The transmission of speech through space on a ray of light, no wires or electricity being used for the purpose, is one of the latest achievements of Professor Bell, of telephone fame. The apparatus employed is known as the "Radiaphone," and is on exhibition in the Electricity Building at the World's Fair. The instrument, however, must be considered aimply as an interesting scientific curiosity, as the distance the speech can be transmitted is limited and the words, as heard through the speaking tubes, lack sharpness of definition and have a somewhat muffled sound, which is probably due to the tube effects. In Boston under exceptionally favorable conditions articulate speech was transmitted by means of the radiaphone to a distance of about one-sight of a mile, but this distance is beyond its range under usual conditions. The sending apparatus, as described by The Electrical World, consists of a focussing are lamp of the ordinary pattern, whose rays, rendered parallel by a lens, are reflected from a thin diaphragm mirror to the receiving instrument about 80 or 90 feet away, at the north front of the Bell Telephone pavilion. The reflecting mirror is a disc of very thin glass, silvered on its reverse side, and held in a heavy brass frame by means of washers of ordinary blotting paper.

Opening into the chamber in the control of the state of the control of the state of the chamber in the control of the state of t s of ordinary blotting-paper. ing into the chamber in the rear washers of ordinary blotting-paper.

Opening into the chamber in the rear of this mirror is an ordinary speaking-tube, into which the sounds are uttered, causing the mirror to vibrate as would the diaphragm of a telephone transmitter. These rays, reflected in parallel lines, are received at the further end by a parabolic reflector, in the focus of which is as small portion of ordinary burnt cork. This bulb is blown into the end of a glass tube about one-quarter of an inch in diameter and four inches long, the other end of which is open, and to which is attached an ordinary phonograph hearing-tube which extends into a small cabinet, where the listener, removed from external noises, receives the message.

The only adjustments required are that the rays be directed from the mirror in the gallery in an axial direction into the parabolic reflector, and that the bulb containing the burnt cork be brought to the focus of the parabolic mirror. This latter is accomplished by pushing the glass tube in or out until satisfactory results are obtained.

ing and by "fly time" they come forth in swarms.

Sometimes in the dead of winter a fly will appear, beguiled from his resting place by the deceptive warmth of the furnace-heated house. He seems a harbinger of spring and perhaps one may be inclined to pet it a little. Don't do it. Kill it and thus put an end to a prospective future generation of flies. They are natural scavangers. Their purpose in life is to consume various substances which are thrown off from the human body, by articles of food and by almost every animal and vegetable production when in a state of change. These substances are given out in such small quantities they are imperceptible to common observers and not removable by ordinary methods of cleanliness, even in the best kept rooms.

methods of cleanliness, even in the best kept rooms.

When a fly persists in crawling over one's face it is merely taking care of the particles of dead matter thrown off through the pores and thus helps to keep the complexion clean. So it is really doing good while it annoys,

As a common fly has about 4,000 eyes it is no wonder it is so hard to catch or that it evades the blows aimed at it.—

Keep clear of personalities in general conversation. Talk of things, objects, thoughts. The smallest minds occupy themselves with personalities. Personalities must sometimes be talked, because we have to learn and find out men's characteristics for legitimate objects, but it is to be with confidential persons. Do not needlessly report ill of all others. There are times when we are compelled to say, 'do not think Bouncer is a true and honest man,' but when there is no need to express an when there is no need to express an when there is no need to express an opinion, let poor Bouncer swagger away. Others will take his measure, no doubt, and save you the trouble of analyzing him and instructing them, and as far as possible dwell on the good side of human beings. There are family boards where a constant process of depreciating assigning motives and cutting boards where a constant process of de-preciating, assigning motives and cutting up character goes forward. They are not pleasant places. One who is healthy does not wish to dine at a dissecting table. There is evil enough in man, God knows, but it is not the mission of every young man or woman to detail and re-port it all. Keep the atmosphere as pure as possible, and fragrant with gentleness and charity.

When you notice unpleasant sensations after eating, at once commence the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and your Dyspesia will disappear. Mr. James Stanley, merchant at Constance, writes: "My wife has taken two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia, and it has done her more good than anything she has ever used."

Window Glass Trust. CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The American window glass trust has made an open market for an indefinite period. This does not mean a dissolution of the organization. With a free field and no favors the members expect to keep some trade going until there is a general resumption of trade over the country.

Mr. Laidiaw exhausted his powers of ratory on the jury in Gosnell against the loronto Street Railway yesterday at the Assize Court for damages received by the plaintiff by being tumbled out of his cart

Cook said that Gosnell's arm was irretrievably injured.

Benjamin Robertson, a grocer, thought the motor car was floating, as it was going so fast. It was going, in his opinion, not less than 30 miles an hour.

A number of witnesses testified as to the greed of the cor.

Mr. George W. Prittie said the gong re only once.

Mr. Laidlaw argued for a non suit on the construction of the law in the matter. He said that the cars running at a high rate of speed is not a violation of any statutary law; in the common law governing the right of way the company has higher rights then ordinary; absolute recklessness of speed must be shown.

Justice Street ruled that the jury should consider the case and the above verdict

The question where flies come from is asked many times during the summer. It is always a mystery to the woman $1000 was a few valuation. He put Messra. W. Dickson, John Russell and J. A. Nesbitt in the box, all of whom testified that $1000 was a few valuation.

The question where flies come from is asked many times during the summer. It is always a mystery to the woman who has her house well screened how even one of these little pests can get in.

The parents of a good many of them were probably housed a year before, when, in the autumn, vigilance was relaxed and perhaps a door or window left unguarded.

With the instinct with which nature has provided them they crept in the warm house, into cracks not perceptible, and there they hibernated. There, too, they lay their eggs, 177 to each fly, thus looking out for the propagation of the race; and so, when the first warm days come they surprise us by buzzing away on the windows or around the table.

In his defence Mr. James claimed that the Mills property had three good frontages, a fact which he had discovered since the previous assessment, and this explained the reason he had increased it.

A Teamsters' Test Case.

At the Police Court yesterday James Rutledge, a teamster, was charged with following his avocation without having procured a license according to By-law No. 14 of the Police Commissioners.

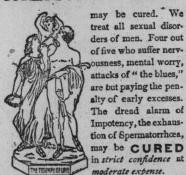

Mr. N. Murphy, Q.C., who appeared for Rutledge, claimed that the by-law was ambiguous and the case will be carried to a higher court for adjudication.

which is 4,000,000 busuels more than the Government report made it. Shippers reported their bids at less than the market. Favorable action on the Silver bill would undoubtedly help the market temporarily at least. Receipts of corn 530 cars; to-morrow's estimate 410 cars. Clearances from the seaboard were 120,000 bushels. The market was firmer; May advanced % of a cent from yesterday's closing price. There was rather better demand for cash corn for New England shipment, but much of the strength came from sympathy with the advance in wheat. Business throughout the session was very light.

Oats in a limited way felt the improvement in corn and wheat. The receipts 218 cars. The estimate for Friday was 190 cars.

Provisions were quite dull, but considerably firmer, largely in sympathy with stronger grain markets. Offerings were small all day and local traders were looking for a lighter run of hogs after the break in price of last few days.
