Rev. Dr. Flanders Tells of Country's Most "Powerful Allies."

GENIUS OF ANGLO-SAXON

Indomitable Will of Englishman Stands Against Might of Foe.

"Our Greatest Allies" was the subthe evening service in the First Methodist Church yesterday. "Our greatest allies," he said, "are not France, Russia, Belgium and Italy, although these are great, but those forces which have worked ever for the advantage of our great nation, and which, in a crisis like this with which the empire is faced today. fight with us."

Speaking from the text, Judges, v 20—"They fought from heaven, the stars in their courses fought against Sisera"—he reminded his hearers that Israel, in its struggle against the oppression of Sisera, was aided ber of phenomena of nature to which Deborah, in her song, referred as "the stars in their courses." Anglo-Saxon Genius.

And so above the heroism of the Empire were many stars which in their courses fought to bring about the overthrow of her enemies. These phenomena took several different forms, and Dr. Flanders divided them into three sepa-rate classes, the first of which he ed as the heaven-born genius of the Anglo-Saxon race, represent ing the characteristics which peculiarly fitted that race for conquest.

Among these characteristics was an indomitable will. An Englishman never knew when he was beaten, which accounted for the result of the battle of Waterloo, where the "thin red line" was beaten again and was a keen sense of justice. An in-domitable will alone produced a race of barbarians, such as the Germans were proving themselves to be. That a sense of justice was a character istic of the British nation, Dr. Flanders said, was proved by the very fact of Britain's participation in the war. It was her sense of justice h made her go to the assistance

Fire in the Thomson factory broke out about 4:30 Sunday afternoon. The loss will be about $50,000, fully covered by insurance. The blaze apparently started in some cotton waste near a stairway leading to the second story. The flames made their way up the stair and jumped to the elevator shaft adjoining and had made their way to all parts of the building before being noticed. Large quantities of yarn and finished stocking were stocked on the second and third floors, and dense clouds of the most acrid smoke pouring from every win-dow in the place made the work of the fremen very difficult. Great flames were shooting from the rear windows when Chief Aitken and his men arrived. Six streams were turned in through the rear windows and three others played from adjoining roofs, and one stream was used in the front. The water pressure was splendid and the brigade ucceeded, after a hard fight, in keeping the first in the building where it started. With the exception of about half of the third floor, there was no collapse. About $20,000 worth of knitting machinery was nstalled on the third floor, and all of it is destroyed. The flames also made their way into the cellar and did considerable

RICHMOND STREET FIRE

GUTS FRAME SHOPS Fire which broke out on Saturday evening in the paint shop of Botley & Slade at 507 Richmond street, quickly destroyed that building and spreading to the adjoining premises, licked up the carpenter shop of L. L. Fitch. Both buildings were of frame and had stood there for more than sixty years. They were the property of ex-Alderman Stephen O'Meara, who had a small insurance. The loss will be about $2,000. Fire Chief Aitken stated to The Advertiser that the cause of the blaze was them up in a few minutes.

Many Alarms Sent In. A dozen people sent in alarms when the flames suddenly shot through the roof in the rear of Botley & Slade's shop. The brigade made a record run, but so fierce was the fire that before Slade's shop had collapsed and L. L. Fitch's was doomed. Thousands of sparks fell on half a dozen old barns in the rear and set them on fire and a time it looked of though the loss would be heavy. Fire Chief Aitken, however, and his men worked so effectively that the frame fruit store of A. Latello, only ten feet from a fierce blaze did not catch fire. The roofs of the barns were soon drenched and in half an hour the blaze was under control. The roof of Hunter's big livery barn also took fire but was soon put out. A crow of about 10,000 collected in few minutes attracted by the glare o the fire. Among them were many soldiers who lent the fire department valuable aid in moving the lines of hose. The shop of N. Russo, Modern Shoe Repair, was only saved by a firewall. His stock of shoes was somewhat damaged by water. Mr. O'Meara stated to the Adver-

He went on to say that, if it became pparent that the war tax was to continue for any considerable period, the banks probably would issue checks already embossed with a war stamp, paying to the Government the cost of the stamp and charging customers two cents for each check issued to them.
