NEW BRUNSWICK FOR TOURISTS

Province of Beauty and Opportunity Needs only Advertising.

The poet who wrote that beautiful hymn about singing birds, ringing words, dancing waters and nature's other inspirations, must surely have tasted of the summer delights of our own little province down by the sea. Its broad rivers, romantic beaches and water stretches, lakes and mountains, fields and fountains, reversing falls, its smooth roadways, with their borders of sweet-smelling flowered shrubs, its deer and moose and other forest game, and its other natural resources, possess a charm and attraction, that certainly mark New Brunswick as a most delightful and alluring summer vacation region.

Possessing these allurements, the New Brunswick Tourist and Resources Association which is now a provincial organization—is appealing to the town and county councils, the board of trade, commercial clubs and public spirited citizens, from end to end of the province to interest themselves in making these advantages better known to the outside world, and for the promoting plans for provincial and local improvement and beautification. One of the greatest necessities in many attractive localities would seem to be improved hotel and housing accommodation.

At the late meeting of the Association in Sackville, N.S., it was decided to publish a provincial pamphlet setting forth the attractions and advantages as a summer camping ground as well as a permanent abiding place. On this point, the Association secretary, Mr. C. B. Allan, of St. John, would be pleased to receive suggestions and information, as to the best routes to be followed in reaching specially attractive areas, the hotel or housing accommodation available, and such local resources or attractions as would prove most interesting. Our increase in the dollar membership is also desired, with a view to strengthening its influence and enabling it to carry on an extensive pamphlet propaganda covering all sections of the province.

The Association, since becoming provincialized has held meeting in St. John, Dalhousie, and Sackville. Next season it is booked to meet in Edmundston, Madawaska, where it is hoped there will be a large representation from all parts of the province.

Our readers who are interested in promoting the welfare of the province, are asked to lend their aid in building up this important provincial organization.

THE BOY SCOUTS ASSOCIATION.

The Boy in the Man meets the Man in the Boy.

There is only one way to be reasonably sure that we are going to get our sons safely over the rough places in their lives, and that is by becoming their chums. We must not allow our waking hours to be so full of business that we shall lack time to help the boys fight those battles every lad must face.

Your Case.

Must come out to meet the man that is within the boy and they must walk and play together.

CHARLIE'S CASE.

The following anecdote, though unusual, contains a note of warning to which every father should give heed. A prominent Canadian Judge of a Juvenile Court tells of a visit which he made to a place of detention where he became interested in two bright looking boys of about sixteen years of age. In conversation with one, he said: "Charlie, how did you come to get in to this trouble? I knew your father well. He was one of the best ministers in Canada. It must have broken his heart to see you going wrong. Why didn't you take him into your confidence when you found yourself slipping?" The boy hung his head, and mumbled: "I never could get within forty feet of my dad. He was always to busy."

Jim's Case.

There was a wonderful similarity between Charlie's case and that of the other boy, Jim, whose father was a writer of legal books. Jim complained that several times when in trouble he had tried to have a talk with his father but was always was greeted with "Run away, Jim, my boy, I am just in the middle of a very important chapter and I cannot take the time just now to talk to you."

Perhaps by this time you are saying: "Yes, I know and I only wish I had more time to devote to my boy, but I am in that moment to be tied hand and foot. My business takes me away a great deal, or I must attend meetings at night, or I work long hours in the office. My life is just a series of struggles."

It was to meet such cases as yours that the Scout Movement was devised by Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who spent years studying every phase of the different movements among boys.

What Scouting Is.

EDITOR'S MAIL

THE CAUSE OF THE BLIND.

Dear Sir:—

On arriving in Campbellton last night I learned from Mr. Havelock Sanson that a meeting had been held on Sunday night last to consider the cause of the blind children of this county. Since I was unable to be present at that meeting, and since the people of Campbellton have shown their evident interest in this matter, may I ask a little of your valuable space in which to express a few ideas concerning this worthy cause.

One unacquainted with the problem might very naturally ask, "Is the training of the blind possible, and if so, is it worth while?"

Both questions can best be answered by taking a local illustration. About two years ago, in September, 1919, there came to the School for the Blind in Halifax, two blind boys from the Tobique Head named Ernest Cleave and William Barth. These boys' both in their teens and never attended a school of any kind, and lacked the simplest fundaments of what we commonly call education. But, as it turned out, both had a fair share of ability and a great deal of determination. During that year (1919-20) prizes were offered at the school for those making most progress. Of one hundred, and twenty attending that year the first and second prizes were carried off by the two boys from the Tobique Head. Both boys returned for the term of 1920-21, and continued their rapid progress throughout the year. At the present time these boys can read and write Braille (the raised-point system used by the blind). By this means they have access to and constantly use the best of literature from the scholarly, extensive library, and are also able to read the Braille monthly magazines. Starting from "two and two" they are now able to perform mentally any ordinary operation in arithmetic required in a general store and involving addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. They already have a fund of knowledge of geography, matters of general interest, and practical knowledge of the correct use of English. In the industrial department they are doing equally well, having learned cane-seating of chairs, and made rapid progress with their broom-making and piano-tuning. All this in the space of two years! One of these boys said to me a few months ago, "where would I have been now if I had come here a small boy?"

The aim of the School for the Blind is to prepare its pupils so that they may become self-supporting; independent citizens. Cases of successful graduates could be cited almost without number.

The School is a free school, that is the pupils are boarded, lodged, treated for sickness, educated and given a trade or trades without any charge whatever against the parents. Pupils are expected only to pay railway fares and their own clothing.

Right here, I understand, comes your local problem, but in view of the worthiness of the cause involved, and I trust, sir, that we may have no fear the annual success thus far attained, has but there will be sufficient public spirit shown in Campbellton to assist Mr. Sanson in overcoming this small factor in the problem.

Aside from the more important and human phase of the matter all will readily grant that it is good business to make community assets out of what might easily become community liabilities.

Thanking you, sir, for your valuable space, I am,

Yours faithfully,

E. CHESELEY ALLEN,

Asst. Supt. Halifax School for the Blind.

"Oh," cried Mrs. Gush, "what a darling blouse! How much is this gorgeous creation?"

"Fifty shillings, madam!" was the answer.

"Fifty shillings, and so sweet for the price," continued Mrs. Gush. "It's a daisy, just exactly what I want. The price is just exactly what I want."

"Oh, I see! Well, show me something a little better!"—Answered.
