

	PAGE		PAGE
CHAPTER CXXIX		CHAPTER CXLII.
Parliament St. Baptist—A Congregation of Workers—Theory of Church Giving	446	Royce Ave. Baptist—Started as a Mission from Dovercourt road Church—Student Pastors . . .	468
CHAPTER CXXX.		CHAPTER CXLIII.
Tecumseh St. Baptist—Memorial Church Erected by Private Munificence—Liberal Contributions	449	East Toronto Baptist—Persistent Congregation—Increased prosperity—Financial Standing . .	469
CHAPTER CXXXI.		CHAPTER CXLIV.
College St. Baptist—Hopeless Outlook in its early History—City Missions and Charity	450	Baptist Church (Coloured)—“The First,” Organized in the “Twenties”—Its Career	471
CHAPTER CXXXII.		CHAPTER CXLV.
Ossington Ave. Baptist—Hopeful Band of Workers Successfully Rewarded for Past Efforts . .	455	Congregational Body—Brief History of That Denomination in Toronto for Over Half a Century	473
CHAPTER CXXXIII.		Zion Church—The Mother of Toronto Congregationalism—Record of Sixty-nine Years . . .	473
Western Baptist—An Offshoot from Parkdale, and a Thriving Church	456	CHAPTER CXLVI.
CHAPTER CXXXIV.		Bond Street—Marvellous Growth from Small Beginning—Its Record and Pastors	477
Walmer Road Baptist—Handsome Baptist Church in Province of Ontario	458	CHAPTER CXLVII.
CHAPTER CXXXV.		Northern Congregational—Offshoot from Old Zion—Had its Origin as a Sunday School—Its Pastors	484
Sheridan Ave. Baptist—Small but Prosperous Church—Its Rise and Progress	459	CHAPTER CXLVIII.
CHAPTER CXXXVI.		Olivet Congregational—Growth of a Bond Street Mission in the North End of the City	486
Kenilworth Ave. Baptist—Growth of a Mission Sunday School—Now a Prosperous East End Church	461	CHAPTER CXLIX.
CHAPTER CXXXVII.		Western Congregational—A Flourishing Congregation—Depressing Period Overcome through Persistence	488
Eastern Ave. Baptist Mission—Vigorous Workers—Spiritual Methods and Results	463	CHAPTER CL.
CHAPTER CXXXVIII.		Broadview Ave. Church—Band of Hope Develops into a Flourishing East End Church . . .	490
Christie St. Baptist—Offshoot from Walmer Road Church—In a Flourishing Condition . .	465	CHAPTER CLI.
CHAPTER CXXXIX.		Parkdale Congregational—Organized by the aid of Sister Churches, now Dependent on Itself	492
Century Baptist—Formerly a Mission of Bloor St. Church—Increasing Congregational Growth	465	CHAPTER CLII.
CHAPTER CXL.		Bethel Congregational—Realization of the Desire of Friends for Church Extension—Its Pastors	494
Zion Baptist, Eglinton—Outcome of a Gathering of Children—Aftermath of the “Boom” . .	466	CHAPTER CLIII.
CHAPTER CXLI.		“Bethany”—An Undenominational Church on Congregational Lines	495
Annette St. Baptist—Growth of a Suburban Church—A Larger Edifice Necessary	467		