Public School Teachers
Should Notice
This institution has prepared over seventy teachers for other Business Colleges and Commercial Schools in Canada and the United States; more than twice as many as all other Business Colleges in Canada combined, have so placed.

The proprietors of five of the leading Business Colleges in Western Ontario, who are to day among our strongest opponents in Business and Shorthand training, received their training under the Principal of this institution. Besides these, there are five others holding leading positions as teachers in Business Colleges and Commercial Schools in Canada and the United States; another is now negotia ing for a similar opening in a Business College in a leading American city and there are still five unfilled calls of this kind on band.

DOES IT NOT PAY TO ATTEND THE BEST? You must decide. 236 of repupils secured good positions in seventeen months and the good work of placing

MRS. FOSTER, THE FAIR APOSTLE OF PHYSICAL CULTURE. Etiquette of Introductions-Wisdom

In Marketing - A Woman's Impulsiveness - Admonishing Children. Bags of Perfume.

Some years ago Mrs. William C. Fos-ter projected among the society women of Minneapolis a physical culture club, of which she was made president. This club claims to be the only one of the kind in the country in that it is strictly nonsional. It is the out of the ordinary duty of the president to instruct the members, without one penny of pay, in the art of both physical and vocal culture. In the absence of the president this work devolves on the vice president. The club-it is called the Students' club meets fortnightly for the training of the body. There are no papers, but a which is carried out systematically. There are no dues, the amount needed for expenses being met by a two-thirds vote of the club. The members are required to practice in their homes three minutes every night and morning.

Mrs. Foster is an Alabama woman by birth and received the finishing touches to her education in Chicago. She attended the Chicago Conservatory of Oratory and because of her gifts as a reader won the personal esteem of Edwin Booth and John McCullough. Having won one of the international prizes in oratory, she has entree into the Paris Conservatory and Trinity college, Dublin, both of which she took advantage of during her recent sojourn in France and Great Britain. In appearance Mrs. Foster is attractive. She is a commanding looking brunette, with a face full of animation. As a woman of intellectual attainments she has delved deeply not only into the physical but the psychical side of her

"The physical depends so greatly upon the psychical," is her declaration, "that all of the wonders wrought by careful and persistent exercising are largely due to the mental strength of the student."

Etiquette of Introductions.

It is very important that discrimination should be used in introducing people to one another, for an undesired introduction compels the person to whom it is unwelcome to treat the other with the greatest coldness or to continue an unde-sired acquaintance. As a general rule, it is better to introduce too little than too much, for one's friends can ask one to introduce them to one another, so that one's shortcomings in this respect may est doubt exist as to whether a meditated introduction will be agreeable one should consult the wishes of both persons conduction is that the gentleman should be presented to the lady without reference to rank. This is a privilege of sex, and it is usual for the lady and gentleman or the two ladies to bow and to make some little remark. It is not usual to shake hands, but there are many occasions when this would be quite correct. For instance, it is always right to shake hands with every new acquaintance in one's own house, and if one were to in-troduce two of one's intimate friends one would naturally expect them to shake bands.

ordering supplies? It is a common remark that women, as a class, are unbusinesslike in their financial transactions, and lack of experience is generally urged as an excuse for this fact. But it may be submitted that any woman who has the ordering of a home may get the experience in the fundamental rules of business—exactness, system, alertness and equity—by giving intelligent personal attention one hour every morning, or even twice a week, to the purchase of family supplies.

even twice a week, to the purchase of family supplies.

As a matter of economy, in view of the advance in prices all along the line, and to give women training in the basic principles of business, in which all agree that they are generally deficient, the proposal that they superintend personally the important branch of housekeeping expenditure that applies to the butcher's, grocer's and vegetable vender's bills is well worth considering, not in a spirit of parsimony. and vegetable vender's only is well worth considering, not in a spirit of parsimony, but with the intelligent purpose of getting full measure of the best there is in the market for the money expended. Woman's right in this field is undisputed. The expediency of her personal activity. The expediency of her personal activity therein is conceded. Let women take possession of their inheritance as a duty, learn the difference between the judiciot and wasteful investment of money; b tween fretful baggling for bargains and a proper discernment of values and prices, and they will have taken a long step toward a reasonable understanding of everyday business transactions, and households in general will be better and more economically fed than now .- Port land Oregonian.

"What is the greatest curse of your sex?" she might well answer, "Impulse." It is responsible for almost all the mistakes made by the good hearted among us. May it not safely be said that a few minutes' thought before speech or action would prevent most fatal blunders? Many of us are in positive bondage, quickness to feel, to show our feelings, to retort or to respond. If we are hurt, we must immediately "give ourselves away," as the phrase runs, if not by bitter speech at least by look and manner, yet reflec-tion frequently brings the keenest regret for lost dignity, the betrayed secret. Many a one has wrecked her own happiness for the want of the patient stoicism which would have led her to stand aside for awhile watching events until they ought with them her opportunity. Even when we are happy it is not always well to let the bright stream bear us away rudderless. The impulsive manifestation of affection, the hasty proposal of marriage, the hastier acceptance, have they never proved the beginnings of misery? Or has a rash word never sundered true lovers, true friends? If these things are true, it is likewise true that the fault in commencement has been that of feminine impulsiveness. The defect is a generous one and therefore commoner with us than with men, so that it handicape unfairly in the struggle of life. And, truly, it is a weary task to be always "with a bost of petty maxims preaching down" one's heart. But we must do it. Either we must rule feeling, or feeling will rule us. "The universal frailty of our human nature which dislikes to be told of faults must be taken into consideration when we converse with our grown up chil-dren," writes Kate Upson Clark in Wo-man's Home Companion. "After they pass the age of 14 or 15 they usually betray a greater sensitiveness than before to even reasonable fault finding. By the time they reach 18 or 20 this tendency has become a marked trait. They have then become substantially like the rest of us. Even from the lips of loving faers or mothers and in strict privacy they want nothing but the same honey on which our own souls love to feed. At dinner parties the hostess uses her discretion as to the introductions she thinks proper to make. In this case it is not necessary to ask a lady whether she may introduce to her the gentleman who is to take her down to dinner, supposing they are not acquainted. It is enough for her to say, "Mrs. Dash, Mr. Blank will take you in to dinner." It is not necessary to introduce wholesale at a dinner party, but when the majority are acquainted the host and hostess should in-troduce some of the most important guests to one another before they enter the dining room. After the dinner is over the hostess may introduce ladies to each other in the drawing room if she thinks it advisable to do so .- Omaha World-

Wisdom In Marketing. As the cost of living becomes higher the thrifty housewife will find the study of the markets profitable and the per sonal purchase of household supplies a matter of economy. The careless habit of ordering "a 25 cent steak" or a "40 cent roast" leaves everything in the hands of the butcher, who, being in the business for the purpose of making all he can out of it, naturally favors himself. The same rule applies to all other table supplies, very few of which are ordered by the pound. Observe the woman who gives an order to the grocer's boy at her gives an order to the grocer's boy at her kitchen door: "Ten cents' worth of tomatoes, 5-cents' worth of onions, 25 cents' worth of apples, a dellar's worth of sugar"—is not this the almost universal custom of giving such orders? And does it not leave everything in the hands of the purveyor, who naturally works to his own advantage? How many housekeepers know, or have thought it necessary to inquire, the price per pand of the common articles of food served upon their takes from day to day? Could anything be more wasteful than this manner of Diseases that attack women are worse then pirates. They torture long before they kill. But women can beat them off and cut them down with Dr. Pierce's Favorits Prescription. This is a woman's remedy that has no alcohol, opium or other narcotic in it. It is the prescription of Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., who has devoted a long and successful life to the study and treatment of diseases peculiar to women. It overcomes irregularities, stops disagreeable drains, bearing-down pains and backache; cures female weakness and headache. It helps the girl over the difficulties encountered when she enters womanhood; makes the period preceding maternity a time of comfort; and the newborn enters the world without unnecessary pain to the mother. At the "turn of life" it is priceless to womankind. Medicine dealers sell it, and you should never permit them to substitute other medicine which they may urge upon you as "just as good."

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness," writes Mrs. M. B. Wallace, of Muenster, Cooke Co., Texas. "I tried four doctors and none did me any good. I suffered six years, but at last I found relief. I followed your advice, and took four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and eight of the 'Pavorite Prescription.' I now feel like a new woman. I have gained eighteen paunds."

Plain Wives Are Loved. "Talk about being beautiful," said the woman, "if it is for the sake of gaining a husband-not, of course, in the merce nary, must-have-a-husband-to-support me or the don't-want-to-be-an-old-maid sense, but in the way every girl looks forward to some Prince Charming who is to be the only man in the world to her some time—there doesn't seem to be much of a question of beauty in it. Did you ever notice that at least three-quarters of the married women you see are, if not absolutely plain, decidedly not at all pretty? I don't know whether it is because there are fewer pretty women than plain ones to be found or because the plainer ones are more often married, but I think if statistics could be gathered it would be found that the latter reason is the correct one. Perhaps women who are plain take more pains to be interesting, and it is in the end the brain, amiability, etc., which hold rather than beauty. Anyway, whatever it is, just take a few notes among the women of your acquaintance, and you will find not only that the married women are often plain, but that the most loved wives are often the plainest. For my part. I think it is no more than fair. However, that would not prevent me from looking as well as possible upon all occasions on general principles."-New York Times.

The excessive use of cologne or perfumed waters is to the refined woman an abomination and is considered by the majority of people a sign of vulgarity. But the delicious odor of cleanliness and a suspicion of some expensive extract are perfectly delightful to the senses of the person in proximity to the well groomed woman, says the Pittsburg Dispatch.
