Market Comments.

Toronto (Union Stock Yards).

A decline of 50 cents per hundred was sustained on cattle on the Monday market, but was regained later in the week when sales were made at higher levels than at any time during the previous three weeks; the market closed on Thursday with a strong undertone, keen demand prevailing for all classes of good butcher cattle. Receipts, which amounted to forty-seven hundred head, were sufficient to meet the requirements of the trade for the week. A number of heavy cattle were offered, and of these one hundred and ninety-five head were shipped to France via New York on Thursday; they were purchased at prices ranging from $13.75 to $15, one load commanding $14.75, while a few head sold at $15. On Monday steers weighing from ten hundred to twelve hundred pounds moved within a range of $13 to $13.75 per hundred, but on the later markets of the week a number of loads sold at $14 and $14.25 per hundred, and a few select head at $15 per hundred; these prices apply only to cattle finished in the stable; grass steers met with a demand at about $1 per hundred below the preceding quotations. Butcher steers and heifers were in good demand, a few extra choice animals weighing around nine hundred pounds, realized $14.50 per hundred, a number of choice ones sold at $14; the top price for a straight load was $13.50 per hundred, while other sales were down to $12.50. Medium butchers sold from $11 to $12, and common quality from $9 to $11. Cows and bulls were in good demand; a few extra choice cows sold from $11 to $11.50 per hundred, good, useful butcher cows met with an active inquiry at prices ranging from $10 to $10.75 per hundred, medium quality stock from $8 to $9, while good bulls sold from $10 to $11 per hundred, and Bologna bulls from $8 to $9. A limited demand prevailed for stockers and feeders, and few shipments were made to country points. Good feeders were in demand within a range of $12 to $13, and good stockers from $10.50 to $11.50 per hundred. The calf market was a trifle easier, $19.50 being the top quotation; most of the choice calves sold from $17 to $19, and good calves from $14 to $16.50. Several hundred calves were shipped to Buffalo, New York, during the week.

The lamb and sheep market was about steady, although spring lambs were a trifle lower in price, selling mostly from $19.50 to $21 per hundred. Heavy sheep were in poor demand, but light sheep moved freely from $9 to $11 per hundred.

Hog quotations dropped to lower levels, the market closing with fed and watered hogs changing hands at $22.25 per hundred. On Monday all hogs on the open market sold at $23 per hundred, the decline of 75 cents occurring on the Thursday market.
