Established 1892

The newspaper prints the story of an eyewitness of the attack, the man-ager of the local hotel at Bergen-an-Zee, who says a considerable numter of destroyers were firing at the German ships. A number of shells, fell in the neighborhood of Bergen. but so far as is known, without injuring anyone. One shell, according to the story, fell in Gergenbinnen, a trifle inland from Bergen.

Thirteen Disposed of.

A Reuter despatch from Ymuiden and with the advent of new enterprises and industries it is obvious that immigration will increase, and that says four German ships have been by British destroyers in the Sea, four captured, three North stranded and three forced to return o Rotterdam.

Since Saturday 17 German steamers have sailed from Rotterdam, three at one time and fourteen at another, the despatch says. Of the frist group one, the Magdalena, Blumenthal, 1535 tons gross, was wrecked off Zandvoort. Of the second group, owing to the action of British destroyers, not one vessel was able to proceed, eight being capured or sunk and three succeeding in putting back to Rotterdam. Of the three remaining steamships were stranded two were afire. Four Captured. The admiralty announces the capture of four German steamers by British estroyers in the North Sea. The steamers are the Pellworm. Brietzig, Marie Horn and Heintz

Two other German steamers were with the four vessels later captured when the group was signaled by the critish war craft. All six made for the Dutch coast, and two of them reached the shore. These two were badly damaged by gunfire,

IMPORTS EXTENSIVE

sumption is Greater Than Production.

Cuba's agricultural resources, fts mineral wealth and the importance of its import trade are discussed in an interesting article, written by A. T. Quilez, representative of the Canadian Government in Cuba, which is published in the current issue of The Weekly Bulletin, the periodical of the Dominion Department of Trade and Commerce. The article reads as fol-

"There are certain features that characterize the agricultural resources of Cuba which, perhaps no other country could equal—even those situated in the tropical zone. For instance: the western section of the bland known as Vigilta Abade process." stance: the western section of the island known as Vuelta Abajo produces a special grade of tobacco whose quality and aroma have never been approached by that grown in any other soil. The cultivation of sugar cane in Cuba owing to the advantages offered by the climate, soil, rainfall and other elements peculiar to the island, is also in a class by itself. It is not unusual to find canefields still producing, that were planted more than twenty years ago, and this, without the aid of fertilizers. The without the aid of fertilizers. The after first planting is estimated at an average of $72—this includes the cost of plowing, planting and cultiisland known as Vuelta Abajo produces a special grade of tobacco whose ized and properly kept.

Pest Proves Valuable.

"Some years ago a wild plant known in Spanish as Milva was considered a pest by the Cuban farmers for the facility with which it would grow and the large area of other. spread over the large area of otherwise productive land. It has been found now that this plant yields a most valuable fibre which can be sold at excellent prices thruout the mar-kets of the world. One hundred acres of the cheapest and poorest land in Cura known here as Sabanis would produce at the first croy—four years after planting—a net profit of more than $17,000, all expense included, and about $12,000 for successive crops. Coffee and cocoa are produced in Cuba under exceptional conditions. yet, the importation of coffee amounts to more than two and one-half milto more than two and one-half millions of dollars every year, while more than forty thousands of dollars worth of cacao is imported annually for local consumption. This state of affairs has prompted the Cuban Government now to devise ways and means in order to develop these natural resources and every effort is being made to stimulate and promote the cultivation of large quantities of vegatables and other produce that vegetables and other produce that were formerly imported from even as far as the Argentine. As Cuba's cli-mate, the fertility of the soil, and every exceptional geological situation constitutes a most valuable asset for the successful development of all her resources, the future that awaits this island economically should act as an incentive for the merchants of Canada to use their best efforts in order to secure a strong foothold in the ever-increasing trade of the island.

Minerals Abound. "Up to the present time the follow-ing minerals have been found in large quantities, iron, copper, manganese and asphalt, while nickel, leadchrome some silver and gold have also been discovered. The importance of a geological survey of the island has been brought before the attention of the Cuban Government and if the plan, is carpied thru very much is expected as a result of these investigations.
"Copper is also found in large quantities in both the eastern and western sections of the island. Not long ago a former secretary of public works, to use his own words, "stumbled over a copper mine in the Province of Pinar Del Rio," and since that time over a million dollars worth of ore has been taken out. Ex-President Jose Miguel Gomez, now in prison for his participation in the Cuban uprising, has another mine from which he has extracted over five hundred thousand dollars worth of copper and it is claimed that he refused $5,000,000 offered him for the mine.

"It is a fact worthy of consideration, that the Island of Cuba figures in the statistics with the largest import trade among all of the American Latin republics with the exception of Argentina. The above statement is the more significant when it is considered that Cuba is but thinly popu-lated and that only a short time has elapsed since she became a republic prior to which her history is a long and almost uninterrupted period or revolutions that brought to the country ruin and devastation. Today Cube over 200 sugar mills able of producing over 25,000,000 bags of sugar or more than three and

So weak and played out I just had to lay dewn my tools and quit work. Yes, sir, I went five long years without enjoying a well day, and you can imagine how blue and despondent I was. I have actually gained six pounds in weight and feel like my strength has been increased a hundred per cent Gas has quit forming on my stomach, all the pains have disappeared, I'm not nervous and I sleep like a log every night. I simply feel better all over and my work is no longer a burden, but is a pleasure to me. My friends all know the shape I was in before I took Tanlac, and now see my remarkable improvement. I know of four or five people who have begun taking Tanlac since seeing the good it did me. The Cuban sugar industry caters to all the markets of the world and with the advent of new enterprises and indusfries it is obvious that immigration will increase, and that large sums will be invested in the acquisition of machinery of all kinds and supplies for same. Likewise, there will be a growing demand for building materials, hardware and manufactured goods, while foodstuffs will also find excellent markets in Cuba as in the past, and with the invasion and distribution of capital resulting from the high price of sugar and all other Cuban resources there will be even a larger demand for luxuries as well as everything that constitutes a necessity of life."
