Mr. David Cornish acting as official referee. It has transpired since that the popular representative of No. 2 Ward had been practising in his own backyard for the past month. No wonder he has developed such a muscle. Great praise is due President Campbell and a number of the members for the excellent condition of the grounds in such a short time. Representatives from the Maple Leaf, Dominion Heather and Davenport Clubs were present and took part in a handicap game, which resulted as follows:

Protecting the Man.

In the Canadian game there is a provision to protect the man receiving the ball by restricting the advance of the tackler to within three yards of the man about to catch the ball until he has it safely within his grasp. The rules committee has said that the flying tackle must be abolished, but they have not hit on just the thing as yet to do it. Men who have been in close touch with football for a long time are wellnigh unanimous in the opinion that the only way to stop the flying tackle is to adopt the Canadian rule. It is more than likely that when the committee does its final work this three yard zone protection or something similar will furnish the solution of the problem.

The rule to prevent pulling and pushing of the man with the ball is a feature which was shown in the Canadian game at Van Cortlandt Park. There was none of this in the Rugby contest, and the adontion of the rule against it.

was none of this in the Rugby contest, and the adoption of the rule against it will eliminate the roughest characteristics of the American game.

Conflict is Apparent.

The two important changes made at the conclusion of the meeting at midnight Saturday, show an apparent conflict of ideas in the rules committee. The retention of the forward pass with the restriction behind the line of sortmage furnishes the idea that some of the rule makers are eager for the open game with all its frills, but have been checked somewhat. On the other hand, the change to an eight yard advance nport Clubs were present as a handicap game, which resulted as follows:

Civil Service Superannuation.

OTTAWA, May 2.—It is very probable that the government at next session will bring in a bill providing for the superannuation of civil servants of both the outside and inside service. The plan, which the senate committee has prepared and which has been endorsed by the upper house, is more liberal than the old act, which was repealed, inasmuch as it permits was repealed, inasmuch as it permits outside civil servants as well as widows and orphans of government employes to participate.

Wrestling at the Star.
"Shad" Link, the Baltimore Tiger, "Shad" Link, the Baltimore Tiger, who is meeting all comers on a "25 for 15 minutes" basis at the Star this week, is having the time of his life this week. "Shad" is no spring chicken and the youngsters in the heavyweight class are making him step lively to save the coin. They are no longer afraid of the "Tiger" and when he appeared at the Star yesterday to open his engagement, his body was a mass of half healed scars. That he is still "there" in the wrestling game was shown by the fact that his opponent yesterday afternoon, Harry Perry, a husky youth, only lasted three minutes. In the evening he took on Kil Cautley and he tossed him after ten minutes lively work.
