Net Income Increases Nearly Fifty Per Cent Over

Washington, Aug. 28. — Apparently the railroads of the country are slowly into the hands of receivers are no longer heard, and officials are hopeful that the change for the better will react on the general industrial situation.

Reports on earnings for June and July are encouraging. These indicate that net income for June will be more Better Conditions. Officials here think it is not improbable that by September or October the class I. railroads, with the wage reductions which took effect on July 1, will show a net income equal to the 6 per cent on valuation. It is estimated that these wage reductions will cut the payrolls of the railroads by about $400, 00,000 annually, or approximately $35. 000,000 a month.

Had the wage reductions been in effect in May approximately $35,600,000 would have been added to net operating income, thus bringing the total net operating income to about $72,000,000. as compared to the $92,035,000 which it was necessary for the roads to earn to

Optimism Now Prevails. Analyses indicate that the railroads are gradually returning to "normalcy." Even the optimists believe, however, that many months must pass before a complete recovery may be expected, but much of the feeling of depression over the railroad situation has been dissi-

Treasury officials expressed the be lief that most of the larger railroads would accept the Government's decision concerning the settlement of claims, and that an agreement would be reached soon which will result in the funding of the debt of the carriers to the Government and the payment by the Government of sums due to the roads for the period of Government control. It is believed that at least $250,000.

000 will be available for the carriers soon, and that with additional appropriations by Congress the total may reach $500,000,000 during the fiscal year. Congressional leaders are estimating now that an appropriation of from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 will be necessary, and a substantial sum is available in the treasury. With this money available, the car-riers will be able to replace money taken from surplus or borrowed to pay the most essential maintenance and re-VAST IMPROVEMENT COST, NOT REAL ART, LOUVRE CRITERION

Paris, Aug. 28 .- Is the reputation of the Louvre as the future are centre of the world to be based on the fact that the paintings exhibited are the most expensive obtainable instead of being getting on a sounder basis than had been anticipated a few weeks ago.
Stories that important lines might go profess to see in the acquisition of Delacroix's "Death of Sardanapalus" evidence of this tendency, for, although last month the Louvre paid francs for this painting, which is twelve by fifteen feet, it was so lightly considered by art experts thirty years ago that it could have been bought for less than 30,000 francs.

The Louvre authorities bought the "Death of Sardanapalus" to compensate than $50,000,000, perhaps as high as $54,000,000, and that net income for July will exceed $54,000,000. For May the net income was $37,080,654.

Car loadings also are showing a steady increase, not only in grains but in inductries. For the week of July 23 car loadings totaled 790,348, and later reports are more favorable.

Better Conditions.

"Death of Sardanapalus" to compensate their regret at not being able, in view of public opposition, to pay 3,000,000 francs asked by the Dutch for a canvas called, "The Little Street," by Vermeer, the real value of which a few years ago was less than 100,000 francs.

Another evidence of the modern tendency to consider the price instead of the art is found in Gustave Vourbet's a the work has been refused by a dozen lesser museums throughout the world. The Delacroix work was first exhibited in the salon in 1827, when it was ridiculed by visitors and critics. For fifty-five years it remained in the Wilson collection, when it was sold for $5,000 francs to an amateur, who, when he tried to sell it, could not get more than 50,000 francs. M. Haro, its next owner, sold it in 1892 for less than 30,000 francs, after failing to receive a single offer at a public auction attended by museum buyers from England, Italy, France and the United States.
