TWO OCEAN-GOING FREIGHTERS BUILT IN PORT ARTHUR

The Western Dry Dock and Ship Building yards during the last twelve months turned out two full canal size ocean-going freighters, a photo of which is reproduced here. These vessels, the "Thorgerd" and "Bismarck," were constructed in the Port Arthur ship yards, launched and delivered complete five months after laying of keel.

The Man In The Street

Even the weather has improved since the provincial government was defeated. Although some of the government organs do not seem to have realized that the elections are over.

Government party thought the Acadians were pretty fine people—until they voted for the opposition.

Possibly it was Hon. Mr. Baxter's attempts to speak in French that lost the government the Acadia vote.

Government organs show surprising frankness in their admissions that they did not regard prohibition as a moral issue but as a vote catcher.

Despite the frantic attacks on every one who voted for the opposition there is still room for more than a suspicion that the royal commission investigators had something to do with the government's defeat.

No better tribute to the calibre of the men elected by the opposition could be given than the amount of haste with which the morning government organ, according to the Standard every one of them is fully qualified for cabinet rank. If they have overlooked any, doubtless the matter will be rectified in the next few days.

The United States may be going to war but the president is displaying about the same amount of haste as the average citizen who descends the stairs at midnight to see whether it is a burglar in the dining room or merely the family cat taking a nap.

If there are to be any more positions at city hall like that of the street superintendent, there will be lots of applicants; full pay and no work would appeal to some people.

At present and prospective prices the grocers are likely to cease selling onions by the pound; they will charge so much a can.

It is not surprising that Germany tried to get Mexico into the war; the only surprise is that Mexico should refuse any excuse for getting into a fight.

Even the peaceful Chinese seems to be preparing to take the business end of a gun.

They say the Kaiser is ill but it is safe to bet that he does not feel as sick as he will before the war is over.

Latest trade reports indicate that the candy business which suffered the usual severe setback at the beginning of Lent, is beginning to revive. Tobacconists also report that business is picking up.

TWENTY-THREE DEATHS
Twenty-three deaths were reported to the Board of Health this week as follows:—Senility, three; pneumonia, three; pulmonary tuberculosis, three; bronch pneumonia, two; asthma, one; uremia, one; diphtheria, one; heart disease, one; Hodgkin's disease, one; premature birth, one; meningitis, one; tubercular laryngitis, one; leukemia and puerperal septicemia, each one.

STEAMER SOLD FOR $15,750
The river steamer Hampstead was sold at auction at Chubb's corner at noon today by Sheriff Wilson. It was knocked down to David Coy of this city for the sum of $15,750. The explanation of the bargain price in river steamers lies in the fact that the steamer was badly burned some time ago, and the value of what remains of her hull and machinery, after deducting accumulated claims for wharfage and slippage, is regarded as prohibitive.

MUST GO TO SCHOOL

Parents Censured as Cases are Heard in Police Court

Evidently the truant officer has started a campaign against boys and girls under fourteen who, either through their own fault or the fault of their parents or guardians, have not been attending school regularly. This morning in the police court there were five boys and one girl before Magistrate Ritchie for non-attendance at school. Dr. S. H. Bridges, superintendent of the city schools, Truant Officer McMahon and members of the school board and the principals of schools were in court.

It was shown that some of the truants had been absent upwards of thirty-six days in the last twenty days, and some others sixteen days, etc. The parents or guardians of the children were in court and told they were liable to $2 a day for every day the child was absent from school.

One case of a little girl was pathetic. She said she wanted to go to school and liked to go, but her mother would not let her go. The mother was severely censured. The magistrate penalized the parents, imposing a small fine on all. He said that it was not the boy or girl problem, but today it was the mother and father problem. He laid all the blame on the parents in cases where children were not going to school. With this opinion, Dr. Bridges said he was heartily in accord. It was the case of neglect of children on the part of the parents, and some of them wanted to get their boys to the reformatory. The cases dealt with today will come up again on next Saturday, and also some others set over from this morning.

Those who appeared in court today must report on Saturday next that they have started to attend school again.

GIRLS' CLUB CLASSES
The Girls' Club is carrying on educational work of a special character this winter and with growing success. Last Wednesday evening, for example, classes in primary studies and French were conducted by a graduate of Acadia College, and two graduates of Mt. Allison Business College taught a number of bright girls stenography and book-keeping. The enthusiasm shown by the young people was most inspiring. The business classes have asked for another evening as well. By joining the club any girl who wishes to improve herself has an excellent opportunity, if she will avail herself of it. There were twenty-one girls present on Wednesday evening.

Dear Mary:—

I went over to see our old friend, Gally, the other day. You know she has twins. They are so cunning. But she is having a "time" with them. Jim is too stinky to buy her a new baby buggy and she is ashamed to use her old one in the day time.

Don't you think Jim ought to be lashed? I do. If he had to take care of those kids he would get two baby buggies.

I'm angry, but not at you. Be good,
