

MOSLEM TOMBS ON SLOPES OF KEDRON.

the so-called Cavern of the Agony, a grotto in the solid rock, probably once a cistern or oil press.

Leaving the cypress-studded Garden of Gethsemane, with its ancient, gray-leaved olives, to the right, we climbed the hill to the beautiful new church, erected by the Russians in honour of the reigning Empress. Its many bulbous domes give it an exceedingly picturesque appearance, and its exquisite mosaic pictures have cost a prince's ransom.
