While no decision has been reached as to where the new navy will be built, strong pressure is being brought to bear upon the government to ask parliament to consider the desirability of expending the whole sum in Canada under the subgrinted in Canada or that purpose.

The details of the proposed training ship and enlarged drydocks have not yet been worked out, but the admiralty is said to take the view that bigger docks are more a necessity than the construction of a fleet. It is hoped that some arrangement on this point may be reached before Parliament meets.

It is understood that the admiralty takes the view that the location of a drydock at Esquimalt is not satisfactory in that it is not sufficiently protected. Negotiation on this point has not yet been completed, but Canada is holding out for the present site as one which was chosen by the admiralty itself years ago and which ought to satisfy its needs now.
