PEACE & SECURITY

CUBA: THIRTY YEARS OF FIDEL

What became of the revolution that was supposed to work?

Also in this issue:

Kim Richard Nossal
There was no debate about defence policy during the election because there was nothing to debate.

Yves Bélanger and Pierre Fournier
The usefulness of investment in military production is increasingly in doubt.

Nancy Gordon
Better late than never, the Soviets have begun to take the UN seriously.

Bernard Wood
Hostile domestic constituencies could come together on a new meaning of "security."

Stephen Handelman
Soviet Uzbekistan operates according to political imperatives much older than those of Lenin.
