CITIZEN SOLDIERS ARE DOING EXCELLENT WORK

The Army Service Corps whose lines are situated at the upper end of the grounds near the railroad track and form a long row of broad ovens, spent a busy day in baking sufficient bread for 3,500 men. For the visitor this is one of the most interesting parts of the encampment and a great insight is given into the manner in which an army is fed. From the mixing tent to the ovens a large number of men are busily engaged in baking about 5,000 loaves a day. The ovens are of the usual military type and consist of a row of hollow brick arches in which a roaring wood fire is built. When the fire burns out the coals are removed and the dough placed in pans and then on the hot bricks where it is baked in a remarkably short time. This brand of bread is eaten by officers and men and is considered excellent.

With regard to the grand march past which, it was rumored, would be held on July 1st, Colonel Humphrey, D. O. C., when interviewed this afternoon, expressed himself as surprised to hear that such a statement should have been circulated as it was known that all the time was to be given to drill alone.

Captain T. Malcolm McAvity of the 62nd St. John Fusiliers has written Colonel Humphrey to the effect that the 62nd trophy cup now held by that regiment would be put up for competition again this year. The cup was won by the Fusiliers last season and the other regiments have determined that the trophy will, this year, go the country.

Colonel Humphrey placed the arrangements in the hands of Captain Dawson, the staff orderly. It is understood that the sports will be enlarged upon considerably, and instead of ordinary contests mounted stunts will also be on the card. The programme includes horse races for officers, N.C.O.'s and troopers, besides jumping and other cavalry stunts. The ordinary field sports will also be carried out. The affair is slated for the afternoon of July 1st between the hours of 4 and 6 and is the cause of much excitement about camp.

Merely a Joke.

The reported row between the 71st and 73rd regiments for which the general alarm was supposedly sounded at 2 o'clock this morning turned out to be nothing more than a practical joke. Some of the villagers with a sense of humor, secured the headlight of an engine and posted it on the supply shed. They then yelled fire and ran. The alarm was sounded and it would have gone hard with the jokers had they been caught by the angry soldiers.

The administrative staff today was composed of Major Black, 8th Hussars, field officer, Prov. Lt. Hennigan, A.M.C., orderly medical officer, Major S. P. Walworth, 71st regiment, M.D., for range duty. The guard picket and duty band was supplied by the 74th regiment. Now that camp is well established the different regiments are planning receptions and other amusements to vary the usual round of routine. The 8th Hussars will hold a reception on July 1st, while the others are also expected to do so on other days.

A commission composed of Major Anderson, Major McLean and Lt. McPartridge, met today regarding the shooting of the horse owned by Ralph Price of a squadron 8th Hussars. It found that the affair was purely an accident. The commission recommended to the Department of Militia that Trooper Price receive the value of the animal.

Lt. Colonel Grant of Halifax inspected the hospital today and found everything satisfactory. He professed himself as pleased with the condition of the corps. Colonel G. C. Jones of Ottawa will inspect the hospital tomorrow.

The advance party of the 62nd regiment, St. John Fusiliers, forty men strong, under Captain R. A. McAvity, arrived in camp this morning and are busy preparing for the coming of the full regiment.

FELL IN LOVE WITH PORTRAIT OF DANCER, THEN DECIDES HE WILL WED ORIGINAL

Miss Saharet Rose, the classic dancer, who arrived in New York on the Carmania, will wed. The fact that she will wed is not so wonderful. Any one can wed, but Miss Rose wasn't aware of the fact till she landed. The man that did know is Mr. Fritz von Frantz, member of the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges. He decided that little fact when he bought a portrait of her in Munich, which is now in the Chicago Art Institution.

PROTESTS AGAINST TELEGRAPH'S INSULT

North End Resident Objects to Nasty Bit of Fiction in Yesterday's Issue of that Sheet.

The Telegraph has such a fine instinct for the dramatic, such a disinterested love for the ludicrous, that it rivals the Penny Dreadful in the type of stories it publishes. Its austere indifference to the mere facts of a case, its generous disregard of probabilities have caused Baron Munchausen to turn over in his grave so many times that his weary bones have been worn to dust. When it is not demonstrating its patriotism by publishing unfounded stories about the roads of the province calculated to keep people from coming here on an auto tour, its fiction artists are weaving a thrilling tale of crime around a simple incident in the life of some law-abiding citizen.

A wonderful story of the Sherlock Holmes adventures of a "Telegraph" advertisement in recovering a bag of tools, alleged to have been stolen in the North End, appeared in Thursday's issue of that paper. The article inferentially accused the man who returned the tools of having stolen them.

The following letter shows this had no foundation outside the perverted imagination of a Telegraph fictionist:

To the Editor of The Standard:
Dear Sir: I should be very much obliged if you would contradict the article published in the Telegraph on Thursday accusing an innocent person of theft. A more outrageous or insulting article could not be printed, as it has no foundation, and is a pack of lies from beginning to end. The bag of tools was found by me on the corner of Adelaide and Metcalf streets on Sunday evening at 9:30 o'clock, and not knowing who owned it I kept it until advertised for, when I immediately returned the bag to its owner. Thinking that would be the end of the matter I was astounded on reading the article in Thursday's Telegraph, which I consider the most disgraceful thing I have ever seen in print.

Hoping you will publish this letter I am, yours faithfully,
E. LIGHTFOOT.

Murder Mystery

Mrs. Katherine Hittles, wife of the man who was shot and killed in Savannah, Ga., of Dr. Guy O. Brinkley and the self-destruction of the young woman who killed him probably never will be explained. Both of the principals are dead and there were eye-witnesses to what occurred between the physician and his young patient prior to the shooting and for several weeks before that while she had been under his care.

That the murder of Dr. Brinkley was premeditated appears to be the only certain thing in the tangled and conflicting theories.
