The Ring.

Ring Career About Ended.

Battling Nelson has outlived his usefulness as a pugilist. Two years ago he would have been sent over the wire about any fight in which the Battler participated.

It is not that way today, however, for Nelson has finished his career. Although down and out as a pugilist, Nelson sits upon a pedestal.

For instance, there are three men who have been pointed at the once great battler, and to finish a career in the ring which has been somewhat successful, since the commercial element invaded and injured the sport to a certain extent.

Papke Is Ready.

Word has been received by T. S. Andrews of Chicago that Billy Papke, the middleweight champion, has accepted terms to meet Cyclone Johnny Thompson before the West Side Athletic Club of New Orleans next fall in a 20-round contest for the championship of the world.

Papke stipulates, however, that Thompson must put up a side bet, but does not state the amount. The Cyclone has already announced his willingness to make a side wager so there will probably be trouble on that score.

Papke is expected in the States in a few days. He took a trip to Berlin from London before sailing for home.

HOW TO TELL FORTUNE WITH CARDS

In spite of all the mystery that is supposed to surround fortune-telling, it is an easy matter to learn to tell.

One of the easiest is to tell the fortune in Canada Monthly (formerly Canada West) for July reveals the methods by which to draw three cards blindly, with the cards referred to as "The Three Cards."

"Anyone can tell fortunes by cards, with a little study and a dash of intuition," says Mr. T. S. Andrews.

For instance, there are three cards that keep the same meanings in nearly all systems. The ace of spades means death, the ace of hearts means love, the ace of diamonds means money.

Some of the ace of diamonds usually means the partner, but in the three-card system, the ace of diamonds usually means the partner.

Four of the stars of the game in this particular feature are Joe Tucker of the Cubs, Larry Lajoie of the Naps, Lee Tannehill of the White Sox and Bobby Wallace of the Athletics.

Tannehill, Wallace and Lajoie seldom fail to put the ball on Ty Cobb, who is one of the cleverest hitters in baseball. Ty never strikes any of these three and is an argument against the assertion that he is a "dirt" player for he naturally would "go after" the men who always get him if he were as vicious as painted.

Tannehill, Wallace and Lajoie wait until he starts his slide so they can tell what way he is going. It is interesting to watch the "battles" of this sort, particularly between Cobb and Wallace who has his part of it down to perfection.

Bobby usually gets the hand in which he is holding the ball under one of Ty's legs. Then he lifts straight up, and the usual result is that Cobb's course is changed and he does not reach the bag.

TY COBB'S GREAT STEAL HOME WITH THE WINNING RUN

A Sensational Moment in Baseball—Brains, Daring and Fleetness of Foot Combine in a Triumph

In last Thursday's game of the Athletic-Detroit series, Ty Cobb, working in collusion with the Detroit Free Press, sprang home the winning run of the third game with those abused Athletics. This happening in the 14th inning with one out and making the score 8 to 7.

In all the course of the Georgian's baseball career there hasn't been a more thrilling combination of fleetness, sublime daring and skilful sliding than that which made this deciding tally directly to Harry Davis.

The Peach was on first by virtue of a single through the box and the count was two called balls and one strike on Delahanty. Cobb started with the next pitch, which the king of pinch hitters—living or dead—converted into a single to right.

Lord felled the ball on the second bound, fumbled it momentarily and then threw it directly to Harry Davis.

Did Not Expect It.

Cobb always goes from first to third on a single to right and that was all the Athletics expected him to do on this occasion. With only one out, it looked like bad baseball to expect further advance.

Mr. Cobb, however, doesn't play baseball according to any established rules, customs, traditions or precedents. He does what a quick working and exquisitely accurate brain impels.

This time it said sprint for the plate, and Ty sprinted or rather he flew.

Harry Davis had the ball when the southern started on his final lap for home and victory and it looked like a cinch that Harry would turn Tyrus back by a block or more.

The Athletics captain has been playing ball for several seasons—or centuries—and he is supposed to have outgrown those attacks of nervousness to which the younger stars sometimes are prey.

Also he is commonly believed to possess an arm good for something besides hoisting food from his plate to his mouth. Cobb knows all this well, but he knows also of the existence of a psychological element that sometimes makes the best players look like bush leaguers when they know the grandstand is full of seats.

Davis, with plenty of time at his disposal, did exactly what Cobb had figured on his doing, throwing the ball bodily to Thomas. Ira had to stretch for the leather and in so doing was pulled out of the position in which he had set himself to block the flying Peach. He caught the ball—luckily—just before Ty got to him.

AMUSEMENTS IN ST. JOHN; WHAT THE PLAYHOUSES OFFER

NICKEL. With all the good things to entertain one at the Nickel today the usual regulars may be expected to come and enjoy the fine programme and incidentally rest for an hour in this inviting cool and perfectly ventilated theatre.

THE LYRIO. It is not necessary to say anything length on the subject of the Lyrio, as it has already won a name for itself.

THE MAGDALENE. True love, it gave me strength To bathe His holy feet; And when my child was born, Love worked in me complete.

What a perfect thing Is love to lift us up; Sin melted at the touch, 'Tis God's communion cup.

My daughter thou must love Must love with all thy youth; Thy love will give thee strength, To walk in right and truth.

Oh! God! Oh! what a dream! White, foaming, horses, wild! They gallop! Prance! Stampede! My child! My child! My child!

Dear Lord! I bathe! I bathe! Thy mercy I entreat— Oh! God! Thou savest me!— She, too, may kiss Thy feet.

Doesn't Eat Hay

Editor Times: Sir—Referring to the letter in the Times signed "a reader," I beg to say that the gentleman mentioned in the benches recuperating their shattered nerves, do not eat hay which seems to be the only product the New Brunswick farmer grows.

I am among them, but not one of them. Yours faithfully,

FOR HABITUAL DRUNKARDS

New York Now Has an Inebriety Board in New York For Slaves of Drink

(Toronto News) An inebriety board has been constituted in New York city. It consists of two physicians, two clergymen, one Protestant, and one Roman Catholic, and a retired merchant who is interested in philanthropic and charitable work.

The board, which was authorized by a recent legislative enactment, will acquire a site for a hospital and industrial colony for the care and treatment of habitual drunkards.

Hereafter, when any man is arrested for intoxication the board will be notified immediately, and a field officer will be sent to the station to investigate the case, and to ascertain if any persons are dependent upon the prisoner for their support.

If so, the prisoner, if he has a clean record, will be released, after giving the court and the board full information about himself.

Knowing that he will be, in a sense, under surveillance, the offender is likely to walk circumspectly.

But if he is arrested again within two years he faces a compulsory industrial farm for at least twelve months. Various ways of admission are provided.

A man who is adjudged by a court of record to be an habitual drunkard will certainly go. Commitments will be made on the inebriate's own application or on the application of a relative.

A board of hospital trustees may request a commitment, or it may be made on the certificate of two medical examiners in lunacy. The act defines an inebriate in the following terms: "A person who is incapable of properly conducting himself or his affairs, or is dangerous to himself or others, by reason of habits of intemperate, frequent, or constant drunkenness, induced either by the use of alcoholic or other liquors, or of opium, morphine or other narcotic or intoxicating or stupefying substance."

The constitution of the board is practically a recognition of the undoubted fact that drunkenness is a disease demanding medical rather than corrective treatment. The nature of the methods to be adopted in the proposed hospital and the programme of activities in the farm or industrial colony are not yet defined.

Only the term of detention is fixed—not less than one year and not more than three years. The board may grant a parole if the condition of the patient warrants it.

THOUGHTS OF HOME

Are they lonely, do you think? Are their hearts yearning for me? As I wander by the brink Of the ever-thriving sea? Does my absence make them sigh? Does my conduct seem unkind? Does it dim the tender eye? Of a little one behind? Poes mosquitoes, pale and lean, Do you think of me at home? Watching sanderly through the screen Do you wonder why I roam? All my summer exile through, I could well contented be, If I knew that you were blue, If I knew you mourned for me. —New York American.
