

NUFF SAID, MR. NEVILLE

A COUNSEL OBEYED OUT OF COURT BY A CORONER.

The Fatal Characteristics of the Murder Inquest—The Detective-Reporters of the City Press.

The inquest touching the murder of James Moroney was resumed before Coroner Philbrick this morning...

Mr. R. S. Neville appeared on behalf of Andrews, the slayer of James Moroney.

When the court opened Mr. Neville asked to be allowed to read over the evidence that had been taken at the first night's hearing.

Coroner Philbrick, who weaver would not allow this and said he would not stop a witness for anything.

Charles Thompson, whom the detectives describe as a pick-pocket, was the first witness.

He told a story that tallied in several respects with that of Holmes.

Policeman Cuddy also gave evidence. He testified substantially to the same story that was printed in the World the morning after the murder.

The coroner asked him if he allowed a man to carry a weapon such as a pistol.

Walsh testified that he was a question of whether the coroner would not listen to some of the evidence of Cuddy's evidence.

Mr. Neville then stepped down from his seat and asked the coroner to look at the picture of the deceased.

The coroner complied with his request and the witness said he saw something more to say about the matter.

The man who has been known all through the city as the "fourth person" has been identified as James Francis, formerly a porter in the Revere house.

Detective Hodgins yesterday subpoenaed Francis to attend and give evidence last night.

When he was visited by the detective in a home in King street east he was drunk and looked as if he would be in a similar mood for some time.

The coroner then told the jury that he would leave it to them to say if they were satisfied or not with the amount of evidence taken.

If they were desirous of hearing the fourth man he would issue a warrant for Francis to attend.

The jury deliberated the jury decided that they would like to hear from Francis, and the coroner issued a writ.

Nothing of a delicate nature has yet reached the city of the antecedents of the murderer.

His counsel last night complained of the sensational reports that the telegram and other papers printed last night about Andrews' career of crime in the States.

The fact is that up to the present time nothing whatever is known of the man previous to his arrival here.

He is said by the police to resemble a desperate Detroit gentleman named Charlie Morgan.

It is a possibility of identifying the Detroit burglar as the man behind the murder of poor Moroney.

But these enterprises, reporters, who ought at once to be taken on the detective force, know all about him.

He is a man who should keep out of the way after the shooting.

Even when everything was quieted down and the murderer was safely locked up he did not seem to be a man who would give the dates and places of incarceration to the police.

There is also an impression that he did not tell all he knew, and if Mr. Neville had been allowed to read his last night's hearing more in the way of facts might have been brought to light.

The funeral of the late Fort street homicide took place yesterday morning from the residence of deceased, No. 59 Pearl street.

A very large number of people attended. Rev. Father Kirne read the funeral services at St. Patrick's church.

The pall-bearers were John Symon, John Daley, James Rafter, James Somers, Frank Harrison and George Duncan.

THE SITUATION IN SPAIN.

A Grave Look Out—Further Details—The Government Takes Action.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—A prominent Spanish republican says the situation in Spain is very grave.

Several superior officers of the army are in favor of the establishment of a republic, and an outbreak in the republican interest is imminent in the principal towns.

The Carlists are also preparing to act in the north.

MADRID, Aug. 9.—A garrison of 300 men at S. de Urial, province of Lerida, have revolted.

A royal decree has been issued suspending the constitutional guarantees and dismissing the civil and military officials of Badajoz.

A lieutenant, commanding a Santo Domingo regiment, has been killed by his men, who have submitted.

It is said of "Death to Campos" were recently heard in Spanish barracks.

Despite official assurances that Catalonia is quiet, riots have been removed from railroads and bridges destroyed.

Serrano Llanos and other members of the dynasty left have sent addresses of devotion to the government.

A FRENCH BLOW.—O'Donovan Rossa Promotes Lord Chief Justice Coleridge a Cordial Welcome.

O'Donovan Rossa, in his paper of Tuesday, makes allusion to the alleged threat made by the Fenians against the life of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge as follows:

"This is the Norbury judge that sentenced Doctor Gallagher and other Irish-American fugitives to transportation for life; this is the judge who is coming to America to get fatted, wine and dined and welcomed by the big 'wigs' of this country.

Well, let him come; he'll get a welcome from us—a man's for 'em!"

THE OLD WORLD IN BRIEF.—The riotous proceedings against the Jews at Beth have been resumed.

Three professors have gone to Iochia to study the cause of the earthquake.

Forty-two Krupp cannon and other material from Russia have been landed in Bulgaria.

Madagascar advises say, British missionary, was arrested for concealing Horns.

The emperor of Germany left Berlin yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied to the station by the emperor of Austria.

At Laybach, Austria, the employes of the Ostro mines revolted and have been rioting. Two companies of troops were dispatched to the scene.

The French Admiral Pierre whose conduct at Tamatave caused much bad feeling in England, will be replaced on account of poor health.

At Paris, Fenianism, editor of Gaulois was sentenced to three months imprisonment for inciting socialists to riot.

The coronation decree in Russia, granting liberty of worship to dissenters, only affects the millions who are still unrelieved of their religious disabilities.

League Organization.—LONDON, Aug. 9.—Parnell will not go to America, but will remain to perfect the organization of league branches throughout the United Kingdom.

A prominent American, who has been asked to carry out Parnell's plans. It is feared many priests will refuse to attend league meetings and that Irishmen may follow their lead.

Chinese cutters.—HONG KONG, Aug. 9.—No Chinese troops are in Tonquin or on the frontier but the garrisons in the provinces of Yun Nan and Kwang Si have been secretly increased.

Much grain and rice are being stored at bottom up. Some Indians on the island are picked up on an overbearing the inscription as the one found on Robinson, namely, G. J. Robinson.

For the first time since the capture of Jackson's Point, and thence to Big Bay Point, but saw no further trace of the boat.

A Forensic Collision.—LONDON, Aug. 9.—A collision train returning to Saris with a freight train on the Saris branch G. T. R. near Wansford late Wednesday night.

The engines reared high in the air and came down with the force of a steam hammer.

The passengers were thrown together in heaps but none were injured.

The engineer and fireman of both trains escaped by jumping.

Firemen's Demonstration.—ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 9.—Over one thousand firemen from the States and Canada participated in to-day's celebration.

THE GUELPH LOTTERY

Again in Full Blast—Will the Authorities Suppress It?—Oddfellows Denounce Lottery.

GUELPH, Aug. 9.—The Toronto World when it came to hand this morning thought the lottery promoters into consternation.

They had expected things keeping quiet, but their advertisements had at least appeared in all the papers simultaneously.

The Globe, Mail and Hamilton papers, it is understood, were offered and accepted the advertisement. But it is a question now if they will as propositions are likely to be entered forth with against the promoters of the scheme.

The Mercury of to-night, besides copying The World's article of this morning, says:

"It is learned on good authority that the reports about the lottery scheme being still in progress are quite correct. Tickets are now being sold throughout the country and some have been disposed of even here in Guelph.

The statement that Mr. E. J. McKelvey is still acting as secretary is not true. The documents which have been issued in connection with the affair bear the name of Mr. J. L. Murphy, secretary.

Now that it is known that the directors purpose putting through the scheme in spite of the law, it is the duty of County Crown Attorney Peterson to follow up his instructions from the Attorney-General by instituting proceedings against the responsible parties."

ODDFELLOWS AND LOTTERIES.—At the annual meeting of the grand lodge of oddfellows at Ottawa, Grand Master Henry Robinson spoke thus of lotteries:

"In November last it came to my knowledge that in the eastern part of the province had advertised and were conducting a gift enterprise, styled, 'I. O. F. Bazaar and Entertainment.' I immediately ordered them to be notified that such a proceeding was entirely contrary to the laws of the province and could not be allowed."

They must at once abandon the scheme, and give publicity of its withdrawal; that they must recall and destroy all tickets sold; that they must at once discontinue the same."

I also ordered that they be notified that if they refused to do so, I would have them arrested and committed to prison for contempt of court."

I also ordered that they be notified that if they refused to do so, I would have them arrested and committed to prison for contempt of court."

The men who have been working on the island, who had picked up the skull in the beach the other day, were seen to be in the hands of the police.

Some Indians on the island are picked up on an overbearing the inscription as the one found on Robinson, namely, G. J. Robinson.

For the first time since the capture of Jackson's Point, and thence to Big Bay Point, but saw no further trace of the boat.

A Forensic Collision.—LONDON, Aug. 9.—A collision train returning to Saris with a freight train on the Saris branch G. T. R. near Wansford late Wednesday night.

The engines reared high in the air and came down with the force of a steam hammer.

The passengers were thrown together in heaps but none were injured.

The engineer and fireman of both trains escaped by jumping.

Firemen's Demonstration.—ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 9.—Over one thousand firemen from the States and Canada participated in to-day's celebration.

The hose race was won by the Brampton brigade, the company from Drummond street, St. Catharines, was second.

St. Catharines, were adjudged the best dress company.

Collision on the Canada Southern.—LONDON, Aug. 9.—Two Canada Southern railway freight trains collided near Kingsmill this morning, badly damaging both engines and several cars.

Traffic was blocked for a few hours.

A Lovelock Youth Fills Himself With Butter.—READING, Pa., Aug. 9.—In Hamburg last night while Oscar Miller, aged 18, was promoting with Kate Stambach, aged 16, he proposed marriage to her, and upon her refusal attempted suicide.

He emptied the chambers of a seven barrel revolver, the bullets penetrating his head, mouth and chest. The girl fled, and it is not known whether Miller shot her. He may recover.

PERSONAL.—Hon. Peter Mitchell is suffering from a severe attack of malaria and rheumatism.

Lady Macdonald is doing Prince Edward Island with her brother, Lt. Col. Barnard.

Mr. Youmans, well known as an earnest and successful advocate of temperance is doing good service for the temperance cause in Great Britain.

Canada is represented in the National Forestry congress at St. Paul by Hon. G. J. Joy, E. T. Tarte, Quebec; William Saunders, London; D. M. Basile, St. Catharines; and Stewart Taylor, Ottawa.

"I see by the papers that all England is raving over a pretty Philadelphia girl," says a lady who has just returned from Philadelphia.

"I see by the papers that all England is raving over a pretty Philadelphia girl," says a lady who has just returned from Philadelphia.

OLD NIAGARA IN NEGLECT

Members of the Falls for Reformed Village—A Trustee's Foreign Report—The Falls for an International Park.

There is a story of a man, says the London Spectator, who desired to approach Niagara under perfect conditions, and who, therefore, left the train at some distance from the village of Niagara Falls, and made his way on foot, endeavoring during his walk to bring himself to a proper state of mind to be tested upon by the beautiful scenery of the vast spectacle.

At the moment, however, when he stepped into full view of the cataract, he was accosted by a briak individual, who offered him for a small sum a piece of colored glass, illustrating its use by turning his back to the falls, putting his head between his legs, and thus contemplating the scene upside down, and through his colored medium.

"That, sir," said he, when he had resumed his normal attitude, "is the way to obtain the most impressive and gorgeous view of the falls. Ten cents!"

This story illustrates the first of the two processes by which Niagara is being destroyed. For years there has been a constant stream of visitors to the falls village, and in the absence of any restrictive legislation, there is no limit to what we should expect. Nearly the whole of the population consists of people who make a living by preying on the casual visitor.

Every opportunity is seized for charging to the cab drivers and shopkeepers are in league to procure the services of such individuals, and the "Indian goods," "touts" and "runners" accost you at every turn, and every trick short of actual violence is resorted to.

The extent to which this practice has led to the saying that every sane adult American citizen, first, there is a great waterfall there; second, that a man's pocket will be emptied there; and third, that the various points of interest around the falls—counting those only which it is necessary to see—amount to 24 cents for each person. And without paying there is nothing to be seen. It is a positive fact that there is no spot on the American shore from which the falls can be seen without paying a fee.

And, when the visitor has paid for admission to the principal points of interest, he is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

WHAT AVARICE AND IMPROVEMENTS HAVE DONE.

Members of the Falls for Reformed Village—A Trustee's Foreign Report—The Falls for an International Park.

There is a story of a man, says the London Spectator, who desired to approach Niagara under perfect conditions, and who, therefore, left the train at some distance from the village of Niagara Falls, and made his way on foot, endeavoring during his walk to bring himself to a proper state of mind to be tested upon by the beautiful scenery of the vast spectacle.

At the moment, however, when he stepped into full view of the cataract, he was accosted by a briak individual, who offered him for a small sum a piece of colored glass, illustrating its use by turning his back to the falls, putting his head between his legs, and thus contemplating the scene upside down, and through his colored medium.

"That, sir," said he, when he had resumed his normal attitude, "is the way to obtain the most impressive and gorgeous view of the falls. Ten cents!"

This story illustrates the first of the two processes by which Niagara is being destroyed. For years there has been a constant stream of visitors to the falls village, and in the absence of any restrictive legislation, there is no limit to what we should expect. Nearly the whole of the population consists of people who make a living by preying on the casual visitor.

Every opportunity is seized for charging to the cab drivers and shopkeepers are in league to procure the services of such individuals, and the "Indian goods," "touts" and "runners" accost you at every turn, and every trick short of actual violence is resorted to.

The extent to which this practice has led to the saying that every sane adult American citizen, first, there is a great waterfall there; second, that a man's pocket will be emptied there; and third, that the various points of interest around the falls—counting those only which it is necessary to see—amount to 24 cents for each person. And without paying there is nothing to be seen. It is a positive fact that there is no spot on the American shore from which the falls can be seen without paying a fee.

And, when the visitor has paid for admission to the principal points of interest, he is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only one place on the American side where the visitor is left in undisturbed enjoyment of the scene, viz., Goat Island, the largest of the islands in the gorge, which is owned by the American and Horsehoe falls. Owing to the good taste of its owners, the Porter family, and to particularly the efforts of the late Mr. J. H. Porter, this lovely island has been saved from the "improvements" which are ruining the scenery of the falls.

Only during the minority of one member of the family, and he will shortly come of age. From every other point the visitor is met by a "park," where crowds of excursionists hold picnic, with a "pavilion," where they dance, an illuminated spray of water, and a "pavilion" for throwing colored electric lights upon the falls.

There is only