AN OPEN QUESTION.

uch Study Demanded at Rome Fren Growing Boys and Girls.

It is an open question with many thoughtful people whether there is not a screw loose in the system which demands and exacts so much study at home from growing boys and girls. At precisely the period when the physical life is most imperious in its claims, when the lad is shooting up like a weed, when the girl is all legs and arms, and both are in the greatest need of play, of rest, of sleep, of exercise, they must spend five or six hours of daylight in school, brain and nerves under high pressure, stimulated to intellectual activity at every point. It is little wonder if they are correspondingly listless and languid when the hours of recitation are over. and not altogether ready to give any portion of the afternoon to the preparation of the next day's studies. I fear the expectant attitude of American parents in general reinforces that school boards and trustees, since few fathers and mothers have patience with a dull child, or sufficient common sense not to be cruelly mortified if their sons and daughters do not make rapid progress.

The doctor interferes now and then, lays an arresting hand on the home work, cuts short the hours of school attendance, or advises a cessation of school for a while, but the doctor is obeyed under protest. Most of us would be deeply humiliated if our children were not regularly promoted every half year, or if our neighbor's children took prizes, and not ours.

In the mean time, if we sit down to render what assistance in the evening's labor may be within our power, we find our cheeks mantling with the blush of shame. We still can spell, but it is extremely doubtful whether we can pronounce, both Latin and English having suffered a change since our day. Our attention is bestowed elsewhere-on bread-winning, if we are fathers; on sewing, mending, visit-ing and housekeeping, if we are mothers. Yet we expiate many a sin, since here is an obligation which we cannot shirk.

The probable reason for the situa tion is that we attempt too much in primary, grammar and preparatory In the first fourteen years of lile the effort should be to keain a child so that he or she may know how to pay close attention, how to learn. A very few subjects thoroughly mastered are of more value than many merely glanced at and superficially discerned.-Harper's Bazar.

Relie of the Revolution. In the possession of Mrs. Sarah Striker, of Tribes Hill, there is a massive copper kettle, which dates back to the Revolution. It belonged to Adam Fonda, whose father was killed and his house burned during Sir John Johnson's raid. Adam Fonda's house, too, was burned, and probably one of the Tories engaged in the raid was moved to covetousness by the great copper kettle, and thriftily filling it with fresh butter, hid it under the Cayadutta bridge. He never came back after it, and it was found years later by children at play. The kettle was the only article saved from the wreck.

The above, which is taken from an Amsterdam paper, requires some ex-planation, says a correspondent of the Mohawk Valley Democrat. The Adam ferred to was lieutenant colo nel of the Tryon county regiment which won the bloody battle of Oriskany. His only surviving granddaughter is Mrs. Sarah Striker, of Tribes Hill, who values the tea kettle not only as an heirloom, but also from its historic associations. Mrs. Striker well remembers the description of the raid given by her grandfather. The enemy took Lieutenant-Colonel Fonda prisoner and then proceeded to burn his house, and the family fled to the woods. Eventually it made its way to Schenectady, where it remained until the close of the war. The tea kettle was recovered in the above-mentioned manner. Lieutenant-Colonel Fonda was taken to Canada and suffered a painful captivity, till peace was restored, when he returned and built a house for his family and that house is still in use, though' much altered. In the same raid, the Visscher house was burned, and Colonel Visscher, alsohero of Oriskany, was tomahawked and left for dead. He survived, however, and after the war rebuilt house which is occupied by Alfred De-Graff, his lineal descendant. The above-mentioned tea kettle is one of the oldest in existence. It was probably made in Holland at least 150 years ago, and is one of the most interesting relics of the days that tried men's souls.

Take care of the stomach and the health will take care of itself. If peo-ple only realized the soundness of that ple only realized the sounders of that statement the majority might live to a good old age, like Moses, "the eye undimmed, the natural force unabated." It is in the stomach that the blood is made. It is from the stomach blood is made. It is from the stomach that nourishment is despensed to nerve and muscle. If the stomach is "weak" it can't do fits whole work for each part of the body. If it is diseased the disease will taint the nourishment which is distributed, and so spread disease throughout the body. It was the realization of the importance of the stomach as the very centre of health and the common source of dishealth and the common source of dis-ease, which led Dr. Pierce to prepare his "Goldon Medical Discovery?" "Diseases which originate in the stomach."
The soundness of this theory is proved every day by cures of diseased organs, heart, liver, lungs, blood,—by the use of the "Discovery," which is solely and singly a medicine for the blood and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxi-

THE FOOT. nd Care of the

here is no part of the whole hu-man body that has been more constantly abused than has the

From time immemorial it has been crushed and squeezed into an unyielding case of hard leather, rarely as large as the foot itself when in a natural position, and in consequence come all the diseases and deformities to which the foot is heir, such as corps callonges. such as corns, callouses, enlarged joints, bunions, ingrowing toe nails and the breaking down of the arch of the foot.

A healthful condition of the feet is an essential to perfect general health. A connection exists by means of the nerves between the feet and all other parts of the body, including the brain itself. Dr. Brown-Sequard, in fact, tells of a patient who, whenever he bore the weight of his body on the right toe, became violently insane. Almost everybody can testify to the miserable sick-all-over feeling which accompanies the effort to walk in a " ut boot. A celebrated oculist not long since discovered that an abstinate case of sore eyes was caused by wear-ing tight shoes. When the feet were properly cared for the eye trouble entirely disappeared.

Each foot contains twenty-six bones. In health it is a marvelously hardy member. Such violent exercises as leaping, running, etc., cause it no discomfort. To prevent the grating or jarring of bone with bone each one is covered with an elastic cartilage.

Many people have to give up taking peneficial active exercise owing to the condition of their feet. It is an every lay occurrence to hear a woman say 'I have to give up walking, my feet hurt so." A person who never exercises cannot long remain well and healthy. Indigestion, bilious liver and pulmonary complaints set It, old age and decreptitude are hurried on apace. The beginning c' ill health and unhappiness can often be traced to wearing uncomfortable shoes.

The human foot should be just as sightly and free form deformity as is the hand. How rarely this is so is exemplified by the exclamation of a celebrated humorist when watching men bathing one day at the sea-shore. "The ugliest thing in art.or nature is the human foot," he said.

It was said some years ago that managers had great trouble trying to find actresses to take the part of Trilby, so ugly and deformed were their feet. Mothers often allow little ones' feet to be cramped and squeezed into tiny shoes, not remembering that the little bones are soft and easily deformed. Happily, nowadays both bootmaker and customer seem to be growing more sensible, and the well made, well cut, broad soled shoe is gradually pushing out of the market the monstrous toothpick, high heeled article. Consequently, women are taking far more exercise especially walking more, than formerly, with accruing benefit to their general health, happiness and well-being Following are some excellent rules for the proper care of the feet: The feet should be thoroughly washed every morning and evening, and wiped carefully dry, especially between the toes, that hotbed of soft corns. The toenails should be cut regularly, but not too often, and never shorter than ends of the tues. When buying shoes all freedom for the toes, have the breadth of the foot measured while you stand on it, and allow fully half an inch to an inch more than the length of your

Have no tightness anywhere. What slight pressure there is should be be-neath the instep and on its sides, which parts are sometimes spoken of as the 'waist" of the foot. Have the sole thinnest and na rowest at the "waist" and broadest at the

Don' be ashamed of the size of your foot. A well formed large foot is much better to look at than a small distorted one, and remember that well proportioned parts always look smaller than they really are. It is only a mistaken standard of as disproportionately small. The best antique standards of beauty show the perfect foot to be about one-sixth of the whole height.

To obtain health and comfort for the oot it is by no means necessary to wear ugly boots or shoes. The bootmakers are now making footgear that combines admirably both beauty and comfort, while people are gradually beginning to understand that the foot itself is more worth caring for than is its covering.

High heels, placed far under the instep, are now rarely seen in the street, though still worn in the house. They are extremely injurious, as they throw the body forward in an unnatural position , which affects the spine, the knees and the nervous system.

Chiropodists all say that if men and women gave up wearing ill fitting boots and shoes the next generation would know noticed of deformed and diseased feet.

The Virtues of Rhubarb,

It is very wholesome, and even those who do not like it should take it medicinally in the Spring, for it purifies the blood, keeping it cool our neighborhood watched everything and healthy. One great virtue rhubarb she did." known, is that, mixed with other things it takes all flavors, while giving none in feturn, and is, therefore, of the greatest use in adding to a tart or pudding when the fruit used has run short or is expensive. For instance. if respherry tart is required, and there is not enough of the fruit to fill the dish, take some rhubarb, wash it well mince it up, then s ir in sugar, and bake till it is quite soft; when cold mix the raspberries in with it, make the tart and place it in the oven just long enough to cook the paste; the presence of rhubarb will never be discovered, and the tart will cost only half the price it would have done if made solely
