Under the watchful eyes of special guards, there is on exhibition in a Yonge street window a large amount of gold. That medium of exchange which is recognized in every country is here to be seen to the amount of $42,500. Even gold, the most precious of metals makes a considerable pile for the equivalent of that amount of money. There is a large tray just full of gold coins. From five dollar pieces to twenty dollar pieces they are there in abundance, and just as one feels he would like to take a handful his eye falls upon a plainclothesman.

Melt Gold Coins.

Of all the people who buy jewelry there must be very few who know that gold coins are melted to make it. Nevertheless, it is a fact. Gold is gold in whatever shape it is in, and is just as valuable in the form of a ring as it is in the form of a coin, and yet it seemed so strange when Mr. Tisdall said the ones on exhibition will be melted just the same as the bars and made into jewelry.

W. Flavelle's Solution of the Present Financial Problem.

CONFIDENCE NEEDED

Conservative Bankers' New Opinion of British Chancellor.

The measures adopted by Great Britain to meet the financial crisis incident to the war, and their application to our position in Canada, was the subject of an interesting address delivered last night to the Riverdale Business Men's Association by Try. the war, and their application to our position in Canada, was the subject of an interesting address delivered last night to the Riverdale Business Men's Association, by J. W. Flavelle.

In opening, Mr. Flavelle said that the discovery and growth of credit was all that made the present enormous business in the financial world possible, and lying at the base of credit is confidence." Said the speaker, 'a'nd you rapidly produce distress, and possibly paralysis, in commerce. In London, '99 per cent. of the business is done by 'promises to pay,' compared to one per cent. of gold. The whole basis rests on confidence. As long as the sky is clear, the credit system is admirable, but when confidence is shaken then things begin to look bad."

London's Position.

Commenting on the position of financiers at the outbreak of the war, Mr. Flavelle referred to London as being the centre of all the disturbance, as it is the world's clearing house. He said that in a week London passed from a great system of credit to no credit at all. The bankers in that city realized that the storm would be around the clearing houses of international currency. How to redeem currency as it matured was the question confronting these men during those days of grave apprehension. Referring to the rush on the banks, Mr. Flavelle said: "If you had been in London at the declaration of war you would have seen streams of people, the majority foreigners, lined up waiting to get gold."

Return of Confidence.

There was a curlous return of confidence.

Return of Confidence. There was a curious return of confidence following Lloyd George's speech to the house, in which he urged Britishers to play the game, not the foreigners' game of hoarding. "Two hundred million pounds was offered by the treasury department at five per cent," he said, "but that was never used, because the public's confidence in the country's financial condition had been restored."

Mr. Flavelle said that it was hard to realize how much the public is indebted to the men who work the financial machinery.

Yet their case is not hopeless: A remarkable scientific treatment discovered a little more than a year ago in England is making people hear after years of deafness and is also unequalled for quickly stopping the distressing head noises that are so often the companions of defective hearing. This discovery is called Parmint and has attracted widespread notice throughout Europe, where reports of the remarkable results it has given to deaf people have come in by the hundred.

The effect of Parmint, it seems, is by tonic action to produce a stimulus necessary to reduce all inflammation, swelling, enlargement or thickening of the organs of hearing and to stimulate the entire auditory tract.

Parmint is now being sold by many leading druggists in Toronto and vicinity, and a speedy trial is urged upon all who suffer from catarrhal deafness or headnoises in any degree. Ask the druggist for 1 oz, of Parmint (Domble Strength)

Mr. Lloyd George went on to dwell upon the advantages which British manufacturers enjoy in neutral markets during the war, but emphasized the serious situation which should arise at the end of that period. Consequently, he said, the nation must raise as much money as possible upon taxation during the good period. It was a time of sacrifice.
