

the rule of three inclusively, has some idea of geography, (and if he be a Roman Catholic) the principles of religious instruction contained in the lesser catechism, the principal shall grant him a certificate.

ARTICLE SECOND.—The candidate having thus obtained the certificate of the principal, shall then in the presence of two witnesses (who, with the principal shall countersign the same,) sign an application in writing for admission containing the declaration required by the 23rd general regulation, according to form marked A. This shall be forwarded to the Superintendent of schools together with all the certificates and other documents required; and if the whole be found correct, the Superintendent shall cause the name of the candidate to be inscribed in the register, and due notice thereof shall be given to the principal.

ARTICLE THIRD.—Forty eight purses will be awarded to each school. Twenty three purses of eight pounds and one of six pounds for the boys, and twenty three purses of six pounds and one of five pounds for the girls.

ARTICLE FOURTH.—The certificates of moral character of candidates for the purses must further certify, that they have not the means of paying the whole of their board.

ARTICLE FIFTH.—The purses will be given in the order in which the applications for admission are received; the smallest will be the last given. If several candidates should apply on the same day for the last purse or purses to be given, the Superintendent and the principal shall decide to whom they should be granted, and they can, if they see fit, subject the candidates to another examination.

ARTICLE SIXTH.—There shall be attached to each school a boarding house for boys and another for girls,—the charge for board will be £10 per annum for boys and £12 for girls—payable quarterly in advance.

ARTICLE SEVENTH.—Day scholars must acquaint the Principal with their places of residence. Those who will not reside with their parents, and who shall have been exempted by the Superintendent of schools from residing in the boarding house attached to the Normal School, must inform the principal in what boarding house they reside, which must be approved of by him. No boarding house receiving as boarders male pupil teachers, will be allowed to receive those of the other sex, and vice-versa.

THE GRAMMAR OF ENGLISH GRAMMARS,

BY GOULD BROWN,

AUTHOR OF "THE INSTITUTES OF ENGLISH GRAMMAR," &c., &c.

SECOND EDITION—REVISED AND IMPROVED.

WITH PORTRAIT OF THE AUTHOR.

"IT leaves far, very behind it, everything which has hitherto appeared under the denomination of an English Grammar. . . . It is in the amazing extent and compass of the 'critica sylva'—the topics, definitions, rules, and illustrations; in the acute investigation which is every where displayed; and in the minuteness and perfect finish with which every particular is wrought up, that the distinguishing features of the work most manifestly appear. . . . We see, as the result of all that has been done by our author, a noble and most important book—ample, critical, and symmetrical in a high degree—and, what is a most remarkable feature, an original work—the work of one head and one pen."—The District School Journal of Education.

"We have carefully examined its pages, and feel bound to acknowledge it a standard work—settling numerous and vexatious disputes among teachers and scholars, and rendering plain and interesting what has heretofore appeared difficult and uninviting, and even unprofitable to those who aimed at certainty."—The American Artisan.

V. M. RICE, late Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of New York, in a recent letter speaking of the author of this work, says,

"I know of no man to whom this country is more indebted for a correct knowledge than to him."

ALSO, RECENTLY PUBLISHED,

REVISED EDITIONS OF

BROWN'S FIRST LINES OF ENGLISH GRAMMAR,

FOR YOUNG LEARNERS.

BROWN'S INSTITUTES OF GRAMMAR,

FOR THE HIGHER CLASSES.

SAMUEL U. BERRIAN, of Rye, School Commissioner for the 2d District of Westchester County, N. Y., says,

"The definitions and rules are rigidly exact, the paradigms neatly arranged, and the formulæ explicit and easy of enunciation. Method is a marked feature of the book (First Lines); and as to its didactics whatever is said, is said in the fewest words possible: principle is never found clashing with principle; there is a due sequence in the parts; and all goes to make up a harmonious whole.

"Brown's Grammars are of a class never to die. At present of unsurpassable excellence, and the highest possible authority, we doubt if they can ever be superseded, at least while our language remains what it is.

The 'Institutes,' the author's intermediate, or academic Grammar, comes forth also rejuvenated, elaborately polished, and beautiful in its exterior. We call the attention of teachers and private learners to this work, especially of those teachers who have the conduct of higher schools."

"Brown's 'First Lines,' and his 'Institutes of English Grammar,' in their original forms, were the best Grammars we ever used; with their improvements, they justly command the good will of teachers."—Massachusetts Teacher.
