ORTH AMERICAN LIFE ASSURANCE CO.

ANNUAL MEETING OF POLICY-HOLDERS AND GUARANTORS.

The annual meeting of the North American Life Assurance Company was held in the Company's Head Office on Tuesday, the 29th ult., the President, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, M.P., in the chair, when the following report was read:

The Directors submit to the meeting the accompanying Financial Statements, which exhibit the transactions of the Company in a clear and comprehensive manner.

During the year 1,636 applications for Insurances for $2,626,000 were received, upen which were issued 1,549 policies, securing $2,464,500.

This large addition to the Company's business is most gratifying, in view of the competition which existed during the year, and which, in some instances, in the opinion of your Directors has been of a character most injurious to the best interests of Life Insurance.

The Directors have carried the balance of the year's income, after paying losses and expenses and providing for all liabilities, into the Reserve Fund.

The reports of the Superintendent of Insurance show that from 1869 to 1887, inclusive, Foreign Life Companies received in premiums from Canadian policy-holders nearly thirty-eight millions of dollars, a great part of which was withdrawn from the available capital of this millions and went abroad, thereby aiding the advancement of commercial competitors. By dealing with our Home Companies, such money would have been utilized in building up and extending Canadian interests. The reserves and the resources of this Company are invested in es Thorburn, the Company's able and experienced Medical Director, has prep Satisfactory, but exceedingly gratifying to all interested in this Company.

Now a word about competition; it has undoubtedly been keener and of a more reckless kind during the past year than was probably ever experienced before in this country. In common with other well managed Canadian Companies, we hope never to see it so again. Some of the inexperienced appear to think that the only object is to secure insurance irrespective of the premium rate or its payment. This is an erroneous and unprofessional view in which to regard the business. Our Managing Director, who, as you all know, is well qualified to experience an opinion on the subject, says the well being of all companies depends upon their receiving a proper premium rate, combined, of course, with sound conservative management. In this I entirely agree, From the inception of this Company we have worked on the principle of selling our insurance as a legitimate article, and obtaining therefor a fair price. This of as much importance to the insured as it is to the Company; insurance is not solely for to-day, but for a long period of time. And it is a duty devolving upon This is of as much importance to the insured as it is to the Company; insurance is not solely for to-day, but for a long period of time. And it is a duty devolving upon the Directors and Managers of a company to see that safe and satisfactory provision be made for the future. I have already explained to you what we have done in this respect, and we know to-day that we are not only able to meet all calls on the Company, but we have in addition a handsome surplus above all liabilities. Those contemplating insurance are very often led to form erroneous notions of the relative Those contemplating insurance are very often led to form erroneous notions of the relative merits of companies, especially in the case of the older companies having large assets, which are almost wholly debts due by the company to its present policy-holders. New insurers having contributed nothing to the amount by which such assets exceed the company's liabilities, can derive no benefit from such surplus. A younger and smaller company may, from better plans and management; limiting its operations to our healthy climate, be a much better company in which to insure. I am pleased to see from the Government reports that better company in which to insure. I am pleased to see from the Government reports that the majority of our Canadian Companies are making such good progress. This is as it should be, for are they not quite able to meet the wants of all intending insurers! It should be, for are they not quite able to meet the wants of all intending insurers? It appears to me that the people of this country should in matters like Life Insurance give the preference to our Home Companies. In doing so, they are not only helping to build up our own institutions, but also adding in the development of our country. All the funds of the Canadian Companies are retained here and loaned to our own people; whereas, in foreign companies they are almost wholly invested in their securities, and the available capital of the country is diminished to that extent. I cannot press this important point upon your the country is diminished to that extent. I cannot press this important point upon your attention too strongly. I trust my remarks will be an impetus to our workers in the field, to aid them in securing for us more insurance this year than in any past year in the history attention too strongly. I trust my remarks will be an impetus to our workers in the field, to aid them in securing for us more insurance this year than in any past year in the history of the Company. As regards the Dominion, I am proud of my country, and of what, under great difficulties, it has accomplished so far. No man can foretell the future, but of this I feel certain, that if Canadians will go hand in hand pushing forward their rethis I feel certain, that if Canadians will go hand in hand pushing forward their rethis I feel certain, that if Canadians will go hand in hand pushing forward their repeated interests, many of you will live to see this Dominion one of the most prosperous, peaceful, and God-fearing countries in the world, far surpassing the most sanguine expectations of any of us. I will now take my seat, wishing you and yours a very happy and prosperous year.

Hon. Mr. Morris said :- Seconding the motion is a very light task after the able manne Hon. Mr. Morris said:—Seconding the motion is a very light task after the able manner in which our esteemed President has placed before you the strong position of this Company, and the important bearing of Life Insurance upon our national prosperity. I am glad to see here such a large and representative body of men engaged in presenting to our people the claims of this Company, and who are establishing it in a position of prominence and usefulness on the solid foundation that was from the outset the basis of its organization. The great advantages of Life Insurance are not as generally understood as they should be; its benefits are of the highest value to the community. I was much impressed with this fact by an examination of the last Insurance Report. At the end of 1867 the policies in force amounted to the large sum of $191.694,000, To the hard-working mechanic, to the struggling clerk, to the merchant, and to the farmer, the boon of this great protection is in every sense a wise provision for their families, and meets their wants and necessities at a time when help is most needed, and in the majority of cases affords their only protection. I am very glad to know that our Company has been so successful in obtaining the at a time when help is most needed, and in the majority of cases allords their only protection. I am very glad to know that our Company has been so successful in obtaining the confidence of the public. The large amount of business secured is the best evidence that the community have confidence in the Company. I think that the conservative methods upon which may have the approach have contributed because the the result. I must be active constants of the contributed by the contributed which our business is conducted have contributed largely to this result. I most heartly concur with the President in the importance of Canadians giving their support to Canadian Companies. with the President in the importance of Canadians giving their support to Canadian Companies. That our people are doing this is shown conclusively by the following figures:—In 1867 the official reports show that U. S. Companies effected eight times as much insurance in Canada as of the Canadian Companies; while in 1887 Canadian Companies effected more than double that of the U.S. Companies. In 1867 the premium income of the U. S. Companies was nearly three and a half times that of the Canadian Companies; while in 1887 the premium income of the Canadian Companies was considerably in excess of that of their United States competitors. This is conclusive evidence that our people are realizing the great advantages and convenience when accompanies Companies was considerably in excess of that of their United States competitors. This is conclusive evidence that our people are realizing the great advantages and convenience when, accommodation is needed, of dealing with our own institutions, and that Companies like our own, which limit their operations to our healthy country and vigorous population. must necessarily be able to do better for their policy-holders than those extending their operations to the Southern States and other unhealthy parts of the world. Years ago, when consulting director of a large Scotch Company, I observed that the mortality in Canada was comparatively small; this fact is one of the utmost importance. The reports show that our Home Companies receive fact is one of the utmost importance. The reports show that our Home Companies receive a better rate of interest than their foreign competitors, and, therefore, should be able to give more satisfactory returns to policy-holders than such Companies. As the profits will not be divided for two years, it was, I thought, a wise procedure, in view of passing events, to carry the whole of the savings of the past year to our Reserve Fund. This in no way affects the Surplus Fund, which could have been considerably augmented this year, but makes the position of the whole of the savings of the past year to our Reserve Fund. This in no way affects the Surplus Fund, which could have been considerably augmented this year, but makes the position of our Company in security to our policy-holders and intending insurers unexcelled in this country. By a reference to the official Government reports, it must be exceedingly gratifying to notice that in the matter of income, assets, insurance in force, etc., we far excel any of them at the same period in their history. I have such confidence in our agents that I have no doubt we will be enabled each year to report our Company in even a more favorable position. ARTICLES FOR SALE.

Mr. A. H. CAMPBELL, Chairman of the Finance Committee, in speaking of the care and discrimination used in making the Company's investments, said that it was a remarkably satisfactory state of affairs to have only some $600 due for interest at the close of the year and a few days after that this sum should be reduced to ab at $100.

The usual votes of thanks were passed and the election of Diseators.

The usual votes of thanks were passed and the election of Directors was then proceeded with. The scrutineers reported the old Board of Directors re-elected, with the addition thereto of his Worship E. F. Clarke, Mayor of Toronto. After the adjournment of the meeting, the board met and re-elected the officers of last year.
