A Word About Curtains.

To-day special emphasis is given to Lace Curtains, of stock which is unequalled for variety, unsurpassed for qualities and unmatched for values. Some of the choicest productions from Nottingham, England, and St. Gall, Switzerland—the world's leading marts for Curtains—are represented in our magnificent stock. Buying by the thousand pairs direct from the best manufacturers at these central points makes a big difference in our original cost, and taking advantage of every cash discount reduces our cost to a minimum and enables us to quote prices that know no competition. That's the fact. Here are a few proofs:

SPAIN'S NAVAL STRENGTH.

Spain has at length disclosed her plan of campaign. If there is to be a naval conflict, the scene of action must be the Atlantic. Spain has decided on this as her first strategic move, much to the surprise and probable disappointment of her enemy. Spain will trust to the internal defenses of Cuba and to yellow fever to oppose the United States attack upon the island. She must have already decided to the conclusion that Cuba and Puerto Rico cannot be retained as part of Spain. She may indeed have decided to abandon them to their fate. Spain will force the fighting in the vicinity of the Canary Islands, where she is amassing her strength. The United States naval officers have been all along counting on the fighting being done on this side of the Atlantic. But Spanish strategy has outwitted them. Spain will fight near her own base of supplies. The United States will be forced to attack the enemy's navy in the water's off-shore territory. At which we are placed. In order to give us a position for defense, and with the same generalship exercised in the conduct of future affairs as she displayed in getting her two big cruisers out of harm's way may be able to almost indefinitely prolong the war. Then again this Government must protect its vessels, the battleship Oregon and the Marietta, which are now on their way round the Cape and must within the next twenty days pass the Spanish fleet, for which they are no match. Truly the administration is confronted by a problem that will take wise heads to solve.

Great Men and Life Insurance.

John W. Wainman, in giving his three reasons for being insured for over $1,500,000, says: "I take time by the forelock and in the day of prosperity prepare for the day of trial, whether it be mental, physical or financial. These reasons being valid, the companies yielded to his solicitation and granted the insurance. I believe that next to the agency of the organization of the Christian religion, this agency of life insurance has done the most good for the general welfare of mankind in all ages and in all countries."—Hon. Stewart L. Woodford.

"Can a Christian man rightfully seek life insurance?" asked Henry Ward Beecher. Then he answered it by saying, "Can a Christian man justify himself in neglect of such a duty?" In answer to the obligation to insure in protection of dependents, or as provision of old age.

THE GREAT EVENT OF THE WAR.

The attitude of the powers in regard to the war is of less importance and of less interest than the details of the war itself. The greatest event that has so far come to the front is not the issue of the ultimatum or the blockading of Havana. It is the decision of Great Britain to give the United States a free hand in the Cuban policy. If Great Britain had sided with the powers, the latter would have settled the Cuban question as they saw fit and not according to the views of the United States. Great Britain's negative or neutral attitude has saved the United States from a state which would not be much less humiliating than that which the latter has decreed for Spain. The Spanish-American war will be one of great historical importance. One effect it has destined to have is to force the Anglo-Saxons into a great and world-wide confederacy, and most likely sympathy of continents, Europe, and it is quite possible that the powers may yet interfere in the dispute and transfer it into one of supreme importance. In any event the war is bound to exert a powerful influence on the future relations of the great powers of the world.

THE BOOT AND SHOE STRIKE.

Toronto has had an unfortunate experience in the boot and shoe industry. Some years ago we had several large factories, but the labor unions insisted on a rate of wages to suit themselves, with the result that the factories gravitated to Montreal and Quebec, where a lower standard of wages prevailed. If the French-Canadians had been allowed to work for the same wages in Toronto as they gladly accepted in the Province of Quebec, this city would still have several prosperous boot and shoe factories. It seems now that the remnants of the industry that are still with us are to be driven out. The union is not dealing fairly with Toronto. We do not object to organized labor fighting for as high a rate of wages as it can command, but we do object to a unionism that favors one city as against another. The boot and shoe manufacturers who were driven out of Toronto would have had no complaint to make against the union if it had insisted on the same scale of wages for Quebec and Montreal as for Toronto, nor would there be any complaint among those who are interested in the strike to-day if uniform conditions prevailed all over the Dominion. It is the failure of the union to do justice to Toronto that causes the people of this city to view its conduct with more or less displeasure. The only object of the union's agitation so far in regard to the boot and shoe industry has been to decrease Toronto's population by several thousand individuals and to increase Montreal's by the same number.
