The Child-Musician

BY AUSTIN DOBSON.

He had played for his lordship's levee, He had played for her ladyship's whim, Till the poor little head was heavy, And the poor little brain would swim.

And the face grew peaked and eerie, And the large eyes strange and bright, And they said—too late—"He is weary! He shall rest for, at least, to-night!"

But at dawn, when the birds were waking. As they watched in the silent room, With a sound of a strained cord breaking. A something snapped in the gloom.

Twas a string of his violoncello, And they heard him stir in his bed:— "Make room for a tired little fellow, Kind God!" was the last that he said.

DEPOPULATED HAMLETS.

JAMES REDPATH RIDES OVER AN EARL'S

We mounted horses-Father John and 1—and began our ride across the hill country in a southerly direction. We rode five miles. It drizzled or rained all the time. Bleak, stormy, heath-grown hills; soggy, cold, sooty-looking valleys, up hill and down, across two little streams, one spanned by a wooden bridge, the other of which we swam; here and there the ruins of former villages and of little cabins once the homes of families driven in exile—the landscape was not a changed one, nor did the memories they called up throw a higher halo over them. Nature had been niggardly, and men had been re-morseless. We visited two villages— Ardarra and Shaheen. Ardarra is three miles and a half from Aughagower. It is a cluster of light hovels on the hillsides. The townlands, and of course the village, is the property of Lord Sligo. The rent was £28 in 1861. Lord Sligo has not spent one shilling since then in improving the land. Its present rent is £98. This town land is one of the bleakest and the most sterile and boggy districts in the county Mayo. When these tenants paid £28 they could live without charity, although so wretchedly that no American would endure such a life. Now every one of them is dependent on charity. That is to say, they are nearly all in rags, and all so poor that they would go hungry every day unless they had help from foreign bounty. Lord Sligo has refused to reduce their rent. Yet as late as 1869 he raised the rent to £98!

Leaving the village we rode over a rough mountain road, and crossed two streams, for about a mile, and then reached the hamlet of Shaheen. This is the property of Colonel Logan. He owns the whole townland. There are thirtynine houses on it, scattered on either side of the borheen. Sure, you know what borheen means? It is a wretched mountain pass—not made by surveyors, but by constant travel. It is filled with cobblestones and full of gullies. The villagers were anxious that we should visit every cabin. I entered one and wanted to stop. But I was induced to visit six of them, and then I refused to see any more. The appalling wretchedness, the filthy cabins, the haggard mothers, the blue-legged and rag-ged children, the gaunt and careworn men, the grayheaded, wrinkled women, who look more like the witches of "Macbeth" on a stage than the grandmothers of comely girls in Mayo-I grew sick and faint at these sad sights everywhere, and I mounted my horse and left them behind me as fast as I could gallop. Outside the cabins showed how desperate was the poverty of these peope. The thatch was old and mouldy heather—not straw—and overgrown with grass. The walls were striped with a greenish oozing. Some of the cabins had no chimneys and no windows. Light entered only by the open door, and the smoke went out of a hole in the roof. The rental of this village in 1846 was £45; now it is £177 17s. 5d.! The government valuation is \mathcal{L} 77.

The Earl of Lucan leases the townland of Ballygolman, Mayo County, to a ten-ant named Bourke, who took for his own use the good land—at least seven-tenths of it in extent, and a much greater propor-tion in value—and then rented the out--rocky barren hillsides or wet and worthless bogs—to the six poor cottiers of this little hamlet. Bourke was an at-torney, and secured a long lease, but he his sub-tenants at his mercy Bourke compels them to pay for their fraction of the estate within a trifle of the entire rental of the townland. They each paid, until the last six months, exactly double the government valuation. What to the result of this rack-renting? Five of these families are living on Indian meal supplied by the relief committees. Neither Lucan nor Bourke has contributed a single shilling to the charities that are saving their tenants from starvation.-James Redpath in the N. Y. Tribune.

A Loosing Joke.

A prominent physician of Pittsburg said jokingly to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure her, "Try Hop Bitter," How was a complete the continued in the co his inability to cure her, "Try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in carnest, and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for his joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good

LANDLORD BIGOTRY IN IRELAND.

A story comes to us from a district in the South which forcibly reminds us of the time when cave or hillside formed the only temple in which the solemn rites of the Church could be performed in this Catholic land. In a district remote from chapel or schoolhouse a parish priest has sought for a site on which to build a school for the children of the district, in which religious and secular training could be properly carried on. The soil is vested in Protestant hands, and, although there are no Protestant children in the place to atno Protestant children in the place to at-tend such a school, the reply was a re-fusal, unless the managership of the school were vested in the National Board and taken out of the hands of the parish priest, or any priest in the locality. The site was not asked for gratis; any resasonable rent that might be asked, it was intimated, would be paid. The application was renewed again and again, but without effect. A house on the property became vacant, and the kitchen of this was offered, for an hour or two in the week, for the vacant, and the kitchen of this was offered, for an hour or two in the week, for the purpose of imparting religious instruction, by the caretaker, if consent could be got from the owner of the property; but this was equally vain to hope for. The only resource open to the parish priest is to collect the children on the roadside, in the open air, each Sunday afternoon, and in this barbaric way strive to impart to them that religious instruction so essential to their welfare. The elements are not always propitious, it need hardly be said, and the hardships to which priest and flock are subject are typical of the spirit which inflicts them. It is a long time since we flicts them. It is a long time since we heard a story of such unfeeling bigotry, and we hope it may be long before we hear of a repetition of it.—Dublin Freeman.

My Dear Sir,—Your Thermo Electric Vapor Bath, it appears to me has decided advantages over any bath with which I am acquainted. Having made a full trial of it this week, I am now ready to pronounce it a great success. For rheumatism, I consider it unequalled, and I am sure that no one who gives it a fair trial will ever leave dissatisfied. Your Bath stands ahead of anything else I have tried, both as a luxury and a sanitary agent. I take great pleasure in commending them to all similarily affected.
