The Officers and Crew of S. S. Pro-Words of mine fail me to-day in expressing my feelings for this outburst of gratitude. It is all undeserved. Your address and your presents make me feel that I have won you respect and esteem and any retiring master who finds his officers and crew assembled in his cabin to bid a parting farewell as you have arranged, cannot but feel proud of himself and of the men who stood the test with him. I am almost sure such an happening is unique in the history of the coastal mail service and the pleasure I am certain is reciprocal. When I look around I see the faces of men, the engineers. the officers of the deck, the stewards, the stewardesses, the purser, the men of the stokehold and the sailors, who have stood by me faithfully since I ever trod the deck of a ship, or threw fuel into a furnace. No more competent stewards ever served the tables of a coastal boat, and no more loyalty was ever shown to a master or to the firm that I feel the parting keenly. But it has a soothing aspect in the fact that you men, tried and true, have not forgotten me. I wish I could express my feelings as I would like, but words fail me now, when I wish I could | speak as I would like to offer the Fogo, Newfoundland, passed away at advice to you all to fight to a finish, 7.15 a.m. Sunday, at the home of her however.
