Shiloh's Consumption

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, while it's wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since it's first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a Cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore, Chest or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster.
Sold by E. Lee Street.

"My friends," said a politician the other day, with a burst of ingenious eloquence, "I will be honest—." The terrific outburst of applause which followed this remark entirely upset the point which the orator was about to introduce.

Answer This Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming Up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cents we will sell them Shiloh's System Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper. W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block Rochester, N. Y. eow.

Farm and Household.

BADLY DRAINED SOIL.

Probably no better illustration can be given of the effects of water on growing plants than what we see in the case of plants growing in pots. Every pot is provided with a hole in the bottom to allow the water to drain out when the soil becomes saturated, and, with the exception of water or bog plants, this drainage is a necessity. If we see a plant whose foliage turns yellow, or drops off, or which fails to grow, and whose whole appearance is unthrifty, we are almost sure to find the trouble to be at the roots, and not unfrequently we find the drainage is clogged and the roots are inactive. Turning the plant out of the pot, placing some bits of broken crock at the bottom, and then some coarse material, the plant is turned to its place and filled in with fresh soil, and in a short time it starts into new growth and shows that it can grow if the conditions are suitable. Without healthy roots there can be no vigorous growth. A supply of water is necessary for the roots to take from the soil what they want but the water must pass off and not remain stagnant, or disease and death will follow. The case is exactly the same with plants growing in the fields where there is an excess of moisture below the surface.

Pot-grown plants may still further serve to show a bad effect of a surcharge of water in the soil. All plant-growers are very careful in cold weather about watering their plants at night, knowing by experience that increased evaporation will too greatly reduce the temperature and thus check and stunt the plants. The case is the same in effect over large areas where the water is held in the soil below the surface. The temperature is kept many degrees below what it would be if good drainage existed. Vegetation commences later in the spring, arrives at maturity later, and is coarser in texture on such soils. The market gardener, the fruit-grower and the farmer cannot afford to raise crops on any but well drained lands.—Vick's Magazine.

SWINE NOTES.

Cleanliness of the pen is the best possible prevention of hog cholera.

There are quite as weighty reasons for keeping clean the pens of the hogs as the stalls of the horses.

In breeding, feeding and fattening hogs it is essential to have a lot as near of the same size, weight and quality as possible; it will sell for a better price than a lot of various sizes and weights.

Weeding, selecting, breeding from the best and to a specific end should be the rule with hogs as with cattle.

"A nimble sixpence is better than a slow shilling." The hog, properly raised is the "nimble sixpence" of the modern farm.

"Sows should be a year old before coupling, and under no circumstances should she farrow until she is a year old. And in a majority of cases it will be best to wait until she is a year old before mating her; although if she has been fed from birth to maturity she may be sufficiently matured at nine months."

The light weight hog promises to become fashionable. The large, fat, greasy porker which used to delight the grower, arouse the admiration of the neighborhood, and excite the active competition of buyers is surely giving place to the smaller, more solid and sweeter-meated pig.

HOW TO CHOOSE A HEAVY DRAFT HORSE.

A French veterinarian (M. Minot), in his book "Appreciation of the Horse," gives the following directions for the choice of heavy draft horses: The choice of a heavy draft horse is a great deal easier than that of a race horse; yet it is important to know how to distinguish the best, strongest, most enduring, those who would feed well, those that are fiery, and those that are slow. The draft horse derives his power from several causes—the development of those parts which constitute bulk, the energy of its muscular action, and the firmness and hardiness of its organs. The exterior characteristics of a good heavy draft horse are a large, deep chest, straight shoulders a little inclined, fleshy, a thick body yet not too much belly, straight loin, the hind quarters a little depressed, thick through the thighs, and a long perineum prolonged down from the anus, and thick, short muscles of the thighs is a very strong and good draft animal. The walk of a heavy draft horse is immaterial. There are draft horses that are quick, and there are those that are slow. The light, quick horses are good for farm work where the ground is light and even the heavy slow horses, with firm tread, are excellent for new, sticky ground, and on bad, uneven roads. A horse for drawing loads to be well formed ought to be high in front, having high and projecting withers, large chest, front legs strong and well spread apart, back and loins straight, hind-quarters a little depressed, muscular, short in flank, large sinews. With such a shape a draft horse is solid and able to resist all the knocks from uneven roads and weight which presses upon it when going down a hill. To be too fiery is a fault in a horse drawing heavy loads on an uneven road. In this case a strong and slow horse is better; it will resist fatigue more and do more service.

WATERPROOF WHITEWASH.

Whitewash for farm buildings, fences etc, is cheaper and far more healthful than paint. The Canadian Magazine of Science publishes some good methods of preparing washes which are worth preserving:

Resenbeck of Munich, mixes together the powder from three parts silicous rock (quartz) three parts broken marble and sandstone, also two parts of burnt pore lime-clay, with two parts freshly slaked lime, still warm. In this way a wash is made which forms a silicate if often wetted, and becomes after a time, almost like stone. The four constituents mixed together, give the ground color, which any pigment that can be used with lime is added. It is applied quite thickly to the wall or other surface, let dry one day, and the next day frequently covered with water which makes it waterproof. This wash can be cleaned with water without losing any of its color; on the contrary each time it gets harder so that it can even be brushed, while its porosity makes it look soft. The wash or calcimine can be used for ordinary purposes, as well as for the finest painting. A so called fresco surface can be prepared with it in the dry way.

A recipe for whitewash, suitable for outbuildings on a farm, something that will not wash or rub off and not injure trees, and can be tinted: For one barrel of colorwash use half a bushel white lime, three pecks hydraulic cement, 10 pounds umber, 10 pounds ochre, one pound venetian red, one quarter-pound lampblack. Slake the lime, cut the Lampblack with vinegar and mix well together; then add the cement and fill the barrel with water. Let it stand 12 hours before using, and stir it frequently while putting it on. This wash is not a clear white, but a light stone color, which may be more or less changed by the other colors. This covers well, hardens without scaling and will not wash off.

PEDIGREED SHEEP.

There are many good men in this world even to day who have so much confidence in their own skill and integrity, that they refuse to register anything they produce. Especially is this true of sheep and hogs; and yet the Register, modern institution though it be, is one of the most valuable and desirable known to man. Everything kept for breeding purposes should be religiously entered in the personal and private register and if possible, also in the public and printed one. It is desirable to know that all breeding animals have nothing but pure blood, and though this is ensured and guaranteed on farms where none else is allowed to come, still there are good, better and best in all flocks and herds, and it is only by registration that these can be traced.

Mortimer Levering, an authority on Shropshire, has the following to say of this in the N. E. Homestead.

"Pedigree is alike an advantage to the one who buys, the one who owns and to the sheep itself. Taking these in their order: When a breeder contemplates buying a ram to improve his stock as should be the aim of every sheep raiser, he goes to a breeder who pays great attention to the breeding of the kind of sheep he intends to buy. If he sees an animal that pleases him he asks, How is it bred? and if the pedigree can be shown that gives as the sire and dam animals well know as prize-winners, or from prize stock, he is satisfied to pay a big price.

"Those who own sheep and have stock for sale, will find that registered stock can be sold for nearly three times the price of grades. It is a well-known fact that no matter what a breeder may say regarding the quality or individual merit of his flock or the statement that 'they are full blood, but cannot be recorded, as no pedigrees have been kept of the different animals,' he cannot sell them for half the price they would bring if they were recorded. The average price of pure-bred sheep, without pedigrees entitling them to registry, is $8, and the average price of registered sheep is $25. The one kind eat just as much as the other, and it takes about the same amount of time and labor to raise them. Then it is certainly a great advantage to the breeder to be able to record his flock by having a reliable pedigree for each sheep.

"Pedigreed sheep undoubtedly get better care than their common bred relatives, and fare better, as their pedigrees show that they can boast of superb lineage. From the time a pedigreed lamb is dropped, its extra care is marked, for if the shepherd has a choice pedigreed breeding ewe he will ascertain to a day when she will lamb, and if the weather is cold and stormy, that lamb will never be left on frozen ground, but will be wrapped in an overcoat and warmed near a fire. No matter what time of the night it makes its debut on that farm from that hour it is watched and especially cared for. Hundreds of such lambs, when kept for show and breeding purposes, are not permitted to get a drop of rain or snow on their fleece. Then again in the mating, care is taken when breeding pedigreed animals to avoid too close inbreeding, to use such sires as have well-established records as good individuals or prize-winners. A breeder takes pride in publishing to the world that his stock is as good as he can afford to buy.

"It is hoped that every sheep breeder will keep accurate records of his flock, that he may satisfy the inquiries of buyers, establish his representations as to pedigrees, improve his flock by getting meritorious stock and give such sheep the care that well-bred animals deserve. In this way his profits will be largely increasing his pleasure in raising stock, be assured and the satisfaction gained of being classed as a breeder of thoroughbreds."

BREEDING SUPERIOR STOCK.

Some one has wisely said that a mortgage can be bred off a farm. While this is fully true, yet there is another truth that should be coupled with it: It can't be done with inferior animals. If farmers could be educated up, driven up, or in some way go up to a full comprehension of the fact that it is from the good stock only that the profits are realized, a grand step in advance would have been made. Inferior animals are a continuous drag on the owner, a tax on his income, a hindrance to prosperity. Young men, just starting out with stock, do use these things and let your course be governed accordingly. Let the law of your action be never to hold an inferior animal only long enough to fatten it out. The offspring of a single heifer properly bred, will soon make a fine herd; of a single sheep a choice flock.

A good cow is described by Prof. Robertson as follows: "she is flat-ribbed just back of the shoulders, and has well-sprung ribs further back. She has broad, flat ribs, and so far apart that one can lay two fingers between them. Her skin should be loose and flappy over the flank, and her umbilical developments should be firm and strong, with the veins of the belly very prominent. She should be broad between the eyes, should have a short and slightly dished face, and bright and prominent eyes. Besides, the poll or forehead should be long between the horns and the eye, the neck should be clean and thin, the backbone strong, the pelvic arch high, the hams thin to give ample room for a large udder, and the tail should be long, slim or flat. She should have a long udder, extending well back and in front—one that will be soft and flappy when milked out—and should have a three-fold, wedge-shaped form, the general tendency of weight being toward the udder, indicating power to produce milk."

The Jersey Bulletin thinks the Jersey is pre-eminently the children's cow. There ought to be stringent laws passed to prevent children from being starved to death on the milk of cows fed on distillery slop and other unwholesome food. How very few persons understand the danger in which they are placing their children by giving them unwholesome milk. If a cow drinks stagnant water filled with death dealing microbes, the same microbes will appear in her milk. This will apply also to the food eaten by the cow.

WORMS For the removal of worms of all kinds from children or adults use DR. SMITH'S GERMAN WORM LOZENGES. Always prompt, reliable, safe and pleasant, requiring no after medicine. Never failing. Leave no bad after effects.

To Our Readers!

We have made arrangements with the publishers of the COTTAGE HEARTH, Boston, Mass., to offer the UNION ADVOCATE with their Magazine this year.

THE COTTAGE HEARTH

Is a well known Family Magazine now in its 15th year, and is a favorite wherever introduced. It has each month MUSIC, FLORAL AND HEALTH DEPARTMENTS, LATEST FANCY WORK, SABBATH READING, DOMESTIC PATTERNS, APPROVED RECEIPTS, HOUSEHOLD HINTS, AND PRIZE PUZZLES FOR CHILDREN.

This Beautifully Illustrated
Monthly Magazine has among its many
CONTRIBUTORS
EDWARD EVERETT HALE, LUCY LARCOM, CELIA THAXTER, LOUISE CHANDLER MOULTON, GEORGE MACDONALD, MARGARET DELAND, AUGUSTA MOORE, ROSE TERRY COOKE.

It is a large 34-page, elegantly printed magazine and has attained a large circulation solely on its merits as a family magazine. Its is very low for such a desirable home magazine, but we offer to send it and the UNION ADVOCATE for one year to any one who will remit us $2.00.

Sample Copies of the COTTAGE HEARTH sent free on application to F. P. Shumway, Jr., Boston, or can be seen at ADVOCATE office.

Coughs, Colds, Croup.

Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectoration and causes the Lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no opium in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by consumption when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM is the Great Modern Remedy. It is almost a specific. It is an old standard remedy, and sold universally at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. The 25-cent bottles are put out to answer the constant call for a Good and Low-Priced COUGH CURE. If you have not tried the Balsam, call for a 25-cent bottle to test it.

After spending ten Winters South, was cured by Scott's Emulsion.

146 Centre St., New York, June 25th, 1888.

The Winter after the great fire in Chicago I contracted Bronchial affections and since then have been obliged to spend nearly every Winter south. Last November was advised to try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and to my surprise was relieved at once, and by continuing its use three months was entirely cured, gained flesh and strength and was able to stand even the Blizzard and attend to business every day.

"A Stitch in Time Saves Nine,"

Is an old proverb and if followed out through life much time, money and suffering may be prevented. A Cough or Cold neglected often ends in Consumption, which might have been cured in a few days had the proper remedy been used. Don't delay, delays are dangerous. Secure at once a bottle of

ESTEY'S
Cod Liver Oil Cream

It will cure a cough or cold quicker than any thing else you can use.
Dr. R. L. Botsford, Richibucto, N. B., writes as follows: I have prescribed and sold over eleven dozen of Estey's Cod Liver Oil Cream. I have had better results from its use than any other preparation of the kind that I ever used."
Ask your druggist for ESTEY'S COD LIVER OIL CREAM. Take no other.
Price, 50c. 9 bottles, $2.50. Prepared only by E. M. ESTEY, Pharmacist, Moncton, N. B.
