The motion to set aside the notice of trial in the case of Hewson v. Macdonald, which has been before the master in chambers for some weeks, was decided yes terday. Mr. Dalton gave judgment, setting aside the notice of trial and granting the stay of proceedings. The following is the full text of the judgment:
"I think that I should stay the proceedings. In the first place there was no arbitration in the case as to the terms of arbitration in the case as to the terms of settlement—no reference of any kind, no authority, either from plaintiff or defendant, to anyone to decide between them. Friends on either side intervened to consult and advise—that is all. Then the plaintiff had the most express notice from the defendant, through Mr. Shields and the defendant's attorney, that the settlement must be by a money payment and nothing defendant's attorney, that the settlement must be by a money payment and nothing else. This question of the promise of an appointment, which had been long before this settlement urged by the plaintiff but never promised to him, had been discussed by Mr. Shields acting for the defendant and Mr. Mosgrove and Mr. Cotton acting for the plaintiff, and no agreement could be come to by way of settlement at all on account of it. I should say that the defendant was suffering from severe illness and count of it. I should say that the defendant was suffering from severe illness and could not personally act, and therefore Mr. Shields acted for him. Mr. Shields thereupon referred to the defendant on the question. I quote his language:—"I consulted with the defendant with respect to the same, and the defendant thereupon refused to accede to the said proposition (that is, that the plaintiff should receive some place or office), saying that whatever arrangeor office), saying that whatever arrangement might be arrived at, no part of the pusideration therefor should consist of any office, place, or appointment for the plain-iff, or any promise of the same," and the defendant instructed Mr. Shields to refuse defendant instructed Mr. Shields to refuse to effect any settlement or compromise where any such thing or the promise of it should be any part, of the consideration. Of this Mr. Shields swears that he informed the plaintiff's attorney, and that upon this he (Shields) acted. In like manner the defendant's attorney informed the plaintiff's attorney that nothing but a money payment could enter into the terms of settlement. Upon this it would seem that the Hon. Mr. Howlan was applied to by the plaintiff to intervene as a friend, and that gentleman recommended a settlement that gentleman recommended a settlement by payment of $2500, and that an appointment worth $2000 a year might be given to the plaintiff. Now this is represented by the plaintiff as an award by Mr. Howlan, which it was not. If, under these circumstances, the defendant could be looked upon as compromised by these terms, I know not what safety there could be for a I think, in fine, that the condition set up by the plaintiff does not attach to the lease. Because the defendant did not onsent by himself or his agent to such condition, but on the contrary informed the plaintiff that he could not and would not consent to it, and because the conditions at any rate would be void in law, and altogether against propriety and public policy, the notice of trial must be set aside and the edings in the case be stayed. It is no matter about costs. If any authority be wanting for staying proceedings where there has been a settlement after action of the subject of the action, I refer to 13 C.B. N.S., 806."

YORK PIONEERS' SOCIETY. This venerable and respected organiza tion held its regular monthly meeting at the Canadian institute yesterday afternoon. Between fifteen and twenty members were present, all hale and hearty, and glad to meet together once more and talk of old times. Rev. Dr. Scadding presided.

RECTORY OF ST. JAMES.

High Churchman on the Situation-He Thinks the "Associationists" Wish to Crowd the Bishop Out.

In an interview with a gentleman of pronounced high church views, a World man yesterday, learned the latest information in the high church camp regarding the settlement of the rectorship of St. James. It was to the effect that "wirepullers" are busily employed in urging the routine Mr. H. J. Nolan was introduced appointment of the Rev. This appears, he said, at first sight an innocent move enough, but he believed that a deep game underlies it, none other than to secure the election of Mr. Baldwin as bishop of the diocese in the event of the resignation of the present occupant of the see. The "wirepullers" profess to know that Bishop Sweetman is so disguted with his position and with the almost anarchical state of the church in Toronto that he purposes resignchurch in Toronto that he purposes resigning at no very distant date. He feels (so they say) that there is no hope of his being able to make head against the spirit of partyism which is dividing the church into at least two distinct factions. He is said to least two distinct factions. He is said to be keenly alive to the fact that the ex-

Choulish Packages By Express NEW YORK, April 4.—The bodies of two were found at the Crand Central depot last night in a fackage addressed "to Professor Gage, Cornell college, Ithaca, N.Y." The children had apparently been dead not more than twenty-four hours. The name of one Coleman a medical student was of one Coleman, a medical student, was written on a board in the package, but he deutes all knowledge of it. The theory of the police is that the bodies were purchased from some undertaker charged with the duty of burying them, and were sold to
