

do. Then a thought struck her, and, bending over him, she imitated as best she could the friend's tones of the north :

" Good night, lad."

He turned slowly and smiled up at her with his eyes—it was not her voice that recalled him to consciousness for the minute—it was not her face that he saw bent down toward his own.

" Good neet . . . lass."