“FIX BAY’NETS,”—or The Regiment in the Hills,
by G. MANVILLE FENN—A capital story of dash and daring.

“IN THE YEAR OF WATERLOO,” by O. V.
CAINE. An historical novel, of witty and sparkling character, with romantic love story running through it.

“LIGHT O’ THE MORNING,” The Story of an Irish Girl—By L. T. MEADE. This is a charming story of a pretty Irish girl, and the author vividly contrasts English and Irish life.

“THE ODDS AND THE EVENS,” by L. T. Meade
An interesting story of child life in which Mrs. Meade sustains her already high réputation as a writer of the best class of stories for girls.

“A GOOD-HEARTED GIRL,” or A Present Day Heroine, by EMMA MARSHALL. A story of English life, deriving its title from the heroine, a true, generous-hearted English girl.
