WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness—Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow

Lajone Signs.

Nap Lajone has signed his 1913 contract at last. The terms were not made public, but it is not believed his salary of $8,000 was reduced, according to a Cleveland dispatch. The signing of the contract sets at rest rumors that Lajone would be traded.

THE TURF

T. G. Hart of Marysville has purchased the fast little mare Mary Daniel and will race her in the matinee driving events in Fredericton this week.

THE RING

McFarland and Britton.

Packey McFarland and Jack Britton have finally come to terms. They have signed articles of agreement to meet in a ten-round contest in Madison Square Garden, New York, on February 7. The bout should be one of the most scientific affairs staged in years, but there will not be a great deal of slugging, as neither McFarland nor Britton rely upon a punch in order to win. Packey will receive $8,000 as his end of the purse. He has been guaranteed this sum by Danny Morgan, manager of Britton who will receive 50 per cent of the money taken at the gate.

John L. in Boston.

John L. Sullivan was in Boston on Tuesday on one of his now rare visits to the city. He came to testify in a case of John Douglas, a theatrical looking agent, who is suing the Western Union in the United States District Court. As he sat in the witness seat in the court room he made the other five or six men, who were waiting to testify, look like pigmies. It is only his size however, that would lead the present generation to think that he was once the hero of the prize ring. Now he is a real fat man.

He was dressed in a dark suit, a blue band shirt and a necktie of variegated design. In his buttonhole was the emblem of the Progressive party. His hair and eyes mustache seemed to be more silvery than ever. In his cheeks, nevertheless, was the rosy coloring that means life in the open with plenty of fresh air.

"How are you feeling these days?" he was asked.

"Fine! Fine! never better!" he bellowed, so loud that Judge Morton turned slightly, and others in the court room picked up their ears.

"Easy—your whisper equals a college yell," commented the reporter. "What are you weighing now?"

"Wouldn't you like to be back in the same?"

"I know, but don't you wish that you were young again and ready for a smashing bout?"

"There would be something doing if I were," he snapped with a sharp glance. "The fight game is not what it was."

"What's the matter with it?"

He turned a scornful glance and the reporter felt like moving away. It's nothing but business now. All fixed up. How much will you pay me to lose?" That's it. Nothing but the old time when the game was straight."

To a suggestion that Jack Johnson seemed to be in plenty of trouble now, John L. snapped: "He's an idiot!" and again the judge turned and the court officers started forward as if to break up the interview.

"Do you suppose McCarthy could lick him?"

"I dunno. All I know about that fighter is what I read and I never comment on a man unless I have seen him in action," John stated.

"Do you come up from the farm often?"

"Once in a while," John stalled again. "What do I want in Boston? You haven't any fresh air here. I want fresh air."

"So you like country life in Abington?"

"O sure. Nothing like it. I go to bed at 11 or 12 and get up at 7. I only need five hours' sleep."

"I see you wear the badge of 'political purity.'"

"He's a fine fellow," Sullivan growled. "You can't down a fighter like that. He'll come."

The last two words were so loud that a court officer refused to be kind-hearted any longer and gave his decision that he retired in the reporter being taken from the ring.

SUCCESS FOR THE K. C. THEATRICALS

without a show of remorse. Miss Cessie McQuade, a widow with a widow's cunning, as Mrs. Beckman Street was known, was the most attractive of the role brought out the best that was in her for comedy and charm. Miss Agnes Scully in the part of Marian Hayes, made such a dainty sweetheart that no one could blame Charlie for being in love with her, and the same may be said of Miss Clara O'Connor, who as Bernice, whose hand was sought by Tom, was most captivating and pleasing. The only drawback amongst the ladies was Miss Kathryn Wallace, but from the graceful air of ease which she displayed, her pretty stage appearance, and her effective handling of the role of Gertrude Underhill, none there was who would have thought that she had not had considerable experience behind the footlights. As Lily, a German maiden, Miss Josephine Walsh was most attractive and was responsible for much of the success of the piece, her dialect being particularly good and her acting natural and clever. The costumes worn by the ladies in the last act before the reception was called off were greatly admired by feminine eyes and excited favor from the masculine viewpoint as well.

The Specialties

With the presentation of the comedy considered a dramatic triumph for amateurs, there is much to be said of the specialties, which were the last of the evening's honors with the best there was. The solos and choruses were finished and pleasing, and reflected credit upon those participating and upon J. A. Kelly under whose direction they were given. The specialties were two New York successes secured by J. P. Loney. Dr. F. J. Hogan, sang "Come to the Hall" with splendid effect, his fine voice making a most pleasing impression. He was aided in the choruses by a bevy of pretty girls and youthful stars whose voices blended nicely, and who waited and sang gracefully and well. Gerald R. McCafferty sang a hit in his singing of "My Little Turkey Opat" with another large chorus of young ladies and gentlemen who sang and capered gaily and prettily while the spotlight added to the general pleasing effects of the whole.

The choruses were capably attended to by both soloists and those participating in the choruses were encored several times the large audience seeming not to grow tired of what was being done to entertain them. The costumes worn by the young ladies in the choruses were very pretty, particularly in the ball room scene when the evening gowns cast splendor and radiance which were augmented by the lighting effects attended to by Wm. F. Rhea. Miss Helena Langheim performed at the piano with cleverness and distinction.

The boxes were attractively decorated with the Knights' colors and a large K. of C. electric sign was in place over the stage.

The young ladies in the specialties were: Miss Helena Scully, Josephine Fitzpatrick, Nellie Carleton, Alice Ward, Margaret Ward, Gertrude Morris, Kathleen Money, Kathleen O'Malley, Margaret M. Kennedy, Alice Tierney, Molly McDade, Josephine Connor, Pauline Dalton, Angela Rhea, Gussie Wallace, Gertrude McCafferty, Eunice Dustin, Grace Mahoney, Miss Helen M. Murray.

The young men were: Ed. Simpson, Fred J. McDonald, John O'Brien, Harold Kane, Harold McHugh, F. Warren Nugent, John J. Morrisey, Wilfred E. McGuire, Gerald O'Neill, James McManus, John McManus, T. C. Oliver, Frank McCafferty, M. T. Morris, Joseph L. Mullin, J. Percy Loney, T. J. Morrisey and John Delorty.

The choruses were: Mrs. John Donald, Jr., Mrs. F. J. Hogan, Mrs. Frank J. McCafferty, Mrs. Henry Regan and Mrs. Arthur O'Neill.

The performance will be repeated to night and at the matinee tomorrow.

George: "I got your wire and came at once. What's the matter?"

Wilsey: "Oh, George, you are too late. Baby had his toe in the mouth, and he did look so awfully—idea."

DANGER FROM GRIPPE

Lies in That Cough and Weak, Worn Out Condition

Grippe, pleurisy, pneumonia, these are greatly to be feared at this time of the year.

To prevent grippe from being followed by either pleurisy or pneumonia, it is important to drive the last traces of it out of the system quickly.

Our advice is to take Vinol, our delicious cod liver oil, and get your strength and vitality back quickly.

Mrs. A. A. Crabill of Strasburg, Va., says: "Grippe left me weak, run-down and with a severe cough from which I suffered four years. I tried different remedies, but nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Vinol, from which I received great benefit. My cough is almost entirely gone, and I am strong and well again, and I am glad to recommend Vinol to others who suffer as I did."

Try Vinol with the certainty that if it does not benefit you we will give back your money. Watson's 3 Rosell stores, King street, Main street and Haymarket Square.

See that your guest has an early cup of tea taken to her bedroom. Don't send just any cup, which probably grew chilled and spilled in the saucer on its way. Send a dainty little china set for one, and a pretty traycloth.
