MESSRS. WHITNEY AND FOY Continued From Page 1.

They would not conduct the business of the province so carelessly that it would be possible for an official to receive and keep public moneys for years without the offence being discovered. They would not allow sheriffs or other officials to sell their positions, as was the case with the sprievalty of Leeds and Grenville, They would not condone acts like Hon. They would not condone acts like Hon. Mr. Harcourt committed in secretly altering a bill during its passage thru altering a bill during its passage thru the House. They would not postpone amendments to the Assessment Act in order to release their friends from their the obligations.

Abandoned Liberal Principles.

Mr. Foy declared that Premier Ross had abandoned Liberal principles when he declined to protest against the interference of the Dominion government in provincial affairs, and allowed the Toronto and Hamilton Railway bill, purely a local affair, to be passed. No wonder honest Liberals hang their heads in shame at being members of a party led by Mr. Ross. Another thing Mr. Whitney would, not allow was members of the legislature receiving contracts from a railway that had benefited out of the funds of the province. It was only a few days since two members of the legislature had issued a writ for $400,000 against the Algoma Central Railway, a railway that had been bonused heavily by the government of which these men are supporters.

Premier as a Temperance Advocate.

Mr. Whitney observed that the Promier at Gravenhurst had made promises to the temperance people. For thirty long years Mr. Ross had floated on the top of the wave by his pretended interest in the temperance cause. He rose above the surface in twest Middlesex because of his connection with that cause. He carried the cause to the House of Commons and to the legislature, but every time any valuables temperance legislation was proposed Mr. Ross has been on hand to kill it with an amendment. oroposed Mr. Ross mendment.

The Conservative leader showed how the proposed to husband the resources of the province and devote considerable attention to the development of agriculturality. of the province and devote attention to the development of agricuature, and touched on the school question so far as to take issue with Mr. Ross, who wanted to make the public school the stepping stone to the universities. Mr. Whitney's policy on the school question was to make the public school an institution which will fit publis for their position in life.

The speaker called the Nepigon fish charter a "steal," and then touched lightly on the West Huron and South Oxford iniquities. He said he could prove, if Mr. Ross should dispute him, that in two constituencies alone there was more money spent on behalf of the government candidates than the whole fund of the Conservative party amounted to from Rat Portage to Coteau Du Lac.

Chasing Gamey.

Turning to the subject most discussed in the campaign, Mr. Whitney said Gamey needed no defence. He could take care of himself. Instead of defending the government and its action the whole brood of government workers was out chasing Gamey. Gamey was not on trial. The government of Ontario was the subject of discussion. The speaker declared as he took up some of the features of the case that Mr. Stratton was not the chief offender; he was the man put forward to do the things which the government said ought to be done. The moment the government agreed to the judges report it should have expelled Gamey, but it dare not do it. Mr. Gamey may have been unwise; that was for himself to say. After dealing with the Crossin affidavit, Mr. Whitney gave a list of the crimes charged up to the Liberal party since Mr. Ross became Liberal party since Mr. Ross became Premier, and sat down. The chairman called for cheers for the King, Whitney, Foy and Mahaffy, and someone in the audience took good care that Gamey was not overlooked.

Mr. Smith has been at Goulais Bay since Thursday and to night is holding meetings at intermediate points, and will not be home until after midnight at the earliest, so cannot give his state-ment, that the people are anxiously looking for.

The last two nights of the campaign

The last two nights of the campaign will likely see four big meetings in town. R. R. Gamey will speak to-morrow night, with other local Contervatives. At the Liberal meeting, as a counter attraction, Hon. Messrs. Hartourt, Gibson and George Graham, M.L.A., Brockville, will be the speakers, on Monday night Mr. Whitney and J. P. Downey, M.L.A., will be here and Fremier Ross will likely be the attraction at the Liberal meeting.

AN ADMIRER OF ALVERSTONE.

Editor World. It is pitiful to read the petty and childish nonsense that is being written imputing all sorts of motives to Lord Alverstone. Cannot you make people taderstand that a pure high-minded man like Lord Alverstone is above being swayed by such considerations as they suggest and that he has given his judzment in the culy way that he saw was right. Our case was weak and the plaintid's was strong, so they won their cause. Cannot Canada take the judgment in a manly way and accept it as given by a mind absolutely just. At present Canada, by its pecyfish childishness is making itself the laughing stock of the world. Lookers on seeing the unjust imputations we cast, will say that our mind must indeed be naturally very crooked, when we are so totally unable to recognize an upright honorable manabaloutely above suspicion, when we meer him. ritten imputing all, sorts of motives to

When it is considered how much pleasure is being realized from those pianos which ARE being used for the purpose for which they were intended—

When it is considered how much more pleasure even these pianos would give if their owners could play upon them a greater number of selections.—
When all these things are considered then the purchase of a Pianola becomes a subject of self-interest to all owners of pianos—more than this, it offers the best as well as the only practical reason why you should invest from $300 to $1,200 in a piano. Mason & Risch

The Pianola is an instrument which enables anyone to play the piano, irrespective of musical training— At the same time it allows the player entire command of expression.

N.B.—Do not confuse THE PIANOLA with other socalled perfect piano-players. There is but one PIANOLA, and we are the exclusive agents.

The PIANOLA has not only satisfied curiosity, but it has gratified a longing for an instrument WHICH WOULD DO JUST WHAT THE PIANOLA DOES-i. e., enable anyone to play the piano without the necessity for tedious practising.

Of Free Food Leagues, Which Oppose Mr. Chamberlain's Policy,

London, Oct. 23.—At a meeting held to-night in Westminster, of the Parliamentary Committee of the Unionist Free Food Leagues, the Duke of Devonshire was unanimously elected president of the league, and Lord Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer in the second administration of Lord Salisbury; Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, who occupied the same office from 1895 to 1902, and C. T. Ritchie, who resigned as Chancellor of the Exchequer ths fail, were elected vice-presidents. The meeting approved the issue of a manifesto, setting forth the views of the league.

Briefly, this manifesto expresses the willingness of the league to consider, in a friendly and loyal spirit, any definite plan the Premier may submit to parliament. It criticizes adversely and at considerable length, however, Joseph Chamberlain's proposals, and acconsiderable length, however, Joseph Chamberlain's proposals, and declares they would include all fine disadvantages of the Imperial zollverien with none of its gains, and tend towards disniced the second of the empire, while leading inevitably to a policy of protection.
