bar and lay on the small strip which is cut out. driving two or three three-quarter inch wire nails through it and through the foundation into the projecting strip below. You can put in the toundation probably two or three times as fast as by the old method and make it much more secure. When we are cutting the top bars we do not cut this small strip entirely out but leave a small piece attached so as to save us counting double the number when we are shipping. We mention this because there may be some who may think that the piece should not be taken out. By running a knife along in the saw cut along the side of the top bar the little strip will fall out quite readily.
