

THIS collection is a reprint, in cheaper form, of a volume which has found great favour among the religious community of the neighbouring States, and has recently been brought before English lovers of hymnology by a London edition.

The hymns are mainly fugitive ones, and of striking merit, which have been gathered from stray sources—the waifs of newspaper and magazine literature.

The collection has many admirers in Canada, who have had acquaintance with it in the expensive American edition. The present inexpensive issue of the work, it is hoped, will enable the volume to win a larger circle of admirers.

THE PUBLISHERS.

TORONTO, November, 1871.

