

EDITOR WILSON'S RESIGNATION TAKES EFFECT THIS WEEK

First Step in a New Movement in Newspaperdom in the City of Toronto—Is He to Be Head of an Independent Conservative Paper?—President Jaffray and Mr. Willison Decline to Be Interviewed.

don't wish to be interviewed. I have nothing to say." It is understood, however, that Mr. Willison sent a letter to President Jaffray tendering his resignation yesterday.

himself out of touch with certain leaders of his party and could without too severe a wrench pass over the line to the Conservative party. Negotiations are said to be on foot to gain control of another paper in Toronto and place Mr. Willison in control. The policy of the paper would be independently Conservative.

The World last night was unable to glean all the facts surrounding Mr. Willison's resignation, because of the unwillingness of the parties chiefly interested to talk.

It is stated on authority that cannot be impached that Mr. Willison's resignation has some kind of connection with a new move in newspaperdom in the city of Toronto. Mr. Willison was closely identified with that new movement. This and his resignation are the facts.

Mr. Willison was appointed editor-in-chief of The Globe in July, 1890, but his connection with that journal began several years before that date, in 1883, after an apprenticeship of one year on The London Advertiser.

At that time Father Brohman was asleep. He did not wake for some hours and he moved about in bed, he was unconscious and could not be roused. Rev. W. V. MARKED RELIGIOUS PROGRESS.

Detroit, Nov. 27.—A thanksgiving service in which Congregational, Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Jewish Universalist and Unitarian ministers participated in an event in the history of the community, and the services in the Detroit Opera House this morning had an historical interest wholly apart from their religious interest. Ten years ago such a service would have been frankly impossible in Detroit. It might have been impossible anywhere else in the United States.
