
“ South of Vancouver's Island, till you come to San Francisco, there is not “ a single available spot where a ship can take shelter. Under these circum“ stances I must say it is no answer to tell us of the distance of Vancouver's “ Island from Great Britain. The efforts which are now making for the “ colonization of neighbouring districts, make it certain that some means of “ overland communication will, before long, be discovered.”—Lord Lincoln, 1849.

“ Whether it be possible to establish regular and rapid communication, vid
“ Canada, with the Coast of the Pacific, remains yet to be ascertained.”—The British Colonies, 1849. By R. Montgomery Martin, Esq.

“ There need be no hesitation in affirming that colonization, in the present “ state of the world, is the very best affair of business in which the capital of “ an old and wealthy country can possibly engage.”—MILL.—Principles of Political Economy.

“ Yet all this time we are left wholly in the dark as to what the State ought “ to do with its offenders. . . . At the present moment there really is no “ positive and practicable plan before the Nation. It is true every now and “ then philanthropic and ingenious projectors come before the public, and offer,
“ at the trifling outlay of a Quarter of a Million, to convert, year by year,
“ two hundred young pickpockets into respectable men. We cannot afford “ such expensive experiments. We cannot afford to spend £50 a year upon “ a convict at home.”—The Times, 1849.
