

ere ?
I., Scene I.

Full gaye was all ye grounde, and queynt and powdered and
as men had it peynt.

Romaunt of the Rose, p 61.

GS.

S. Carsley,

IMPORTER OF

s a matting
whether for
outside use,

ENGLISH AND SCOTCH FLOOR CLOTHS
AND LINOLEUMS.

First import for spring 1885 :

low price

r S. Cars-
s, Offices,

a various
ut sizes,

xquisite

In order to secure for these Floor coverings the approval of our customers, they have been selected from manufacturers of the highest repute only, and whose productions can be relied on as being thoroughly seasoned. The holding of these goods in stock for long periods after finishing does not practically season the cloth. This must be done, and is effected by high class makers during every process and stage of its manufacture ; the designs and colors are of the newest. The advantages claimed for Linoleum is its carpet-like appearance, softness and warmth to the tread, durability and cleanliness.

The Floorcloths, although lacking the warmth and softness, is non-absorbent, and is therefore peculiarly adapted for kitchens or offices, where grease is liable to be spilt, and is superior where hard wear or constant washing is necessary.

N.B.—A practical and simple recipe for the preservation of these cloths will be given to each purchaser.