The Court in which the Temple stood and those without it were built on all sides with stately Buildings and cloysters, and the Gates entering therein were very Beautiful and Sumptuous. The Vessels consecrated to the perpetual use of the Temple were not less noble than the Pile itself. Josephus counts one Hundred and forty Thousand of them which were made of Gold, and one Million three Hundred and forty Thousand of Silver. Ten Thousand Vestments of silk, with Purple Girdles for the Priests, and two Millions of Purple Vestments for Singers. There were likewise two Hundred Thousand Trumpets and forty Thousand other Musical Instruments made use of in Praising God. by Villalpandus's computation of the Number of Talents of Gold, Silver, & Brass Used and upon the Temple, the sum amounts to 6 Thousand 9 Hundred and 6 Millions 8 Hundred & 22 Thousand 5 Hundred Pounds Sterling & the Jewels are reckoned to exceed this Sum & according to Capels reduction of the Talents contained in the Gold & Silver Vessels, in the Use of the Temple the sum of the Gold ones. amounts to 5 Hundred & 85 Millions 2 Hundred & 96 Thousand 2 Hundred & 5 Pounds

& 4 Shillings Sterling, and the Silver came to 4 Hundred & 39 Millions 3 Hundred & 4 Thousand Pounds & besides these, there were charges for the other Materials & of 90 Thousand Men Per Month in Lebanon to hew down Timber, 70 Thousand to carry Burthens, 80 Thousand to hew Stones and 3 Thousand 3 Hundred Overseers who were all employed for 7 Years to whom besides their Wages & Diet, Solomon gave as a free gift 6 Millions 3 Hundred and 33 Thousand 9 Hundred and 71 Pounds. The Treasure left by David to wards, carrying on this Work, is by Villalpandus reckoned to be 9 Hundred & 8 Million 4 Hundred & 10 Thousand 2 Hundred & 71 Pounds, to which if we add Solomons Annual Revenue, his trading to Ophir & Gold & the Presents made him by all the Earth, as mentioned in 1 K. 10. 24. 25. we are not to wonder at his being able to carry on so expensive a Work, nor can we without Impiety, question its surpassing all other Structures, since we learn from Chron: 2 That it was built by the direction of Heaven.
