Meddling and Muddling.

At the opening of the House, Mr. Domville called attention to this unusual course.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie said it was always done on Budget days.

Sir John said the Government had this right, but the late Ministry never took possession of the wires till afternoon.

Mr. Cunningham moved that Attorney General Clarke be again summoned to appear before the House.

Mr. Bowell said Mr. Cunningham knew that Clarke had gone away. The motion was only made to delay proceedings.

Hon. Mr. Blake did not think the recall of Clarke would throw any further light on the question. He objected to unnecessary delay:

The motion was lost.

At four o'clock, Hon. Mr. Cartwright began the Budget Speech by stating that the Ministers were somewhat new to the Government work, and must receive consideration. The resources of the country were equal to the ordinary requirements, but the country had gradually assumed responsibilities for great public works, which were proving a heavy strain upon the country. The present Government would carry out the engagements of the late Government would carry out the engagements of the late Government would carry out the engagements of the late Ministry had made some engagements, such as building the Pacific Railway, which might prove impossible. Since 1869 the policy of the late Government had gradually lowered the financial position of the country till the surplus was finally changed into a deficit. He then coundered the present engagements of the country till the surplus was finally changed into a deficit. as agreed upon, our debt in proportion to the population would be one-third greater than that with which the United States emerged from their civil war; and to pay the interest we would have to borrow $30,000,000 every year.

He then reviewed Hon. Mr. Tilley's estimates, admitting they were nearly correct in the main, but incorrect in some points. There had been an increase over the estimated expenditure; owing to the payment to P. E. Island; elections $200,000; Indian matters $150,000. On the railways the expenditure exceeded the revenue by $650,000.

ways the expenditure exceeded the levenue by $650,000.

He then went into a lengthy review of the condition of the country, and did not think it would progress sufficiently to meet the demands upon it as inaugurated by the policy of the late Government.
He did not hope for much reduction in any of the public works. The Government hoped to carry out their policy in respect to the railways, which would make them more remunerative. The rement hoped to carry out their policy in respect to the railways, which would make them more remunerative. The requirements for the present year would be $24,600,000; the estimated revenue was about $22,000,000. The deficiency must be met by increased taxation. This would be levied in a manner not calculated to bear heavily on the people. Unenumerated articles paying 10 per cent advalorem are to pay 161 per cent. This would yield an increased revenue of $50,000. The duty on cigars is increased from 45 to 70 cents per pound; yielding an additional $100,000. Green or Japan tea is to pay six cents per pound; black tea, four cents; coffee, green, two cents, roasted three cents, yielding an estimated revenue of $400,000; brandy, gin, rum, whiskey, alcohol, are to pay one dollar per gallon. The following are placed in the list of goods paying ten per cent.: Locomotive engine frames, axles, piston rods, oranks, loop iron or steel for wheel tires; machinery for mill and factories, which is not manufactured in the Dominion; guide and slide bars, crank pins, and connecting rods. The following are placed in the list paying five per cent.: Ships materials, binnacle lamps, blocks, bunting, cables, iron chain, compasses, dead eyes, light deck plugs, iron knees, fron masts and parts of pnm.
