Associated Press Despatch.
ITTSBURG, Oct. 7.—
The great right arm of Walter Johnson repulsed the Pittsburg Pirates today in their first bold bid to take the world's baseball title from Washington's Senators.

Before a hometown crowd of 45,-000, that filled every nook and cranny of Forbes' field, the Pirates fell before "Old Barney," while his Senator mates pounded out a decisive 4 to 1 triumph in the first clash of the 1925 series conflict. Striking out ten of the Buccaneers and twirling with coolness and effectiveness in every crisis, Johnson held the National league champions to live scattered blows, one of them a home run by Pie Traynor—while Joe Harris, Sam Rice and Ossie Bluege led an attack that accomplished the downfall of Lee Meadows, bespectacled veteran, and also found its mark against the curves of "Jug-handle Johnny" Morrison, who took the mound in the ninth, after Meadows had given way to a pinch hitter.

faced his biggest threat in the ninth mning, when the Pirates got two men on Carey went out stealing, Ruel base with only one out, but Traynor Peckinpaugh. and Wright could do nothing but lift three. his shoots aloft for easy outs.

Johnson's brilliant triumph was all the greater to him, for it marked the first full game he had pitched to victory in a world's series. Last fall, after 18 long years of waiting, it seemed that this was to be denied to "Barney," when the Giants beat him in his first two starts, after which he came back to gain glory by pitching the decisive part of the final game. Today, Johnson carried on where he left off last October, but this time he had his full measure of triumphant achievement.

Johnson towered above everything else in today's game. The courageous pitching of his rival. Meadows; the sparkling fielding of the Pirates, particularly by Traynor and Grantham; the heavy hitting of Rice, Joe Harris and Bluege; the colorful enthusiasm of the vast crowd witnessing its first home and Bluege; the colorful enthusiasm of the vast crowd witnessing its first home world's series struggle in 16 years; the heturn of the old stars of those halcyon days—Wagner, Fred Clarke, Babe Adams—all this paled beside the dominating force of Johnson.

But the "Big Train" needed all his cunning to turn back this spectacular young Pirate band, and he was well supported by his own mates, who again proved their ability to rise to their best at his moments. at big moments.

The First Hero. Joe Harris, whose bat was added this season to the Washington attack, would have shared almost equally in Johnson's achievement had Barney been able to avert Traynor's homer, the Pirate's only run. It was Harris, succeeding Earl McNeeley in the outfield, Pirate's only run. It was Harris, succeeding Earl McNeeley in the outfield, who banged out the homer that put the Senators in the lead, and it was the same Harris who started the fifth-inning rally and paved the way for the decisive batting stroke of the game—a slashing single by Sam Rice with the bases full, and two out, that brought over a brace of runs and clinched the battle.

Pice's smash was the climax of the battle.

Rice's smash was the climax of the game's most dramatic moment, and came just as it seemed that Meadows, twirling with all his skill at his command, seemed about to pitch himself out of the worst hole.

It looked like Meadows' finish in this inning, when Joe Harris, Bluege and Peck rattled off singles in quick succession to fill the bases with none out, but the bespectacled veteran steadied in the crisis and fanned Ruel and Johnson in quick order.

in the crisis and fanned Ruel and Johnson in quick order.

There was a deafening roar from the crowd when Rice swung and missed the first pitch, marking the seventh successive strike scored by Meadows. A wide one, then a second strike came over, but Rice caught the next one and shot it over second, just out of the flying reach of Eddie Moore.

Joe Harris and Bluege crossed the plate, and although Meadows quickly retired Stanley Harris for the third out, then turned the Senators back in order through the next three innings, the big warmage was done.

There was a final sortle in the ninth inning, when Goose Goslin, facing Morrison, singled, was sacrificed by Judge, and scored on Bluege's second hit, but this was an anti-climax.

this was an anti-climax.

Except for Traynor's homer in the fifth and their eleventh-hour threat in the ninth, the Pirates were easily subdued. The National leaguers had their chances to break through, for Carey chance got to base after being hit by pitched balls. Meadows walked on Johnson's only pass, and Grantham got to first on a wild throw by Peckin-paugh in the fifth, but Johnson and his mates put up an insurmountable barrier. Defensive laurels, however, for the most part belonged to the Pirates, with attacking honors going to Washington, where pre-series predictions had largely been based on a reverse situation. Traynor and Grantham particularly shone in the field for the Buccaneers, the former making a remarkable diving catch of a line drive by Ruel, that cut off at least a two-base hit, while Grantham speared Goslin's smoking wailop in the fourth and converted it into curves of "Jug-handle Johnny" Morrison, who took the mound in the ninth, after Meadows had given way to a plinch hitter.

The dash and fire, the highly-touted nowitzers of the Pirate batteries were of no avail against the crafty defence of Johnson this afternoon. Smoke is a familiar home-town product on Pittsburg's field of battle, but the Buccaneers found that the "Big Train" had a variety they could not negotiate when there was any prospect that hits would produce much-needed runs.

The Pirates trained their biggest guns on "Old Barney," but they could not find the range except for the one stroke put through by Traynor, who altogether got two of the quintet of safe blows obtained off Johnson. The others found a mark occasionally, but their aim was not true. More often the punched in vain at the air, for Johnson, among his ten strike-out victims, twice numbered Kiki Cuyler, Clyde Barnhart and Glenn Wright, three of the heaviest weapons in the Pittsburg attack.

"BIG BARNEY" STARTS CHAMPS OFF RIGHT.

Johnson took up where he left off last October to keep up his winning verage in pitching consecutive worlds series' games. However, yesterday's was Walter's first completed game in the world series to end in victory, as he went in as relief to win the deciding game of last year's series.

FAME FUGITS.

An observer observed at yesterday's opener in Pittsburg that Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner, for many years leaders of their respective leagues in batting, and heroes of the 1909 series, went unnoticed almost in the stands.

'The O. R. F. U. staged four games on Saturday and not one player was benched for rough play," proudly announced Harry McKee, secretary of the O. R. F. U. to the Toronto Star this morning. "That is pretty good especially when you consider that London and Sarnia, bitter rivals, were playing in London and that London got a licking right on their home grounds."

The first tragedy of this world's series has already occurred, Barney Dreyfus has had to see his box office help return half million dollars

THE WORLD SERIES.

The series which started yesterday has all the uncertainty of every other world's series. It represents the fruits of six months of earnest perspiring struggle and much deep thinking worked up to a fine frenzy and a crisis but it lacks the glamor of last year's struggle, and a good deal of feeling which went into last year's engagements. There was a general desire last year to see the Giants humbled and a scandal in the McGraw camp intensified this feeling somewhat. There was a lot of sentiment in favor of Washington, which after years of baseball was experiencing its first world's series, and a good deal of it centered on

This series seems to lack emotional angles. Should Walter be beaten this time, it will not cause such heart-burning as did his seeming inability last year to hurdle the breaks and fate. Fate seemed just about due to rob Walter of the laurel of victory in a world's series game and the fans rightly or wrongly got into quite an agony of mind over the cruel injustice.

This series to start with seemed to lack emotional angles. Had Big Walter been beaten yesterday it would have caused nothing like the heart-burnings which his two failures last year did. Fate seemed just about due to rob Walter of the laurel wreath of victory in a world's series game, and the fans got into quite an agony of mind over this threatened and cruel injustice. However, Walter can rest easy now. Fate cannot take anything away from him ofter his sensational performance yesterday. Perhaps that same performance was rendered all the easier for the big fellow from the fact that yesterday the world wasn't waiting in an agony of suspense for Walter to win a game. He went out and pitched without this great load of responsibility on his shoulders, and he was his own natural self. Perhaps after all world's series for the comfort and efficiency of the athletes concerned are better off without sob angles.

NEED PUNISHMENT. The action of the Kingston Ponies in withdrawing from the finals of the provincial senior baseball championships, not only gives the limestone City a black eye in sport but makes a farce of the whole playdowns, and of the O. B. A. A., unless the governing body summarily punishes the Easterners. Banishment from baseball for several seasons might have a salutary effect on Kingston's ideas of good sportsmanship

Quite aside from the question of sportsmanship it must come very near being dishonest in that Niagara Falls will face a financial deficit as a result of the actions of the Ponies, which brought about the O. B. A. A.'s final decision to award the championship to the Cataract Drastic action by the O. B. A. A. would have the support of the whole province behind it.

TAXES ON PRO BOXING.

Excessive war taxes on seats for professional boxing shows and an impost of 5 per cent on the gross receipts by the Athletic commission has hindered the development of boxing from two sides, especially in the small cities. However, fight fans throughout the province who really pay the bill though the sport pays also heavy toll, found out where the money goes when the commission staged its big Provincial Schoolboys meet a few weeks ago in Toronto. The expenses for this were met out of a fund, built up by the commission's percentages from boxing shows. However, it is doubtful, no matter how good the objective, if boxing ought to be asked to carry all the load. It should only carry a fair share.
