECTOR

Rev. Mr. Howard Says Good-Bye to Congregation—News of the Churches.

Rev. R. S. W. Howard, the retiring rector of Christ Church, delivered his farewell sermon last evening, and will assume charge of his new pastorate at Chatham this week. Mr. Howard referred to his successor, Rev. C. R. Gunne, of Clinton, in the highest terms, and expressed the hope that the congregation would rally to the support and encouragement of their new rector.

He emphasized the missionary obligation of the church. "It is indeed a narrow man," he declared, "who thinks only of himself. We must send the Word of God abroad, that it may cheer the hearts of the heathen as it has cheered our own."

His parting words were: "In the few years that have passed, I have been blessed and blessed by the kindness of the people of this parish. In my new work I will not forget Christ Church, nor its kindness, and the true friendships that have existed here."

SAYS RECIPROCITY WILL AID FARMERS

Canadian Agricultural Paper Starts Campaign Against Opposition.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Opponents of reciprocity recently having been prominent in the advocates of closer trade relations are beginning to be heard from. Canadian Farm, the leading agricultural newspaper of the Dominion, has begun the publication of a series of articles on reciprocity. The first demonstrates that a big market for Canadian products would thereby be opened in the United States. Addressing himself to the bogey that reciprocity would be entering wedge of political union of Canada and the United States, the author says:

"When the reciprocity treaty of 1854, which embraces natural products only, was about to be abrogated by Congress, Sir John Macdonald sent an official note to the Imperial Government in which he said that it would be impossible to express in figures the extent to which the facilities of commercial intercourse brought about by the treaty have contributed to the wealth and prosperity of Canada and difficult to exaggerate the importance which the people of Canada attach to the continued enjoyment of these facilities."

"Sir John had in mind the movement of 1849, which embraced natural products only, was about to be abrogated by Congress, Sir John Macdonald sent an official note to the Imperial Government in which he said that it would be impossible to express in figures the extent to which the facilities of commercial intercourse brought about by the treaty have contributed to the wealth and prosperity of Canada and difficult to exaggerate the importance which the people of Canada attach to the continued enjoyment of these facilities."

He referred to the fact that statesmen of the Dominion figured in the meetings, and emphatically endorsed the home rule proposals.

Joseph Chamberlain has suggested a tariff commission to ascertain on what lines inter-imperial trade can best be developed by a system of mutual preference. He thinks the report produced would be of great value to the next imperial conference if the commission immediately proceeds to carry out the suggestion.

ment of 1849 for annexation to the United States when he spoke in the same note of the connection which is usually found to exist between the material prosperity and the political contentment of a people and declared that, "largely owing to the unrestricted commerce with our nearest neighbors in the natural productions of the two countries, all agitation for organic changes has been, in all dissatisfaction with existing political relations has wholly disappeared."

"I commend this last observation to the timid souls who are afraid that a new measure of reciprocity would pave the way to annexation. Manifestly it could do so only by augmenting the prosperity of our natural industries to such an extent that they would demand annexation as a crowning boon. But is not this rather a dangerous hypothesis for imperialists to advance?"

"It is surprising that the annexation cry should prevail with an intelligent person, for how an Ontario farmer's loyalty could be sapped through selling a carload of cattle at Buffalo free of duty, and bringing home free factory goods passes comprehension. It is marketing there every day as it is, only now it has to pass the duty both ways. Surely he would be just so much better off and just so much more contented if it was removed."

MANY ANOMALIES IN MARRIAGE LAWS

The Anglicans Heard Them at Ottawa From Mr. Lewis, Behind Closed Doors.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Evidently fearing publicity in connection with the address on the subject, "The Law of Christian Marriage," given by Mr. Travers Lewis, K.C., at a session of the annual conference of the Deanery of Ottawa, members of the press were rigidly excluded. It was stated by one of the clergy earlier in the day that the action of Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, in annulling marriages between Protestants and Roman Catholics would be discussed, and some action taken. Whether this was done, is a secret, however, and when queried, after the meeting, several of the clergy stated that the action had not been taken up. It was, however, given out that Mr. Lewis informed the clerics that no person in Quebec under 21 years of age could marry without the consent of the parents, and the consent was not obtained, and the marriage was performed, the ceremony was null and void.

The information imparted to the clergymen was that a minister in Ontario could refuse to marry a couple, providing he had good grounds for his objection, and that an Ontario clergyman could not perform a marriage ceremony in Quebec, but that a cleric from Quebec, or any part of Canada could solemnize a marriage in this province.

At the evening session, Adam Short, M.A., spoke on social work in the church, and one of his statements was that the workmen should not be pampered, but severely criticised whenever necessary. He advocated arranging the social work to suit the local conditions.

SUGGESTS NAVY TO KEEP ORDER IN QUEBEC

Ottawa Pastor Makes Sensational Statements Regarding Sister Province.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—"The sooner we get a big navy to keep Quebec under the better for the Dominion," said Rev. Dr. A. A. Cameron in the course of his sermon in the First Baptist Church last night. "For some years past we have been hearing murmurs of disloyalty from Quebec. Then recently upon an election day there came lightning flash and the thunder clap, which revealed a startling condition of affairs."

Mr. Cameron deplored the fact that Quebec was not in harmony with the other provinces of Canada in their loyalty to Great Britain.

CANADIANS IN FAVOR OF HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

T. P. O'Connor Says Meetings Here Were the Largest Ever Held.

London, Nov. 12.—T. P. O'Connor, interviewed, declared that Canadians are entirely in favor of home rule for Ireland. The meetings were the largest ever held in Canada for the cause, and the sum collected the largest ever received except during Parnell's palmist days.

He referred to the fact that statesmen of the Dominion figured in the meetings, and emphatically endorsed the home rule proposals.

Joseph Chamberlain has suggested a tariff commission to ascertain on what lines inter-imperial trade can best be developed by a system of mutual preference. He thinks the report produced would be of great value to the next imperial conference if the commission immediately proceeds to carry out the suggestion.
