

INDEX

- André*, 31; at the laying of the first stone of the church of Notre-Dame, 89; her death, 89; her religious zeal, 91, 92
- Maricourt, Le Moyne de, 16; takes part in an expedition to capture Hudson Bay, 204
- Marquette, Father, with Joliet explores the upper part of the Mississippi, 11, 59, 82, 146, 153; his death, 146, 147
- Maubec, the abbey of, 131; incorporated with the diocese of Quebec, 136; a description of, 137
- Membre, Father, descends the Mississippi with La Salle, 149, 150, 151
- Mesnu, Peuvret de, secretary of the Sovereign Council, 158, 166
- Métomègue, Algonquin chief, joins Dollard, 69
- Meulles, M. de, replaces Duchesneau as commissioner, 168, 185; replaced by Champigny, 204
- Mézy, Governor de, 10; succeeds d'Avagour, 41; disagrees with the bishop, 51; his death, 51, 52
- Michilimackinac, 146, 149, 216
- Millet, Father, pays a tribute to Garakonté, 73; 215
- Mississippi River, explored by Marquette and Joliet as far as the Arkansas River, 11, 59, 82, 146; La Salle descends to its mouth, 150, 151
- Monsipi, Fort (Hudson Bay), captured by the French, 204
- Montigny, Abbé de, one of Laval's early titles, 7, 19
- Montigny-sur-Avre, Laval's birth-place, 17
- Montmagny, M. de, governor of New France, 8
- Montmorency, Henri de, near kinsman of Laval, 18; beheaded by the order of Richelieu, 18
- Montreal, the Island of, 8, 86; made over to the Sulpicians, 108, 175; the parishes of, united with the Seminary of St. Sulpice, 175, 176, 183
- Montreal, the mission of La Montagne at, 9, 74; its first Roman Catholic church, 87-90; its religious zeal, 90-2; see also Ville-Marie
- Morel, Thomas, director of the Quebec seminary, 55, 101; his arrest, 163; set at liberty, 164; his death, 219
- Morin, M., quoted, 89, 90
- Mornay, Mgr. de, Bishop of Quebec, 12
- Mother Mary of the Incarnation, on Laval's devotion to the sick, 33; on his private life, 34, 254; on the results of the great earthquake, 45, 46; on the work of the Sisters, 79, 80; her religious zeal and fine qualities, 92, 93; Abbé Ferland's appreciation of, 93-5; speaks of the work of Abbé Fénelon and Father Trouvé, 109; on the liquor traffic, 113; sums up Talon's merits, 114; speaks of the colonists' children, 119; on civilizing the Indians, 125, 126; an appreciation of, by Abbé