WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4th, 1896.

—PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S last message on the Venezuelan boundary dispute, although for a time it brought the two nations dangerously near to the verge of war, seems now to have been a blessing in disguise; and, judging by present indications, likely to result in great good. It set the people of both England and the United States to thinking, and they began to realize what it ever since. They have been doing what was between them two nations would mean and what it would cost in blood and treasure. They began to have some conception of what a real war under present conditions would mean when they compared the tremendous loss which the people of a few days caused by the depreciation of stocks on the New York and London markets. If this was one of the results of a mere threat of war, if this was a long way off, it could hardly be understood that there would result in losses to the commercial and financial interests of both nations infinitely beyond comprehension. The more this feature of the case impressed itself upon the minds of thoughtful men the stronger became the determination that there must be no war between these two nations, present or in future, if means could be devised of preventing it. This led to the discussion of the establishment of an international court of arbitration, to which all questions in dispute between the two nations could be referred for settlement, and already this idea has taken a strong hold upon the minds of the best thinking men of both countries. Strong societies have been formed in Great Britain and the United States for the purpose of furthering this object; and last week, on Washington's birthday, the people of the latter country gave this subject their chief attention at all their public gatherings. At the meeting in Philadelphia, held in old Independence Hall, ladies commencing the movement were read from President Cleveland and many men prominent in every sphere of life, while of those in attendance many were the leaders in commerce, education, law, the army and navy, and other branches of the public service. To have gained the sympathy and active cooperation of these men to have half completed the object sought.

If, therefore, President Cleveland's famous message leads to the establishment of such an international court, as seems now very probable, it will surely come to be regarded as a very great blessing. Such an institution, by submitting for all time and for all matters in dispute between these two great nations a guarantee of arbitration instead of war would form a fitting termination of the many events which have marked man's progress towards a higher and better life during this wonderful nineteenth century.

—The gift of $100,000 to Mount Allison college, at Sackville, N. B., by the late Mr. Massey, the millionaire manufacturer of agricultural implements, of Toronto, is indeed a princely one and will prove an inexpressible boon to that institution. Just now when our colleges are called upon to meet additions to their staffs, in order to keep abreast of the scientific and literary progress of the age, such a bequest is a sort of godsend to a struggling institution, and will no doubt bring joy to the hearts of the members of the governing body and other friends of that college. It ought to place that institution on a sound financial basis and enable its board of management to make such additions to its staff of instructors, and such other improvements, as will place it in the front rank among the best of the arts colleges of the Dominion.

Surely this is a better use for a wealthy man to make of a part of his money than to leave millions of dollars to his children, to enable them to lead lives of idleness and dissipation, as certain New York millionaires have been in the habit of doing for years. Mr. Massey's example is one which other of our wealthy men might very well imitate.

—JUDGING by rumors now being circulated this valley it likely to have a better train service during the coming summer than ever before. Reports say that the early morning train from Keeganville, which has been started from Middleton instead of Kentville during the summer season. This will enable business men and others of the valley as far west as Middleton to visit Halifax and return the same day after spending several hours in the city. The small fruit industry would be especially benefited by such an arrangement as the fruit could be shipped in the morning and sold the same day. A fast train from Halifax early in the day to connect at Digby with the first trip of the Prince Rupert daily is also one of the probabilities. These are extras, and with the regular train service to Kentville and other points, early on Sunday morning. Several other buildings and stocks were more or less damaged, and the total loss will likely fall up to something in the vicinity of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

—The weather was mild, and the wind low. Had there been a very brisk breeze at the time the conflagration would have been far more serious. Besides Messrs. Gordon & Keith the following suffered: Miss Corroy, dry goods; Arthur H. Boulter, iron and tin; Messrs. Thomas Cahill, dwelling; The Misses Connor, military and dry goods; A. O'Connor, millinery; Mrs. M. E. Egan, dwelling; Le Bon Marche; Mrs. Neville, boarding house, Greenville street; Graham's Hotel; City Club; Church of England Institute; Frank Leonard. The destroyed property was fairly well covered by insurance.

The comedy drama entitled "Uncle Dan," or "A Messenger from Jarvis Street," given in the Court House last Saturday night by the Wallace Hopper Company, drew forth one of the largest gatherings that has been witnessed on a similar occasion in this building for a long time. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the 69th Battalion, whose members are so well pleased with the result that arrangements are now being made for the company's return on Tuesday next. Mr. Hopper, as Uncle Dan, and Miss Nella Robinson, as Chip, fully sustained their well earned reputations as first-class artists, while the other performers consistently proved that careful rehearsing enabled them to carry their different roles to the play to the entire satisfaction of the large audience. The Wallace Hopper Company is a strong one and well worthy the patronage of all those who appreciate dramatic entertainments.

The Political Situation.

On Wednesday evening last the Court House in this town was crowded with an audience composed of members of both political parties, and including quite a number of ladies, to hear the Hon. W. K. Fielding and Hon. J. W. Longley discuss the political situation of the day. At the occasion at Middleton these gentlemen were listened to with marked attention and frequently applauded as they spoke. Each speaker occupied an hour and a half and fully sustained his reputation as an eloquent platform orator. At the conclusion, three cheers were given in honor of the Queen, and the audience quietly retired.

Again, according to announcement, J. Ritchie, Q.C., of Annapolis, occupied the platform in the same house on Friday evening, and was warmly greeted by an audience similar to that of Wednesday night. Mr. Ritchie spoke eloquently in opposition to the views of the speaker of the former evening, confining himself more particularly to the Maritime school question, which he handled in a manner with apparent satisfaction to the majority of the large audience, who expressed their appreciation of his explanation of the subject in rounds of applause.

John Ervin, Esq., of Annapolis, followed in answer to some of Mr. Ritchie's assertions, which were replied to by the latter gentleman, after which E. Rogers, Q.C., made some very appropriate remarks. As on the former occasion, three cheers were given for the Queen, when the meeting was brought to a close.

On Thursday, Feb. 27th, the many friends of Mr. E. R. Field, of the Commercial Bank of Windsor, Middleton, wishing to express their appreciation of his courtesy and general good fellowship during his stay here, met in the Middleton Station restaurant, and a thoroughly good time was participated in by all.

After the supper, the chairman, Mr. A. J. Morrison, presented an exquisite gold-headed cane to Mr. Field, suitably inscribed, expressing the thoughts of all present in regarding his departure.

Mr. Field in accepting the cane expressed in very feeling terms his regret at leaving Middleton where he had found so many friends of the "true blue type."

Eloquent speeches followed from several gentlemen present, among which were W. E. Parsons, Esq., Dr. S. N. Miller, Mr. Harry Reid, Mr. M. A. Schaffer, Mr. Geo. Smith, and several others.

Mr. J. C. Leckie responded to the toast of "the many friends of the true blue type," and afterward rendering in fine style a song. Other songs followed and all were sorry when the latest of the hour reminded them that 'twas time to depart for home.
