POETRY.

HOPE AT THE CRADLE.

Lo! at the couch were infant beauty sleeps, Her silent watch the nournful mother keeps; She, while the lovely babe unconscious lies, Smiles on her slumbering child with pensive eyes, And weaves a song of melancholy joy—

"Sleep, image of thy father's sleep, my boy!
No lingering hour of sorrow shall be thine,
No sigh, that rends thy father's heart and mine:
Bright as his manly sire, the son shall be,
In form and soul, but ah! more blest than he.
Thy fame, thy worth, thy filial love, at last
Shall soothe his aching heart for all the past:
With many a smile my solitude repay,
And chase the world's ungenerous scorn away.

"And say, when summoned from the world and thee,
I lay my head hencesthe, will an entire the silent services."

So speaks Affection, ere the infant eye
Can look regard, or brighten in reply;
But when the cherub lip hath learnt to claim
A mother's ear by that endearing name;
Soon as the playful innocent can prove
A tear of pity or a smile of love,
Or con his morning task beneath her care,
Or lisp with holy look his evening prayer,
Or growing mutely pensive, sits to hear
The mournful ballad warbled in his ear;
How fondly looks admiring hope, the while,
At every artless tear, and every smile!
How glows the joyous parent to descry
A guileless bosom, true to sympathy!

Women the best Judges of Beauty.—
"It is rare to hear from a lady such a candid acknowledgment of another's beauty," said Mr. De Lacy. "Do you think so?" said Kate, "Now, it has always occurred to me that women are quite willing to admit one of their own sex to be beautiful, if she is so; but they are naturally more fastidious than men." "Why so?" "Because they read more poetry, and more frequently learn to draw and paint, and therefore have a more true perception of what is beautiful than men have. They know when a face offends against proportion and harmony more readily than men, and therefore are accused of being envious of the said face's charms. Men generally think a woman pretty if she is large and lively, and she takes pleasure in their society."—Clandestine Marriage.

RETORT PROFESSIONAL.—A physician passing by a stone cutter's shop, bawled out, "Good morning, Mr. W-—, hard at work I see. You finish your grave-stones as far as 'In memory of,' and then you wait, I suppose, to see who wants a monument next?" "Why, yes," replied the old man, resting for a moment on his mallet, "unless some body is sick and you are doctoring him, and then I keep right on."

Pretty Fair.—A London paper says that a Yankee has offered Congress to build ships of India Rubber, containing more valuable properties than either wooden or iron vessels. Congress is said to have thrown every discouragement in his way, fearing that in sailing across the line the ships might rub it out.

BALDRSS.

A BEAUTIFUL HEAD OF HAIR
Is the gradest ornament belonging to the human I strame. How strangely the loss of it changes the countenance, and prematurely brings on the appearance of old age, which causes many to recoil at being uncovered, and sometimes even shun society to swit
the jests and sneers of their acquaintance; the remainder of their lives is consequently spent in retirement.
In short, not even the loss of property fills the generous thinking youth with that heavy niking gloom a dres the loss of his hair. To avert all these upplessont circumsances, OLDRIDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA stops the hair from falling off on the first application, and a few bottler restores it again.
I likewise produces eyelrows and whiskers; present
the hair from turning grey, makes it carl beautifully and trees it from scurl. Numerous certificates of lotirref respectability in support of the virtues of Oldridge's Balm are shown by the proprietors.

THE HUMAN HAIR. THE HUMAN HAIR.

Where the hair is observed to be growing thin, nothing can be more preposterous than the use of oils, grease, or any other tatty matter. Their application can only be recommended through the grossest ignorance, as they hasten the fall of the hair, by increasing the relaxation of the skin. When there is a harsh, dry, or contracted skin, and where the small blood vessels which, carry nourishment to the bulb are obstructed, then the oil, &c., may be good, as they tend to relax the skin; but slove they are of no avail. There must be a stimulous to rosse the vessels from their torpor, and quicken the current of the blood.—

TO PHYSICIANS AND PA-TIENTS.

The Blind Piles, said to be incurable by external applications. Solomon Hays warrants the contrary. His Liniment will cure Blind Piles. Facts are more stubborn than theories. He solicits all respectable physicians to try it on their patients. It will do them no harm, and it is known that every physician who has had the honesty to make the trial, has caudidly admitted that it has succeeded in every case they have known. Then why not use it? It is the recipe of one of their most respectable members, now deceased. Why refuse to try it? Because it is sold as a proprietary medicine? Is this a sufficient excuse for suffering their honest patients to linger in distress? We think not. Physicians shall be convinced that there is no humbug or quackery about this article. Why then not alleviate human suffering? If they wont try it before, let them ofter all other prescriptions fail. Physicians are respectfully requested to do themselves and patients the justice to use this article. It shall be taken from the bottles, and done up as their prescription, if they desire.
