

BISHOP W. T. MANNING CHALLENGES DR. GRANT

Head of New York Diocese Declares Pastor Has Not Made Position Plain.

Special to The Advertiser.
New York, Feb. 9.—Bishop William T. Manning of the New York Episcopal Diocese placed the chip of the old-time religion on his shoulder Thursday night and dared anyone to knock it off.
His challenge was impliedly directed at the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, whose denial of the divinity of Christ and the supernatural inspiration of the Gospel has placed him in an equivocal position before the bishop.
He again affirmed that the church believed in the co-equality of Christ with God and threatened to take action against any pastor who clearly denied such belief. This was interpreted as an invitation to Dr. Grant to openly state his position and incur a trial for heresy.
"I am sure you will all agree with me," Manning said, "when I say the thing we need above all other things is an awakening of a true, vital personal religion."
"The point should be kept clearly in mind," the bishop added, "that the church cannot take formal action against a denial of her faith unless this denial is expressed in words that are clear and unequivocal and are acknowledged by their author."

WILL ATTEMPT TO HAVE BUSES AGAIN OPERATE

Knollwood Park Citizens Call Meeting To Discuss Form of Transportation.

Why should 800 people living in Knollwood Park have to walk about a mile every morning and evening to the street cars? The answer is because the buses which have been serving this district for the last 18 months have ceased to operate.
Last New Year's Day Mayor Wenig told the chairman of the Knollwood Park transportation committee, J. H. Waud, that the buses serving this district would not be refused permission to run, yet yesterday was the last day on which the city allowed them to do so.
Yesterday, Mr. Waud, on behalf of his neighbors, rang up seven of the aldermen, asking them what they proposed to do about it. The usual answer that he received was to the effect that they were not interested, and that it was an insult to attach any blame to them in this matter.
As a result of this state of affairs the ratepayers' association of Knollwood Park have called an indignation meeting for tonight, to be held in Carnegie's greenhouse at 8 o'clock. The matter of transportation is a burning one to the workmen in this part of London, and a large attendance is assured.

Great For Bad Coughs and Colds

Make Your Own Medicine and Have the Best There Is.

You'll Say It's Good When All Mucus Disappears and Cough Healthy Membrane Is Your Reward.

Here is an inexpensive home-made remedy that you can't beat and one that will quickly bring up that phlegm, stop the snuffling, relieve the choked nostrils, make the breathing easier and cause the stubborn cold and persistent cough to vanish many times over night.
Try it right away if you suffer from Catarrh, Chest Colds or any irritating nose or throat troubles and you'll be glad you ran across this little bit of advice.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Eucalypti (double strength) and to it a little sugar and enough water to make one half pint. You can make it in two minutes and when it is mixed you can pride yourself on having a medicine that acts directly on the membrane of the nose and throat and starves food fermentation; that all phlegm, all tickling and inflammation speedily disappears.—Adv't.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starves food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.
Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

SAHARA DESERT CROSSED BY AUTOS IN 20 DAYS.

Above are shown the caterpillar cars used by the Citroen motor car firm, who successfully achieved the crossing of the Sahara desert in 20 days. Formerly all crossings were made by camel caravan, and the best previous time was six months. The distance was 2,250 miles. The cars arrived in perfect order, and all the members of the expedition were in good health.

THE BRIDE'S TROSSEAU

By JULIA HOYT

Once upon a time nearly every girl possessed a "hope chest," and, beginning almost from the time she began to sew, she stored in it daintily embroidered household linens, personal undergarments, and all kinds of hand-made laces and embroideries, and all this so as to be ready when Prince Charming made his appearance. Although this showed considerable foresight, it nevertheless had its drawbacks, for if Prince Charming for some reason did not materialize, the girl was left with the hope chest as a constant reminder of her disappointment.

But this proceeding was abandoned some years ago. These days girls not only wait to think of their trousseau until the man has spoken, but also until they have quite decided to get married. Thank goodness, the girl of today has other interests and ideas besides just the one of getting married, fascinating as that idea may also be.

Today the only place where one may still see the hope chest is among the European peasants, and the girls in remote villages of our own land, and the antique shops. I might also point out the fact that the peasant women take years to make their wedding gowns and trousseaux, while we can get ours in as short a time as the occasion allows. Which is not as clever as we think, how ever, for their things last them a lifetime, while ours—as long or as short a time as they are in fashion.

Therefore, the trousseau of the modern girl consists only of enough clothes to last a season, or, at least, two seasons, with the exception of a few standard things, including the linens.

The choice of a trousseau depends entirely on the circumstances of the bride's parents and what demands her future position as a young matron will make upon her. Naturally, if the bride will live in the country her trousseau should consist of such kinds of clothes and accoutrements as are appropriate and necessary. However, if she is to live in a city where she will be socially active, then she must provide for it accordingly. But in every case there must be at least a small variety of the necessities.

A bride's trousseau is always given to her by her parents or a near relative, and should never be given by anyone else.
Seasons some wedding outfit one should have at least one plain cloth dress, a traveling suit, a fur scarf and a good long coat which can be worn over the one or two afternoon dresses. An evening gown or two and an evening wrap would also seem essential, and perhaps a couple of light-colored house gowns made of some soft and gauzy material to be worn in the afternoon and evening when at home. Then there should be as many pretty negligees, lounging robes and boudoir slippers as one can afford.

It is really impossible, however, to lay down any rules for trousseau of a bride. It is so much a matter of her own personality, where she may be going on her honeymoon, and what her life after marriage is to be.

Every bride should have at least a dozen of each kind of undergarments and nightgowns; also plenty of shoes, slippers, and as many dozen gloves, stockings and handkerchiefs as possible.
The Household Linen.
The linen is an important part of a bride's trousseau, and a girl even in moderate circumstances should have at least a dozen each of sheets and pillowcases. Six plain bedspreads and six dozen towels of different sizes for various purposes. About six tablecloths and six dozen napkins, large and small, and perhaps one or two tablecloths with napkins to match, for use on the occasion of dinner parties. All these should be of as good quality linen as is within the parents' means. To these may be added lace-inserted and embroidered doilies, runners, center-pieces, and many other necessary, useful and ornamental household linens.

White embroidery is always in best taste, particularly for bed and dining-table linen, but for luncheon sets colors are permissible. Also on towels and wash-cloths I think colored monograms are prettier than white. Guest towels, however, are usually marked with white monograms. The monograms or initials on table linens are generally embroidered near the corner, and on sheets and pillow-cases they are embroidered near the center and over the hem.

It is also customary for the bride to have all her clothing, linen and silver marked with the initials of her maiden name. This is also the proper way to mark any gifts given to the bride by her friends and family.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont., writes:

"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

POSTPONES DIVORCE AS REMARK PUZZLES

Detroit Judge Halts Proceedings Believing Contestants Are Canadian Citizens.

Special to The Advertiser.
Detroit, Feb. 9.—Intimating that the suspected it to be another instance of Canadian citizens attempting to obtain divorce from Michigan courts, Judge Jane yesterday withheld a decree asked by Mrs. Mabel J. Jeffers, who said her address is 1350 East Jefferson avenue, and who charged her husband, Edward W. Jeffers, with cruelty and desertion.

Her husband, Mrs. Jeffers said, now lives at Prince Edward Hotel, Windsor, and she herself will leave for Calgary soon. It was these statements that set the court wondering whether both Mr. and Mrs. Jeffers were not now Canadian citizens seeking to get a divorce from Wayne county court, and the case was taken under advisement.

DEPLORES KU KLUX IS AGAIN DOMINANT

Mrs. E. Fields, Only Woman Member of Original Klan, Laments Resurrection.

Special to The Advertiser.
Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Eliza Fields, famous confederate spy and the only woman member of the original Ku Klux Klan, helped bury the order after it had served its purpose in the day of the Civil War, and now regrets that it has risen from the grave.

Mrs. Shields is now 82 years old. "The Klan was a wonderful organization when it first started," she said.

"We helped widows, and orphans of the boys in gray, and restored white dominance in the south. Many of the time I've got up at midnight for my work as a spy, and also because my first sweetheart, Cy Williams, was a Cyclops."

"But lawless men got control of the organization, and when Oliver P. Norton made his investigation I gave testimony against it. I'm glad that I helped put it out of business and I'm sorry it is trying to come back."

Although happily married for years to Thomas Olander, she has always used her maiden name. She was taken to a hospital here Wednesday suffering from pneumonia.
