A Remarkable Comparison

To think that 1,700 pounds of coal in the Down Draft Furnace produces as much heat as 2,000 pounds in any ordinary furnace.

Why? Because the

Down Draft Furnace

is built on proper lines and not a single heat-producing feature is overlooked.

The Down Draft Principle burns all the gas and soot from the fuel, and as the gas is the greatest heat-producing element, the benefit of this is derived. The air drawn down the Down Draft Pipes forces even burning over the whole surface of the fuel and does away with dead coal next to the fire-pots. The fire-pots are heavily flanged, and thereby additional radiating surface is acquired. Every particle of heat is extracted from the fuel. There are less clinkers and ashes. Additional radiating surface is furnished by the cast-iron heating dome, and as all the heat is discharged into warm-air spaces of proper proportion, the heat rises properly to the hot-air pipes, which are so installed that the warm air is carried where it is required and not wasted.

It burns either hard coal, soft coal or wood with equal efficiency. Send for copy of catalogue and an estimate on your heating.

BRITAIN NOW MISTRESS OF AIR

Henry Farman an Easy Winner in the Championship Contest at Rheims—The Surprise of the Meet.

Betheny Aviation Field, Rheims, France, Aug. 27.—Henry Farman, the English aviator, a dark horse in the aviation contests, in a biplane of his own design, today broke the world's record for duration of flight and distance in a heavier than air machine, and won the grand prix de la champagne—the endurance test, by a remarkable flight officially recorded as 180 kilometres (111.78 miles) in three hours, four minutes, fifty-six and two-fifths seconds. He actually covered an extra kilometre and remained in the air ten minutes after 7.30 o'clock this evening, the hour that the time keeper under the rules, ceased to keep a record of the flight.

The Contestants.

The other contestants finished as follows: Hubert Latham, in monoplane No. 25—154 kilometres, 500 metres, time 2 hours, 18 minutes, 9.3.5 seconds; Louis Paulhan, in a Voisin biplane—131 kilometres; Count de Lambert, biplane—116 kilometres; Hubert, in monoplane No. 13—111 kilometres; Roger Sommer, biplane—50 kilometres; M. de la Grange, monoplane—50 kilometres; M. Bleriot, monoplane—40 kilometres; Glen H. Curtiss, biplane—30 kilometres; M. Lefebvre, biplane—21 kilometres.

Although Hubert Latham with a different machine, took second and fifth positions, the aviation committee held that he was not eligible for two prizes and awarded the fifth to M. Tissandier and the sixth to M. Sommer.

Complete Surprise.

While Farman's brilliant record as an aeroplane should have warned the sharp that he was a dangerous competitor, his victory came as a complete surprise. He had been preparing his machine secretly, and had not appeared upon the field until today except for a few practice flights and had been almost forgotten.

Indeed, after he started about 4.30 p. m., keeping close to the ground, while Latham and others were soaring in spectacular fashion high in the air, Farman had attracted no attention until he had flown 50 kilometres. Then suddenly the watchers woke up and began to make inquiries, only to discover that he had gone out carrying petrol enough for a five hour flight and equipped with a self cooling revolving motor built by the Gnome company after his own design.

All eyes had been riveted on the beautiful and graceful monoplane of Latham, who, after Tissandier's foul of Paulhan in the morning had ended Paulhan's chances, had become the favorite for the grand prix de la champagne. They also had watched the enchanting changing picture unfolding above the sunlit plane of Betheny while winged-men birds circling and wheeling, at genuine race five miles between two biplanes and Latham's soaring monoplane and finally the arrival of two huge dirigibles, that evoked like great giants of the air above the fleet nimble machines in the lower stratum. A thousand of spectators literally rubbed their eyes to make sure that this evidence of men having conquered the air was not a dream.

The Volunteer Organist.

The Volunteer Organist, unlike any of its contemporaries is a play that was founded on a song. Many prominent writers have constructed successful plays from book stories but this drama is in a class by itself in so far that its nucleus was the words of William B. Gray's song poem. The Volunteer Organist is looked for one night only at the City Opera House, Fredericton, Saturday, September 4th.

CHINA EMBARGO ON BRITISH WARES

Chinese Government Orders Strictest Measures Against Anti-British Movement in Kiangsi.

Pekin, Aug. 27.—It is said that Prince Tsai Hsun, the prince regent's brother, will visit America in November. The announcement is contained in special instructions from the throne to the minister to the United States, Chang Yin-Tang, to hasten preparations for his departure to Washington. Prince Tsai Hsun is president of the new navy board and will investigate the navy and naval administrations of Japan, America and Europe.

Instructions Sent.

Instructions have been sent to the viceroy of Nanking and the governor of Kiangsi to adopt the most repressive measures to stamp out the boycott against the British along the Yangtze River. The boycott already is active, shipping and all other British interests being seriously affected. The movement is the outcome of the killing of a Chinaman by Police Inspector Mears at Kiukiang. Inspector Mears was acquitted by Consular Court. The Chinese allege this was a miscarriage of justice and are actively agitating the boycott, which is spreading throughout the valley. The British charge that the agitation is largely attributable to the American missionaries too great sympathy for the Chinese.

Persistently Boycott.

The Chinese also persistently boycott all goods carried on the steamship Tatsu Maru. The owner of the vessel has applied to the Japanese Department of Communications for permission to change the name of the vessel, but he has not been successful. The Chinese boycott against Japanese goods had its origin in the indignation of the Cantonese people caused by what they termed the weak cowardice of China in according to the demands of Japan relative to the seizure of the Japanese steamship Tatsu Maru off Macao on the charge that she was engaged in running contraband of war for Chinese revolutionists. When captured the Tatsu Maru had on board 1500 rifles and 40,000 rounds of ammunition, all manifested, and 750 rifles not on the manifest. In compliance with Japanese demands China agreed to pay $10,700 for the cargo, pay the costs caused by the seizure, salute the hoisting of the Japanese flag on the vessel and punish the officers responsible for the seizure. The Tatsu Maru was seized by Captain Woo Kiang-yun, in command of the Pan Pih. Captain Woo was graduated from the Lowell Mass. High school, and was near graduation from Yale when he was recalled by his Government. He was in the battle of the Yalu, became disgusted, resigned and entered commercial pursuits. He re-entered the service at the time of the Boxer rebellion.

ARMENIANS DID NOT INCITE WAR

Government Commission Decides That Community is Not to Blame For the Massacres at Adana.

Constantinople, Aug. 27.—In consequence of strong pressure exerted by the religious and civil leaders of the Armenian community and their many supporters in the Committee of Union and Progress, the Government recently appointed a Commission composed of the Ministers of Finance, Public Works and Justice, to prepare a declaration acquitting the Armenians of all responsibility for the outbreak at Adana. This declaration drawn up after a careful examination of the reports of the members of the Parliamentary Commission on the massacres and approved by the Council of Ministers was published in all the journals of the capital. It acquits the Armenians at Adana of the charge of conspiracy, and ascribes the massacre to the ignorance of the population. In the reign of Abdul Hamid the people had become imbued with the idea that every Armenian was a separatist at heart, and were therefore averse from equality with the Armenian community. They had become in consequence the tools of religious or political agitators. The declaration censures severely the local officials for their failure, not only to quell the outbreak, but to warn the Government that the situation in Cilicia was critical. Copies of this official declaration are being sent to all the provincial administrative centres for publication and distribution in the villages.
